Control Plan Offered to U. S. Officials.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—An end to the days of spectacular deals on the nation's grain exchanges and a limit to the making of great fortunes by gambling on the weather and farmers' luck were seen here today. A code was submitted bringing all grain exchanges of the country under government control.

The grain men's code, presented by the Council of Grain Exchanges, on which all the principal grain marts are represented, was taken under advisement by George N. Peek, administrator of agricultural adjustment, and Frank Theis, processing and marketing administrator in the department of agriculture.

Strict Control Provided.

Bidden by the government to "set their house in order," the grain men have submitted a code which goes far toward meeting criticisms of their exchanges. The code provided for the setting up of a control committee which would enforce with great power the drastic terms of the pact. With representatives of all United States grain exchange as members, the committee will act on a nation-wide scale.

Among the powers given to this committee was one permitting it to set absolute limits of future holdings in grains beyond which no trader could go.

Specific rules for the requirement of percentage margins on future trading are set forth in the code, which also fixes permanently, subject to change only by formal action of the exchange committee with the approval of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, the maximum daily price fluctuations on grains.

"Hedging Trades" Protected.

The code provides, however, that the margin restrictions shall not apply to "hedging trades," used by elevators, millers, and others to offset their cash purchases of grain. "Spreading trades" also are exempted from the margin requirements, and trades which are offset by future trades in another grain or in provisions.

In this manner, according to the arguments presented on behalf of the grain exchanges by their attorneys, Weymouth Kirkland and Howard Ellis of Chicago, by Peter B. Carey, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, and other exchange officials, the halter of an interfering control is not put upon the necks of the traders, who are generally recognized as vitally necessary to the maintenance of an open market for the products of American farmers. The restrictions are aimed directly at the big gamblers, it was made plain.

Ascending Margin Rate.

Under the terms of the code the margins required for open contracts up to 250,000 bushels shall be 10 per cent of the market price. On open contracts up to 2,000,000 bushels the margin shall be 10 per cent on the first 250,000 bushels and 15 per cent on the remainder. The same margin rates are required on still higher contracts, except that on all bushels over 2,000,000 the rate shall be 20 per cent.

Drastic authority is given to the exchange managers to examine summarily "any and all books, records, contracts, accounts and papers" of any exchange member. This provision is intended to prevent reckless speculators from building great pyramids, holding millions of bushels of grain on one or the other side of the market in an effort to make a huge cleanup.

Recent Slump Recalled.

It was just such an instance, in which one speculator had bought millions of bushels of wheat and then fell into difficulties, which was held to have caused the disastrous tumbling of grain prices last month.

The code also fixed a 44 hour week for all "accounting, clerical, banking, office or sales employés," which, it is believed, will take in practically all employés on the various exchanges. A minimum wage for these employés was fixed at $15 weekly.

Hours of work for "factory or mechanical workers or artisans" were fixed at 42 per week, with a stipulation affecting all employés that the hours per week shall be averaged over a period of six months. The minimum

JUDGES ANSWER THREATS; SEND TEN TO PRISON

The judges of the Criminal court answered threats on their lives yesterday by sentencing ten more criminals to the penitentiary. Since the campaign against murderers and gunmen was inaugurated a week ago a total of 66 criminals has been sentenced to prison, several of them for life terms.

Judge Joseph B. David, one of the most active of the volunteer judges aiding in the crime drive, received the death threat in the mail yesterday morning. The letter named Judges Harry B. Miller and Rudolph Desort as the other jurists marked for death. Judge Miller presided over the recent murder trial of John Rooney, labor racketeer, and Henry [Hogan] Berry, his associate. Judge Desort last week sentenced John Lavac, a police slayer, to life in the penitentiary.

The death threat will only spur the judiciary to greater efforts, Chief Justice John Prystalski of the court announced last evening after a meeting with his associates.

Need More Judges.

"This campaign will continue unabated until the dockets have been cleaned up," said Judge Prystalski. "We could use the services of three or four more judges to fill in for judges who will have to sit in the civil courts next week.

"Most of the ten judges now sitting have agreed to stay on the job until the new criminal bench takes over the work on Sept. 5. Judge Walter LaBuy will start to work Monday and he will fill one of the expected vacancies. Two or three other volunteers will keep the courts going at top speed."

The letter containing the threat was unsigned. It was turned over to Capt. Daniel Gilbert of the state's attorney's office, who called in postoffice inspectors to help him hunt for the writer. The letter said:

"You won't send any more people to prison. When I get you I will shoot you and a few more judges. I will shoot you right in the back or throw a bomb in your car or your home. I don't care how much protection you have. I will get you if it takes a year.

Means What He Says.

"I will give you the habitual death act. That goes for Judge Desort and Judge Miller. Don't think this is a letter from a crank. It is from a man who means what he says. I have about fourteen murders to my credit."

The threatened judges did not take the letter seriously, but Capt. Gilbert said he would see that precautions are taken to guard the volunteer crime fighters against harm.

After reading the letter Judge David sentenced a robber to the maximum of 1 year to life and a Touhy gangster to the Bridewell for gun toting. Lester Brown, 23, was the robber sentenced. He held up Anne Connolly, 4641 North Paulina street, on March 24.

It was the Brown case which brought Policeman John Sevick to Judge Charles Molthrop's courtroom two weeks ago when John Scheck made his attempt to escape. Sevick tried to stop Scheck and was shot and killed. Sevick was the arresting officer in the Brown case.

Seized by Highway Policeman.

Jerry Ford was the Touhy gangster sentenced by Judge David. He gave Ford a three months' Bridewell sentence for having a gun when he was arrested by Highway Policeman Joseph Cantello. Judge David overruled a defense motion to suppress the evidence because Cantello had no warrant.

Two Criminal court juries made short work of four gun robbers last evening. A jury in Judge Benjamin Epstein's court required only five minutes to find Harry Miller, 25; his brother, Fred Miller, 27, and Robert Hamiel, 35, all colored, guilty of robbing Joseph J. Bouterse, 8032 Princeton avenue, a milk wagon driver. The trial took two days. Judge Epstein immediately sentenced the trio to 1 year to life each.

Morris Lovelace, 28, colored, was found guilty by a jury after fifteen minutes' deliberation in Judge Ross C. Hall's court. He, too, was sentenced to 1 year to life for robbing the jew-

Mrs. Eleanor Jarman, 29 years old, mother of two children, and George Kennedy, 28, both sought since Aug. 4 for the brutal murder of Gustav Hoeh during a robbery in his haberdashery store at 5948 Division street, were captured by police last night in a hideout flat at 6323 Drexel avenue.

Questioned at the Austin station, Kennedy early this morning admitted shooting the 70 year old merchant, but pleaded self-defense. The gun which killed Hoeh belonged to Hoeh, Kennedy asserted, and was discharged while they were struggling for its possession. Mrs. Jarman, known as the "blonde tigress," denied any participation in the actual robbery.

Accused by Third Robber.

To break up their stories Capt. Willard Malone of the Austin station, who personally led the raid resulting in their arrest, brought Leo Minneci, ex-pugilist, who was with Kennedy and Mrs. Jarman at the time of the shooting and who surrendered several days later, to confront the pair. Minneci has named Kennedy as the slayer.

"I went to the store with Kennedy and Minneci," said Mrs. Jarman. "One of them wanted to buy a shirt. I don't know which one. I was in the back of the store when I heard a shot, and I saw Minneci holding his hand. That's all I know about it."

Kennedy said that he and Mrs. Jarman went into the store and that he attempted a holdup. Hoeh, he continued, drew a gun and he struggled with the merchant for its possession. It was discharged, he said.

Stories Contradictory.

Minneci's story, police say, contradicts both Kennedy and Mrs. Jarman. Minneci told police he went to the store to buy a shirt and that Kennedy and Mrs. Jarman entered with him. Suddenly Kennedy drew a gun and announced a robbery, according to Minneci's story. Minneci declared he tried to seize Kennedy's gun to stop the holdup and was shot in the hand for his pains.

All fled together after the killing, and later separated. Minneci was taken into custody soon afterward. Police trailed Kennedy and Mrs. Jarman, and finally located them in the Drexel avenue flat, registered as Mr. and Mrs. Anderson. A dozen detectives, guns drawn, burst into their room. They did not resist. Four guns and a blackjack were found in the room.

War Thunder Rolls as Tokio Fights 'Enemy'

TOKIO, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Scenes and sounds of simulated warfare were loosed on Tokio today for the "spiritual education" of the 15,000,000 inhabitants of the metropolitan area as the navy and the army started a three day sham battle for possession of the capital.

The thunder of battle, joined with many of the attendant organizations and activities of actual fighting, served also as an impressive propaganda spectacle in behalf of a stronger navy and increased air forces.

Watch Foreign Officers.

An increasing watchfulness upon foreigners, especially military and naval officers, was exercised by the Japanese authorities as the mimic war progressed. Several foreigners were sharply questioned.

A girl watching one of the several air attacks from a roof had a fatal fall.

A naval plane coming from Yokosuka in a simulated night air raid made a forced landing near Shizuoka, about 85 miles southwest of Yokohama. None was injured.

By orders of the defending commanders lights in the capital were extinguished for two hours tonight, and the city was in darkness while air raiders roared overhead.

Sirens Scream Warning.

"Enemy" airplanes flew over the city three times during the day while sirens screamed a warning to the population. In the streets smoke bombs and vapors of many colors were exploded in representation of poison gas and incendiary shells.

Stretcher bearers in gas masks carried supposed wounded to emergency hospitals while anti-aircraft cannon and machine guns boomed and rattled from the public parks and the roofs of Tokio's big stores.

The defense problem assumed that the air raiders came from hostile battleships approaching Tokio bay from mid-Pacific.

Gen. Sadao Araki, minister of war, said the purpose of the war games was the "spiritual education of the people." The navy minister, Admiral Mineo Osumi, declared that the object was to demonstrate to the population what would happen if enemy aircraft penetrated the first line of the empire defense, the navy.

Topeka, Kas., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Dozens of department of justice agents were mobilized in Topeka tonight to start an investigation, which is expected to spread all over the United States, into the operations of a band of municipal bond forgers. Heavily involved in the case is the state treasury of Kansas, which holds several hundred thousand dollars of the bogus securities.

The amazing story of the operations of the forgers started to come out after Ronald Finney, youthful Emporia speculator, had been arrested and charged with uttering $20,000 of the forged bonds found in the National Bank of Topeka. It has been established, according to information given by Gov. Alf M. Landon, that Finney placed $329,000 of the fraudulent bonds in the state treasury deposits of state funds in banks controlled by his close relatives.

Troops Guard Treasury.

Tonight the office of State Treasurer Tom Boyd was being guarded by National Guardsmen, whose orders were to see that only accountants approved by the governor had access to the records. Members of the Kansas legislature have already demanded that impeachment proceedings be started against Boyd.

Warrants for men other than Finney, all prominent in financial and business circles, are expected at any time. S. M. Brewster, United States district attorney for Kansas, refused to tell who they were, but intimated broadly that Finney was only a tool in the hands of a nation-wide ring.

It was announced that brokerage houses in Kansas City, Chicago, and New York were checking their securities to determine whether they hold any of the forged securities.

Large Market Speculator.

Finney is said to have been a large speculator in grains and stocks and may have used the forged bonds to secure his brokerage accounts. One of the points under investigation is his withdrawal of $150,000 in bonds deposited with the state treasurer and his failure to return either the securities or the money.

The young speculator, who is now at liberty in bonds of $25,000, is a member of a family long prominent in Kansas banking. Three of their banks have been closed and the state banking commissioner today spurned an offer of W. W. Finney of Emporia, father of the young Napoleon, to pledge his $1,000,000 fortune to protect depositors if his Fidelity State and Savings bank of Emporia is allowed to reopen.

Bars Treasurer's Assistants.

Adjt. Gen. M. R. McLean, hastily summoned from Fort Riley, where the Kansas National Guard is in annual encampment, placed the state treasurer's office in charge of Capt. Chester Thomas. McLean and Gov. Landon directed that no clerk in the state treasurer's office be allowed access to the records pending completion of the investigation. The state accountant was checking the records under supervision of Capt. Thomas and officials of the National Surety company, which bonded Treasurer Boyd for $500,000.

Discovery of $329,000 worth of forged municipal bonds in the treasurer's vaults, within a few feet of the originals, owned by the state school fund commission, created a sensation among state officials. Young Finney, whose speculations have caused comment, due to his friendship with Treasurer Boyd, deposited the bonds on behalf of the Eureka State bank, in which Boyd deposited a large amount of state funds.

"I trusted Finney like a brother, and he lied to me," wailed Boyd when

Roosevelt Takes Hand

President Roosevelt was reported to have sent word to Cuba last night from his summer home at Hyde Park, N. Y., demanding the resignation of President Machado as the price of American help in restoring the island republic to economic health. The President was said to have made this demand during a long conference with Oscar Cintas, Cuban ambassador. Story on page 2.

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 9.—Cuba's turbulent political crisis appeared tonight to be rapidly drawing to a head. President Machado, striking without warning at the political enemies who are seeking to force him out of office, decreed that a state of war exists throughout Cuba and ordered the army to occupy Havana.

The first regiment of soldiers marched into the city this evening from Camp Columbia. They were stationed in the botanical gardens near Havana university. Guards were placed over all bridges leading out of Havana.

Defies U. S. Intervention.

The announcement that a state of war exists was made over the government radio by Secretary of State Orestes Ferrara, who had just returned today from the London economic conference. Ferrara said that all civilians must obey orders from soldiers and that radio stations are prohibited from broadcasting anything except music.

A curfew law was ordered into effect at 7 o'clock tonight. After that hour no one was to be allowed on the streets.

Ferrara in his announcement said that should there be armed intervention by the United States the Cuban government would resist to the last ditch. He added that from now on President Machado would not deal in any direct negotiations with American Ambassador Sumner Welles, who has been acting as mediator in the Cuban difficulties. Hereafter Ferrara will serve as intermediary, informing Machado of everything Welles has to tell him, and vice versa.

Pave Way for Machado to Quit.

Reports from the capitol late tonight said that congress had voted to grant President Machado a leave of absence for six months so that he can vacate his office and leave the island. Whether Machado will accept this is problematical.

Ambassador Welles today said he was simply "awaiting developments at the palace." He had received no reply to the proposal he submitted to Machado yesterday that he [Machado] take a long leave of absence.

In case the president should resign the succession goes to the secretary of state. The incumbent of this office, Ferrara, is disqualified, however, being a native born Italian. The president must be a native Cuban.

One suggestion is that Ferrara resign and be replaced as secretary of state by Carlos Manuel de Cespedes, former Cuban minister to Washington. Cespedes is said to be acceptable to the opposition, to the Machado government and to Washington. He has been nonfactional in Cuban politics since the opposition to the Machado régime began.

Havana a Dead City.

Meanwhile Havana, normally one of the gayest of capitals, is a dead city. Business and industry are paralyzed, stores and office buildings and wine shops are shuttered, work has suddenly ceased, and a stroll through the streets of the Cuban capital is the closest thing in the western world to a ramble through ancient Pompeii.

Since Monday the Pearl of the Antilles has been under military rule, with habeas corpus and other constitutional guarantees of citizen rights suspended. Rioting has broken out from time to time, with machine gunnery and a considerable toll of dead and wounded.

Representative Desiderio Arnaz today handed Ambassador Welles a message from opposition leaders in Santiago declaring that government forces under Capt. Larrubias, military supervisor of Oriente province, had killed 500 civilians in the province Monday at the celebration of the faked report that Machado had resigned. Definite figures are extremely difficult to obtain as the government is silent.

Background of Politics.

In the background of this dangerous situation loom complicated politics, too involved for a newcomer to grasp in one short day. They will be treated in later articles.

The national strike, which is proclaimed as an "economic and political revolution" by both sides, has unusual aspects. Rates of pay and hours of work, from time immemorial the usual issues in strikes, are not involved. Instead, the aim of the strike is political, its purpose being to apply pressure to bring about the retirement of President Machado.

The strike includes practically all workers, public employés, and many professional men throughout the island and a suspension of business in commercial establishments with the exception of the banks.

It is an application of the economic boycott to politics. Ambassador Welles since July 1 has sought to serve as mediator in this situation and to advance some program which would restore peace. He is still waiting and watching.

Lid on Night Life.

The famous night life of Havana has a military lid clamped on by the curfew, but most of the tourists departed days ago anyhow. Soldiers are patrolling all the highways leading from Havana into the interior of the island. Traffic from the Almendares river head, four miles west of the city, leading to Marianao, and the central highway to Pinar del Rio has been stopped and automobiles and pedestrians are unable to leave Havana for the interior. The reason is conjectured to be conditions in the interior, where army desertions were reported today, especially in Santa Clara.

One cause of the desertions is said to be the lack of government funds to meet the army pay rolls, which hitherto have been given first recognition when the government has been in funds. President Machado yesterday over the radio urged the army and the people to "stick together" and to resist any American intervention. This has caused some grumbling among the soldiers.

Among the political complications is the appearance of active communism besides the three regular political parties. These three parties are the Liberals, of which Machado is the head; the Conservatives, and the Populares.

Other Groups Active.

There are other groups which are active in the controversy. One is the ABC, a radical group of the Machado opposition. This group is largely made up of radical students and professional men, such as university professors, lawyers, and doctors. There is also a national communist party of Cuba supposed to be financed by funds from the third internationale at Moscow. It is composed mostly of foreign agitators and labor men and some students, and is reputed to have some influence in Cuba's organized labor.

To battle against this element the Machado government has set up as one agency the ABCR, the letter R standing for "radical." It is composed largely of strongarm workers in "La Porra," which form the core of the civilian force who are supporting Machado.

The Porra membership, according to charges of the opposition, has been increased by releasing great numbers of convicts and arming them.

Taxation a Great Factor.

Taxation is a great factor in the strike and passive revolution. The strikers appear fond of likening themselves to Mahatma Gandhi, although they wear more clothing. They have simply quit work, even though it means stopping eating, and the sole reason given is that they aim to apply political pressure to change not wages or hours and working conditions, but the government.

Havana today is tied up tighter than was Winnipeg in 1919 during the Canadian general strike. Coming here by plane, I saw only one ship entering the harbor. The regular boat from New York and other vessels were waiting out in the roadstead until the strike is over before entering port. Their cargoes could not be discharged now. The waterfront was paralyzed. Not a worker was on the job. The same condition was reported at all other ports on the island.

Mail Service Suspended.

Mail service has been suspended. The mail still comes in by boat and plane, but it has been piled up at the postoffice for the last four days with no employés to receive or distribute it. No stamps are to be bought at the postoffice and the building is under military surveillance.

Not a taxi is plying the streets. Everybody is using "shank's mare." The street cars are not running save for occasional cars used to shift companies of military and police from spot to spot. The Central railroad is silent. Last Sunday's trains are still on the tracks. They have not departed yet. The warehouses are closed and no one is working, while perishable merchandise is rotting in the cars. No ice, no beer, and only a little food is left in stock in Havana.

Garages are filled with cars whose owners are walking. No gasoline is on sale. Hotels are running short of provisions. Guests are almost on rations.

Business Houses Shuttered.

Walking along the streets one finds business houses shuttered. Restaurants have one door open and the chairs are on the tables. The cooks and waiters are all on strike. The great retail stores have a door open, but no clerks and no customers. Some are locked tighter than a drum.

Barber shops have their doors open, but the shutters are closed and the barbers are taking a rest. Buildings in which lawyers have their quarters are closed. Here and there some one is looking out of a window or sitting at a desk, but the professional class, like the rest, has quit work.

Doctors have struck at some of the governmental hospitals and are being replaced by other government doctors. The firemen have not struck and the electric light plants and the aqueduct for the water supply are under military guard. In the department of internal communications 5,000 persons have struck—telegraphers, postal clerks, mail carriers, and messenger boys—and communications within the island are at a standstill. Messages to the outside world are sent by the commercial cables.

Island Without Newspapers.

No newspapers are being published on the island—everybody has struck. Newspapers from outside come in with the regular mail, but are not distributed. Everybody is asking what is the latest news and the one question is, "How long is he going to stay?" This refers to President Machado.

Up at the palace hooded machine guns are on the roof and soldiers are on the watch. In the hotels few American tourists are left. Usually many of them are here at this time of the year, although it is not the big season. Guests are given privileges, of course, but in the wineshops and bars the thirsty traveler finds no ministering barkeeps. The Bacardi building, a marble palace, is closed.

The great social and fraternal Spanish clubs, some of which have memberships in excess of 50,000, have suspended social activities. The theaters are closed along with the movie houses and the great opera house and national theater. Not a place of amusement is running.

Police Break Up Gatherings.

On the streets men and women are walking and talking and loafing in passive resistance, although groups of three are not permitted if the police deem it may cause disorder. In the parks the police keep people moving and to sit down on a bench brings an order, often as not, to move on.

The Prado, which Havana is fond of comparing to Michigan avenue in Chicago and Fifth avenue in New York, is filled with citizens lolling under the spreading laurels. Today it is an avenue of indolence, all the shops that line it are closed, its marble benches are filled with clerks, lawyers, doctors and business men and the regular unemployed.

From the balconies Cuban housewives survey the scene. At the food markets the booths are all closed. Since Saturday no food has come into Havana—no meat, no fresh fish, no vegetables.

The question of milk for babies is beginning to perplex the city. None is being delivered, but some is being brought in from dairies on the outskirts of the city. The supply of condensed milk and of every edible is being drawn on heavily. The city is wondering when the stocks will be exhausted.

At 5 o'clock tonight a man with leathern lungs caused a small stampede in Obispo street by bellowing in Spanish: "Four eggs for 20 cents." He had only eight in his basket and by the time they got to the customers two of them were broken.

Natives Boycott Lottery.

To show how the "passive resistance" strike penetrates, the people since Sunday have stopped buying national lottery tickets. This usually is a favorite form of amusement in Havana, the Cuban being a natural born gambler. The lottery is run by the republic of Cuba, which sells weekly 25,000 tickets at $5 apiece, or a total of $125,000, of which 30 per cent, or $37,500, goes to the national treasury and 70 per cent, or $87,500, is distributed in the form of prizes. The high prize is $35,000 and all told there are 1,601 prizes distributed every Sunday. Tickets can be sold in one-hundredth parts. The natives have all gone into a strike against "lady luck."

The garbage collectors are not on strike. Neither are the white wings, so there is no danger of insanitary conditions from those directions.

In other cities throughout the island conditions similar to those in Havana are reported to prevail. The roads are deserted save for pedestrians and food stocks are rapidly diminishing. The army itself has large stocks at its bases, and in the case of a shortage can force open whatever reservoirs of food there might be.

Two Nations Protest to U. S.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—(AP)—It was made known authoritatively today that the Spanish ambassador and the British minister in Havana both complained to American Ambassador Welles concerning the treatment of their citizens and the damage to foreign property as a result of the striking and rioting in Cuba.

A message from Havana said the Spanish ambassador called on Ambassador Welles and discussed the killing of three Spanish citizens during the last three days. The ambassador was quoted as saying that two of the Spaniards had been killed by the police without having given any cause for such action.

Some 60 Spaniards in Havana were said by the ambassador to have been arrested on the pretext that they had refused to open the stores of which they are owners, the report said. The Spanish ambassador had protested in vain to Cuban authorities although he did succeed in securing the release of some of his fellow nationals, it was added.

The British minister discussed with Welles the damage which British property, especially British property in the interior of Cuba, has suffered as a result of the political upset.

Roosevelt Reported to Have Told Machado He Must Quit if U. S. Is to Help Cuba

BY JOHN HERRICK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 9.—President Roosevelt late today sent to revolution torn Cuba a message saying that the resignation of President Machado must be the price of American help in restoring the island republic to economic health.

The word was transmitted through the Cuban Ambassador, Oscar Cintas, who hurried to the President's summer home here from New York today for a lengthy conference. Late tonight the ambassador was informing his government of the President's demand that Cuba cease its political warfare and follow America's lead in waging a campaign on the depression.

Official statements carefully avoided any mention of President Machado, but unofficially it was reported that President Roosevelt's word to Ambassador Cintas was that the Cuban president must go. So long as President Machado remains there can be no united action on the economic front. This was the theory.

Roosevelt Issues Statement.

In return for Machado's resignation it was considered likely that President Roosevelt had made some offer of American assistance. This might be, it was thought, an offer to reexamine or perhaps cut the sugar tariff, which has worked such hardship on Cuba's chief industry.

At the conclusion of the meeting, President Roosevelt issued the following statement:

"The President and Ambassador Cintas discussed the Cuban situation, especially in its economic aspects. They feel that the problems of starvation and of depression are of such immediate importance that every political problem should be met in the most patriotic spirit in order to improve conditions at the earliest possible moment. The ambassador is communicating with his government."

Roosevelt Keeps in Touch.

The President kept in constant communication with the state department at Washington throughout the day, anxiously awaiting further word from Ambassador Sumner Welles at Havana. News that President Machado had declared the existence of a state of war throughout the island increased the apprehension here.

Early in the afternoon a naval plane from Washington landed at the New Hackensack airport, eight miles from the Roosevelt estate, bringing a state department attaché carrying the latest dispatches from Ambassador Welles and departmental documents and records bearing on the Cuban situation.

The President regards the crisis as one requiring the greatest delicacy if the American attempt at mediation is to do any good. Officially, no word has gone to Ambassador Welles except an urgent request that he proffer his good offices in an effort to bring the warring factions together.

Unofficially, but on the strength of reliable information, the word is that the Roosevelt administration is anxious to see President Machado out of office, and it is presumed that Ambassador Welles has been using every influence to bring about the result.

What complicates the situation from the President's point of view is the embarrassing necessity of taking action at a time when the administration is doing its utmost to establish friendly relations with Latin America. Repulsed by Europe at the London conference, the President and Secretary of State Hull have determined to embark on a series of trade treaties with South and Central American countries and have already begun negotiations with three countries. To act with too great zeal in the Cuban situation would mean endangering this work.

No Armed Intervention.

President Machado's strategy has capitalized the American predicament. The Cuban executive has already announced to his people that he will not be forced into retirement by foreign interference.

It can be said in the highest authority that to date there is no thought on the part of President Roosevelt of armed intervention. A state of widespread anarchy would have to prevail before force would be resorted to.

CHICAGO BRIDE AND MATE ARE SEIZED BY CUBANS; MISTREATED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CRISTOBAL, Canal Zone, Aug. 9.—How Cuban authorities at Puertovita detained three young Americans on suspicion that they were engaged in activities against President Machado and treated them with insolence and discourtesy was told today when the trio arrived here.

They are William A. Robinson, his bride, who was Florence Crane, daughter of Richard T. Crane of Chicago, and Robinson's cousin, Daniel T. West. They are aboard Robinson's 32 foot ketch, the Svaap, en route to the Galapagos islands.

When the Svaap anchored at Puertovita two weeks ago the Americans said, the militia detained them for four days. Most of their papers were seized, including their sailing papers. The victims decided to attempt an escape. After arranging sandbags around the deck in case they were attacked, they pulled out for Panama under auxiliary power while their guards were dining on shore. The soldiers fired, but the Svaap was soon outside range and cleared to the sea. Mr. Robinson said he plans to protest through the American legation here.

FORMER CUBAN ENVOY THROWS HAT IN RING; SEEKS PRESIDENCY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Spain, Aug. 9.—Promising a "new deal" for Cuba if he becomes provisional president to succeeding Gerardo Machado, and predicting that his contemplated reform will revolutionize Latin American governmental systems, Mario Garcia Kohly tonight prepared to leave for Havana tomorrow by way of Cherbourg.

Although denying that he has specific information that he is slated for the presidency, Garcia Kohly, who resigned yesterday as Cuban ambassador here, was frankly optimistic over his chances.

The 59 year old diplomat proposes to give Cuba a new constitution which will take much power from the president. He feels that most Latin American republics are misgoverned because their limited states are modeled on constitutions that are not adaptable to Latins.

DE VALERA TAKES STEP TOWARD IRISH REPUBLIC

BY HUGH CURRAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Aug. 9.—A new move bringing nearer the realization of an Irish republic was made by President Eamon de Valera tonight at the last sitting of the dail eireann before the summer recess.

The government introduced three bills vitally amending the Free State constitution and curtailing the rights of the British crown. Their effect would be virtually to abolish the office of governor general and drop all contact with the crown in the government of the Free State.

Purpose of Bills.

The bills are designed to deprive the governor general, as representative of the crown, of functions for which money is to be appropriated, to deprive the governor general of the right to withhold the king's assent to bills, and to abolish the right of appeal from the supreme court of the Irish Free State to his majesty in council.

It is believed there is no doubt that the bills will be passed by the dail but their fate in the senate is less certain. The senate can still hold up measures for 18 months if it desires.

Buckley Now Governor.

Since the resignation of James McNeill as governor general the office has been held by Donal Buckley, a member of De Valera's party.

Meanwhile Owen O'Duffy reaffirmed today his intention of leading his blue shirted "national guard" in a parade Sunday in memory of Michael Collins, Arthur Griffith, and Kevin O'Higgins, martyred Irish patriots. It was reported tonight that De Valera would officially ban the demonstration, in which case a clash is believed inevitable. O'Duffy claims he will have 25,000 blue shirts in the parade.

Park Seawall Repairs Wait on Tax Collections

Lincoln park commissioners took a cruise along the lake front yesterday afternoon to inspect the bulkheads in the sea wall. Alfred D. Plamondon, president of the board, said many places were damaged and in need of repair, but that they would have to stay that way until the commissioners obtained some money from taxes to pay park employés and creditors.

TELLS OF A NEW HOLLAND AND A NEW GERMANY

Col. McCormick Portrays Background of Naziism.

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BERLIN, Aug. 9.—By night boat from Harwich, pronounced as though the "w" were a second "r," to the Hook of Holland on a boat almost as modern as Lake Erie boats, running water and beer on draft. A full company shows that the rubber pound has not destroyed the Englishman's love for travel, but dark ships at anchor with smokeless funnels indicate that trade is not what it used to be.

Holland is an eye opener to a recent reader of "Peter Stuyvesant" and "The Fall of the Dutch Republic." It is perhaps the most modern country in the world, more modern in some ways than New Amsterdam, a modern atlas in architecture.

Holland Easily Described.

Holland is easily described. Amsterdam, Rotterdam and their suburbs, beautiful suburbs like our own with the slums left out. At least I saw none. From Rotterdam through Delft to The Hague to Amsterdam and on to the German border, an unending line of fine country houses, the only abominations being city structures, with mile upon mile of lawns, of gardens, of plantations.

In the country the canals are parked, in the city they are built of noble masonry. They serve a threefold purpose—drainage of the soil, transportation and national defense. They are used by craft of all kinds from garbage boats to yachts.

Top hats still exist, but are not used for their original purposes but on bicycle paths. And they are needed. The country swarms with bicyclers. In our bicycle era the volume of traffic was small compared with Holland's swarms.

Little Unemployment.

I was proudly told that there is little or no unemployment in Holland. To believe my eyes there was nothing else but. The whole population seems to be playing, awheel in a motor car, fishing, bathing or refreshing itself in quaint waterside restaurants. Automobiles are of the road lice variety as in England and for the same reason—extortionate taxation. The tricks there are as modern as our own.

Life is taken easily in this storehouse of vast wealth. If it is true that Napoleon stripped Holland to its last gulden we may be encouraged to think that we, too, can come back in a hundred or more years.

Short of the border we stopped to supply the ladies of the party with cigarets, which are not obtainable in Germany. A luxurious café overlooking the Rhine with a great bathing establishment opposite. I take a final look at the Dutch. Squat and stolid? Tush. I might be in Brighton or Madison, Wis. Advertising and the movies have standardized dress—so I think.

"Going Into Germany?"

"Going into Germany?"

More than a question in that rising inflection. He circulates among his patrons. Faces are turned our way, heads nodding, whispers. The beer is good and the sun is shining, but not warmly as before. Something of the atmosphere of fifteen years ago has returned. Going into Germany? Yes, going into Germany.

At the border we find no passenger cars but several trucks waiting for examination, their drivers plainly uneasy. We cross our Rubicon and wait for authorities dressed in the Nazi uniform; brown coal drivers' hats, brown shirts and belts with a camera strap over the shoulder in what is a silly imitation of Sam Browne belts, not quite so silly brown riding breeches and a pair of great boots suitable for goosestepping and spurs indicating a herr.

Given Nazi Salute.

The examinations are expeditious and polite. When I received back my passport and bowed to take my leave every man present gave us the Nazi salute. It is an extreme gesture which only the fanaticism of the givers can save from the ridiculous. I received and saw thousands upon thousands of these salutes during my stay, but they were never given with any appearance of absurdity.

In the car again driving along the road like mad. Our chauffeur was a world war ace and drives as well as Bill Bockelman—which is praise indeed. I am avid for impressions.

The countryside is the same. The Rhine does not change. Now we pass a cyclist, a pedestrian, a farm wagon, some horses. Unmistakably person for person the people are less well dressed, the wagons and trucks of a cheap variety. I am not sure if we passed any automobiles the first day, but from Munster to Brandenburg, part of the time over Napoleon's Romanlike military road, smooth as a boulevard, we met not one.

Driver Boasts of Germans.

But I am ahead of my story. As we passed into a deep forest of tall trees our driver broke silence with "This is Teutoburger Wald," and, with a rising inflection, "where the Germans destroyed the Roman legions." I thought he was not so much imparting information as uttering a boast. Later, at Potsdam, when he repeated the words Napoleon is reported to have said at Frederick the Great's tomb, "If you were here I would not be," and added a new line, "You were a better man than I," I was sure of it.

Before dark we reached Munster, the city of churches. There are dozens of them. Has there always been a surplus of labor? It was used by Egyptians to pile up pyramids, by the Romans to erect arches and lay out roads, in the dark ages to build cathedrals, and today to erect dams where nobody can use them. It may well be so. But why is work always carried on where it does the least good?

Many Storm Troopers.

Afoot and strolling around town we became conscious of storm troopers, many walking fast through the evening throngs, some standing at one post, many young ones with girls on their arms. Faute de mieux the frauleins favor the volunteer. Numbers of them! No garrison town ever held such a percentage. I remember Macaulay's saying that revolutionary governments always need more troops to uphold them than a legitimate one.

Regular police were doing all the routine duties. We sensed the tenseness in the air and kept passports ready, but no one interrogated the strangers.

The rest of the day we sped mile after mile through fields of ripened grain. Westphalia is the granary of Germany. I might say, Kansas and Dakota please copy. Stalks averaging five feet high, growing twice as many to the acre as in the home of progress. The ears appeared of normal size. The crop staggered me, and I constantly urged Sigrid Schultz, THE TRIBUNE'S correspondent in Germany, to cable home about this bumper crop as the most important news of Germany to the corn belt. That reminds me we saw no corn. It does not ripen in Europe, but why not in this heat, I cannot imagine.

Counts Only Three Binders.

I counted only three binders manufactured by my distinguished cousins. Little or no technocracy here. Most of the grain was cut by plain mowers or scythes with and without cradles. Germans have retained the right to earn their bread by all the possible sweat of their brows and there is equality of opportunity for women in the harvest fields binding the sheaves, making the shocks, loading the wagons, all by hand.

The only tractor seen was running a thresher. Lack of private capital is everywhere evident. Beasts of burden of all kinds were insufficient. There were ox teams in the field, an ox and horse harnessed together, a single horse hitched to a pole or a pair of horses pulling two wagons. The day was an object lesson of what we may look forward to when the government has syphoned our private wealth as Germany has been drained.

Tea at Braunschweig.

We had tea at Braunschweig, which Bismarck annexed in 1866, deposing its duke, to whose disinherited son the recent kaiser married his daughter, a master stoke of diplomacy in the recent world of princelings. And we lunched at Hildesheim with its quaint hall of the Batelier guild. It is a thousand year old church with a thousand year old rose bush growing on it. The church is Romanesque and reminds my wife of Barcelona.

Some other resemblance challenges my memory. What is it? What, I wonder. Yes, it is the rose bush. In Barcelona there is a 500 year old grape vine growing over the bishop's palace—built of tombstones from a Jewish cemetery destroyed by the inquisition. I am writing this as we are driving near to Berlin and the problem of this new inquisition.

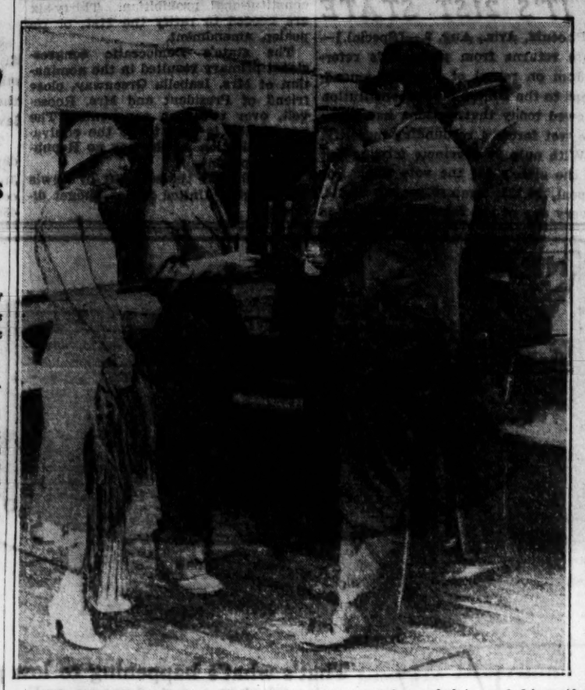
American Writer Home from Mallorca



Theodore Pratt, American writer (second from left), and his wife as they were interviewed in Boston upon their return from Mallorca, Spanish island, where Pratt had trouble "worse than the inquisition" following publication in a magazine of an article about the place. He was not deported, but said life was made so unpleasant for him he was glad to leave. [Associated Press Photo.]

U. S. TAX LIEN OF $1,908,939 AGAINST MR. WILLIAM FOX

New York, Aug. 9.—[Special.]—A tax lien for $1,980,939.46 was filed in the federal court today against William Fox of 270 Park avenue. John S. Shea, deputy collector of internal revenue in the Third district, filed the lien. It represents an additional assessment on incomes received in 1929 and 1930.

The assessment is $1,768,696 and the lien represents this sum plus interest of $212,243.46.

Warren M. Caro, in charge of the legal affairs of the former film producer in the absence on vacation of Benjamin Reass, said 270 Park avenue is one of Mr. Fox's addresses. Mr. Caro had heard nothing, however, about a tax lien.

FRENCH EXPAND WATCH ON RHINE; FEAR NAZI RAIDS

Troops Moved to Advance Positions on River.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 9.—Influenced by renewed tension along the Franco-German frontier, caused by the German rebuff to the Franco-British protest over Nazi activities in Austria, France has strengthened her watch on the Rhine.

Since last Monday detachments from the garrison at Mulhouse in Alsace have been moved to advanced positions along the bank of the river, which in this part of upper Alsace previously was patrolled only by revenue men and gendarmes.

The movement of the troops is attributed to the repeated demands of the civilian population for adequate protection against Nazi raids across the border. The demands grew out of an incident last spring at the bridgehead town of Huningue when a mob of Nazis, some of whom were said to be carrying arms, swarmed toward the French end of the international bridge and menaced French guards.

Three New Garrisons.

Three new garrisons have been established along the banks of the Rhine at Huningue, Kembs, and Champe. At the last named place the troops had merely to occupy the fortified position recently completed, representing one of the last links in the mighty chain of steel and concrete which France has stretched across its eastern frontier.

At Huningue international treaties forbid France to establish any fortified works owing to the proximity of the Swiss border. The troops there will mount guard over the pontoon bridge across the Rhine.

Military authorities declare the move is designed to maintain calm on this section of the border, which hitherto, owing to the absence of any armed forces, offered temptation to any unruly spirits across the river who might feel tempted to make a demonstration on French soil.

Friction in Saar Continues.

In the meantime friction continues in the Saar valley and along the Belgian frontier. The French press today gave attention to a document forwarded to headquarters at Geneva by the Saar league of nations' government commission emphasizing the unsatisfactory reply by the German government to the complaint of the Saar commission over an incident which occurred two months ago.

Comments on the note reveal that a German police inspector named Tentholet arrived at the Saar frontier with an escort of 300 armed Nazis. He then proceeded by motor to the capital, Saarbrucken, and ordered the chief of the Saar police to put an end to communist propaganda which had been leaking out of the territory into Germany. The visit was unauthorized and unexpected, it is declared.

The Saar government note refutes the German government's claim that this did not constitute a violation of the Saar territory's sovereignty and informs Geneva that the commission felt it necessary to address a second note to Berlin demanding that police officials responsible for the incident be punished.

The Belgian press is excited by the arrest of a Belgian for harboring a German Socialist refugee. He was arrested on a visit to Aix la Chapelle and is being kept in prison as a hostage for the extradition of the German refugee.

Nazis Search Swiss House.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

BASEL, Switzerland, Aug. 9.—Four uniformed Nazi storm troopers yesterday searched the house of a Swiss watchman on the Swiss side of the hydroelectric dam over the Rhine near here. They suspected the watchman of smuggling communist literature into Germany. The Swiss government is expected to protest the invasion. The Swiss guard along the German frontier has been strengthened.

1ST ENLISTED YANK IN WORLD WAR DIES JOBLESS IN BOSTON

Boston, Mass., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—The first American to enlist in the world war, Harry Cushing Collins, died today in a rooming house.

Decorated by the French government for saving the life of a colonel, awarded a gold medal by King Peter of Serbia for valorous service, Mr. Collins had been unemployed for four years and died in poverty.

A graduate of Harvard in 1912, he left this country soon after for a European tour. He finally settled in Rouen, France, where he opened a school and taught English and German. On the day France entered the war he hurried to Paris to enlist, but was rejected because he was a foreigner.

For a time he planned to organize a French "Rough Riders" troop and gathered together twenty-six young Americans eager to volunteer for France. The group soon joined the French Foreign legion.

Mr. Collins was the first to sign his name, thus acquiring the distinction he treasured to his death. He saw service at the Dardanelles, in Greece, Belgium, Alsace, Serbia, and France. There he fought in the "big push" on the Somme. He was wounded twice and gassed once.

ARREST PILOT FOR G. F. HARDING OVER LOW FLYING

J. J. Harrigan, 45 years old, 1962 East 71st place, aviator employed by former County Treasurer George F. Harding, was arrested yesterday on a charge of flying Mr. Harding's plane low in the vicinity of the Chicago Beach hotel and the Harding home at 4853 Lake Park avenue.

Deputy Sheriff A. Goldsmith, who witnessed the flight, swore to the complaint. Harrigan was arrested by Goldsmith and Deputy Sheriff C. A. Kohler, personal aviator to Sheriff William D. Meyering.

At the Grand Crossing police station Harrigan was released on bonds of $50.00 pending a hearing Aug. 16 in the State street court.

NAZIS HIT JEWS, REDS, LIBERALS AND ARISTOCRATS

Act to Enforce Obedience to New Regime.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 9.—Aristocrats who criticize the Nazi government were called to order at Stuttgart today and warned to keep in step. Gen. von Piechnann, aged chairman of the Association of Württemberg Officers, was ousted from his post by Nazi authorities for his remarks about the new government.

An official bulletin pointed out that the general was spared from arrest on account of his advanced age, but that authorities would act with great severity in other cases.

Württemberg has taken strong measures to counteract what it feels to be a reawakening of liberal tendencies. It has arrested several architects for sabotage and for failing to respect the building law. Authorities also threaten to arrest any Nazis if they allow the Nazi creed to be contaminated.

250 Reds Seized.

The Nazis also turned their attention to Communists again today. In Brunswick province police announced that the revival of communist activity has been definitely ended. Raids in two days have netted 250 arrests, of which 60 have already been tried and sentenced to prison terms of from one month to six years.

At Hamburg, Wilhelm Volck, a communist who killed a policeman on Feb. 28 in a riot, was beheaded.

On the other hand about half of the political prisoners at Stuttgart's concentration camp have been released, leaving 400. The men were freed on probation and threatened with dire punishment if they failed in obedience of the government.

Unemployment Drops.

Unemployment appears to be on the wane in Germany. Koenigsberg, East Prussia and nearly 40 other districts reported that all their unemployed have resumed work, reducing the number of idle to 4,468,000 as of Aug. 1, according to the official organ of the German labor front, Der Deutsche. This is the lowest figure since March, 1931, and represents a drop of 2,500,000 in six and one-half months of Chancellor Hitler's rule.

Some economists, however, are skeptical. They point out that the number of workers recorded as newly employed in connection with the compulsory illness insurance is not as high as the official figures of new employment.

The campaign against Jews continues. Prussia has ruled that Gentiles married to women with 25 per cent Jewish blood are not to be allowed in the civil service. Doubtful cases will be decided by racial experts in the ministry of interior.

In the bathing resort of Norderney posters have been put up saying "A German woman does not dance with a Jew." In Weener in Frisia a Jewish banker who had beaten his apprentice was marched through the streets escorted by storm troopers and carrying a poster saying "I manhandled my apprentice, a member of the German race."

Jews Expelled from Resort.

Seven Jews on a holiday on the island of Juist were expelled to the mainland because a swastika sign had been defaced. The latest visitor from Munich says that one of Hitler's first score of supporters built a sand fortress, as is customary at German watering places, and adorned it with a swastika. In the morning the swastika was found defaced.

Meanwhile, George S. Messersmith, United States consul general, called the attention of the ministry of interior to the fact that no report has been made to him regarding the assault on Philip Zuckerman of New York on July 16 at Leipzig.

HUTTON AND AIMEE DECIDE ON TRY OUT AT RECONCILIATION

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 9.—(AP)—While film players are trying trial engagements and trial separations, Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton and her vaudeville singing husband, David, today came forward with the trial reconciliation.

They said they would forget Hutton's suit for divorce, declare a truce, and see what happens.

Jerome Mayo, Hutton's attorney, said the singer and evangelist learned at a meeting yesterday in a downtown hotel that Angelus temple difficulties and not personal problems were at the bottom of their estrangement.

"Sister Aimee and Dave have ironed out their difficulties," said Mayo. "Now, each feeling only friendliness and affection for the other, they are trying out their reconciliation to see if it will work."

Mayo announced Hutton was preparing to leave tomorrow for San Francisco to continue his vaudeville appearances and that Mrs. McPherson would depart at the same time to conduct a series of evangelical meetings in the middle west.

"If during their weeks of separation they find they like the idea of a permanent reconciliation, we'll dismiss Dave's suit," said Mayo. "In fact, we'll dismiss it any time Sister Aimee likes, for that matter.

"In case the trial reconciliation really 'takes' and they go back together again, they will take a home away from the temple and live their own lives as Mr. and Mrs. Hutton, with the evangelist continuing her work, if she sees fit, and Hutton continuing his."

MARSHAL ABOARD BLUENOSE AS IT SAILS AFTER SUIT

The Bluenose, international champion fishing schooner, was allowed to go about its business of carrying passengers last night with Deputy United States Marshal Otto Webb aboard. Earlier in the day the vessel was seized by the government on a writ of attachment obtained by Addison Stillwell, wealthy Chicago lumberman and sportsman.

The attachment was issued by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson pending disposal of a $5,000 damage suit brought by Stillwell. The complainant charged that he and his guests had been forced to quit the vessel after chartering it for a cruise because of the "disagreeable, discourteous and unpleasant" acts of the crew. These indignities, according to the suit, were part of a campaign to clear the boat of passengers because the captain had received a more lucrative offer.

Under the admiralty law a writ of attachment is issued automatically with filing of such a suit, and the defendant may regain possession of the ship by posting a bond twice the amount of the damages sought. Attorney Robert Branard Jr., representing Stillwell, agreed that the boat might make the chartered trip last night if the owners of the schooner would agree to post the $10,000 bond today.

Deputy Marshals Webb and Joseph O'Neil reported a strange reaction of the schooner's skipper, Capt. Angus Walters, when the latter was served with the attachment writ. Capt. Walters is said to have burst into a loud guffaw after looking at the document.

"This is what I call a very good joke," Walters said, "especially coming from a gentleman like Mr. Stillwell. I am not worried, but I believe Mr. Stillwell will be a very sick man before this is all over."

AWARD $87,665 CONTRACTS FOR 11 HIGH SCHOOLS

Trustee Savage Assails Foes of Economy.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

The school board awarded contracts totaling $87,665 yesterday for the conversion of eleven junior high schools into senior high school plants in order to provide comfortable housing for thousands of pupils next fall. In the action taken and in their speeches the ten school trustees who voted for the economy program held to their plans despite an organized protest against the retrenchments.

After the contracts had been awarded Trustee Joseph P. Savage, a Republican, rose to his feet and faced the 300 teachers and others packed into the meeting room in the Builders' building at La Salle street and Wacker drive.

Savage Assails Critics.

"The persons who have been fighting the school board," asserted Trustee Savage, "have been telling the public that it would cost more than $800,000 to put this plan into effect. They are people who think they know more about the school system than the officers who run it. They have the audacity to claim that this board does not have a deficit and doesn't need to economize.

"Go back and tell the parents that in the fall, when the schools open, 10,000 elementary pupils will have a full day of schooling instead of a half day; that 14,000 senior high school students will have full time instead of part time instruction, and that we're doing away with 300 portables in which children roasted in the summer and froze in the winter."

Crowd in Good Humor.

While Trustee Savage talked there were interruptions from applause and laughter by the crowd, but for the most part the meeting was in marked contrast to the tempestuous session two weeks ago, when a glass paneled door was shattered in the crush. Once Savage said "I prophesize."

"Prophesize! Prophesize!" chanted the crowd.

"I'm going to prophesy," continued Trustee Savage, "that you can spread all the propaganda you want to, but the parents who send their children to the public schools will know the truth."

"Good," said several persons, and the crowd applauded.

Answers Foe of Economy.

Mrs. Hefferan, the lone school board member who voted against the program, demanded to know about the bidders. Upon the motion of Trustee Ernst Buehler, vice president of the board, all the bids were read into the record.

"I am anxious to hear the list of bidders," said Mrs. Hefferan, "not because I'm making any accusations. I only heard the name of one new bidder. All the rest have been bidding for the board's business for the last six years. I'm not accusing anybody, but it seems to me there might have been something of a huddle."

"Mrs. Hefferan," replied James B. McCahey, president of the board, "you must realize that the bids were advertised for in the newspapers and everybody had a chance to come in."

John C. Christensen, architect for the school board, reported that the $87,000 expenditure includes everything in the conversion plan along the lines recommended by Supt. William J. Bogan. He declared that nothing the superintendent had asked for had been left out.

The architect reported to Mr. McCahey several days ago that there was a quantity of laboratory sinks, tables, chemicals, and other technical equipment in stock, and that expenditures along this line would be small.

List Successful Bidders.

While the crowd waited for the trustees to convene the report spread that they were holding a "secret" meeting in the president's office. The rumor was squashed, however, when the teachers' champion, Mrs. Hefferan, came out of the office with the other trustees and went into the meeting.

A list of the successful contractors and the work to be done on each of the former junior high schools follows:

Schools Ready in 30 Days.

The contracts call for the work to be completed within 30 days in order that the new senior high schools will be ready for the school children when they return from their summer vacation on Sept. 18.

Howard P. Savage, business manager of the school system, presented a report showing economies effected in his department during the last two years. He compared the retrenchments with those recommended in the $100,000 survey of the Chicago schools by George D. Strayer of teachers' college, Columbia university, made public a year ago. The comparison indicated savings in excess of the Strayer recommendation.

Near the end of the meeting Mrs. Hefferan said she had heard reports that the board had hired a press agent without her knowledge and that he was censoring information. The person referred to is Harry Read, former city editor of Hearst's Chicago American. Mrs. Hefferan demanded that henceforth all information should be given out by the business manager. Her motion did not receive a second.

Later Trustee Buehler told reporters that a great deal of erroneous information regarding the economy program had been given out by unauthorized persons and it had been decided to have one authorized and central source.

"Tug" Wilson Accepts Post.

The board received a letter from Kenneth G. "Tug" Wilson, director of athletics at Northwestern university, accepting the invitation of the school trustees to reorganize the physical education department of the system along the lines of reduced forces ordered by the economy program.

The trustees also voted to excuse all school civil service employés from work on Aug. 23, which is civil service day at the World's Fair.

ITALIAN FLYERS NEAR HOME

TEACHERS HOLD TWO MEETINGS IN FIGHT ON ECONOMY MOVE

School teacher committees of the Save Our School group were busy last evening urging parents and voters to oppose the economy program of the school board trustees. Meetings were held at Winnemac park, Foster and Damen avenues, and at Windsor hall, 433 North Laramie street, and some 200 men, women, and children, were present at each.

At the Winnemac park meeting the group took an oral pledge to back opposition to the present cuts. Among the speakers who charged that politics and a "plot" on the part of national bankers to restrict education in the United States, was responsible for the action of the Chicago school board, were Barratt O'Hara, attorney, and John Fewkes, one of the leaders of the teachers' protest group.

The speakers also charged that the changes necessary to put the economy plan into effect would nullify its sole benefit—reduction in expenses. Similar speeches were made at the Windsor hall meeting.

The Winnemac park meeting, which was held in the open air, was cut short by rain.

BULLETS RIDDLE MILK TANKS ON 2 NEW YORK ROADS

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Striking milk producers resorted to violence in two instances today, the ninth day of the New York state "milk holiday," sending bullets through six tank trucks on the road in Oneida county and braving barrages of tear gas in Broome county to dump milk.

The day otherwise was marked in general by a decrease in belligerence.

Gov. Herbert H. Lehman's proposal for a legislative investigation of the state milk control board was defeated in the Republican controlled assembly today by a strict party vote.

Schenectady today received, under heavy guard, milk from Wisconsin, Indiana, and Ohio, the state health commissioner authorizing admission of the shipments. City police guarded delivery wagons. Amsterdam, 17 miles away, was without milk, save for children and invalids, for the third day.

When the milk trucks were fired upon near Camden the drivers said the attackers lay like soldiers in roadside ditches and blazed away at the tank cars as they roared past. At Watertown the trucks were described as "bullet riddled."

POLICE ORDERED TO BEGIN WEARING UNIFORM SHIRTS

Chicago police will appear on the streets this morning in the new blue shirts that have been designated by Commissioner of Police Allman for uniform wear. The police were notified three weeks ago to purchase the regulation shirts at The Fair store. Yesterday an order went out directing the police to don the new shirts this morning.

The order was protested by some members of the force. Some declared that, with their pay ten weeks in arrears, they had no money to buy new shirts. Others said the shirts could be bought cheaper at stores other than the one designated.

"I notified the department to buy shirts at The Fair store so that all shirts would be alike and meet the department specifications," said Commissioner Allman. "Officials of The Fair told me that they would sell the shirts to the policemen at cost. After each man has a shirt meeting the specifications he can buy his replacements anywhere he wants to, so long as the shirts meet department requirements."

BALBO'S FLYERS REACH PORTUGAL; ONE PILOT KILLED

Plane Upsets as Armada Leaves Azores.

LISBON, Portugal, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Twenty-three seaplanes of the Italian trans-Atlantic air squadron arrived here this afternoon from the Azores, where on the departure early this morning the twenty-fourth ship of the armada overturned, resulting in the death of one member of its crew and injuries to three others.

Gen. Italo Balbo, leader of the expedition which now has crossed and recrossed the Atlantic, was in the first of three groups to descend on the River Tagus. His flagship settled on the water at 2:30 p. m. G. M. T. [9:30 a. m. Chicago daylight saving time], amid the cheers of a welcoming throng which included many Italians.

Three of the seaplanes had remained behind at Ponta Delgada, in the Azores, to care for the crew of the wrecked ship, but they were soon also on their way eastward and rejoined the main body at its moorings one hour and fifteen minutes later. The armada has now only one more leg to complete on its homeward trip to Orbetello, near Rome.

Craft Turns Over.

Lieut. Enrico Squaglia, relief pilot of the plane commanded by Capt. Celso Ranieri, was drowned when this craft turned over as the part of the armada at Ponta Delgada was taking off. The captain and Radio Sergeant Aldo Boveri and Motor Sergeant Luigi Cremaschi were injured in the accident, but apparently not seriously.

(One man was killed at Amsterdam when the Italian armada landed there in completing the first leg of its flight to A Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago. Otherwise the expedition has been free of grave incidents until today.)

The seven hills of Lisbon were thronged with sightseers to welcome the Italian planes on their arrival, for which plans for an elaborate reception had been made.

Officials Meet Balbo.

An official delegation including the minister of marine and the Italian minister met Gen. Balbo and his companions when they stepped ashore. The general reviewed a guard of honor and was greeted with wild enthusiasm by a crowd which filled Black Horse square.

Because of fog which prevailed here this morning special radio directions were sent out from Lisbon to guide the Italian flyers as they approached the continent.

French Flyers to Get $52,800.

RAYAK, Syria, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Maurice Rossi and Paul Codos are due to receive a million francs from a grateful government for bringing the world nonstop distance flight record to France.

The prize, which now is worth about $52,800, was offered by the air ministry, to be paid at the end of 1933, provided the mark stood that long, but the aviators have received indications their nation is so enthusiastic over their exploit that the sum may be paid immediately.

Rossi and Codos arrived here Monday after flying nonstop from New York, about 500 miles further than the previous record. They plan to fly their silvery monoplane, the Joseph Le Brix, to Marseilles, France, tomorrow.

Dismantle Polish Plane.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HARBOR GRACE, Newfoundland, Aug. 9.—The plane in which the two Polish brothers, Benjamin and Joseph Adamowicz, cracked up here yesterday when landing after a flight from New York was being dismantled today. It will be taken to St. John's and shipped to New York.

Neither of the brothers nor their assistant pilot, Emil Birgen, was seriously injured, and they worked today at the dismantling. They announced their contemplated trip to Warsaw will be abandoned until next year.

OLD PROHIBITION BUREAU GETS NEW LEASE OF LIFE

Roosevelt's Order Is Countermanded.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—On his own initiative, Assistant Prohibition Administrator John S. Hurley tonight countermanded President Roosevelt's executive order eliminating the present prohibition bureau and substituting new dry law enforcement machinery on a greatly reduced scale.

The President's order was automatically effective tomorrow. In a telegram dispatched to prohibition administrators throughout the country late today, however, Mr. Hurley instructed that the regional prohibition bureaus "continue to function as at present until further notice."

Mr. Hurley said he had taken the action without consulting either Attorney General Cummings or Prohibition Administrator Dalrymple. Nor, he stated, had he conferred or discussed the step with any other official of the justice department.

Hurley Explains.

"I sent the order entirely on my own initiative," Mr. Hurley declared. "I felt it would be only sensible to make sure we have a force if the new enforcement setup is not approved tomorrow. Thus far, neither the attorney general nor the President has signed the order creating the new bureaus and I don't even know the status of the order at present."

The order creating the new agency to replace the present bureau was taken by plane today to Attorney General Cummings, now vacationing in Connecticut, it was learned. Assistant Attorney General Harold M. Stephen, in charge of administration, took it and Mr. Cummings is expected to approve it early tomorrow.

GIVES SATISFACTION HERE.

The last minute "reprieve," giving new life to the dry bureaus, was received with open satisfaction at the local prohibition offices here last night. A terse message telling of the new order was all that was received, but it was enough to bring smiles to the faces of the 147 dry agents affected. Administrator Gustav J. Simons received the Washington order late at night. It stated briefly: "Your office will function as at present until further notice." Mr. Simons said that the order would be obeyed.

Three warrants were issued and one man was arrested. A sheriff's posse was seeking two other suspects. The names of all were withheld.

ARIZONA GOES 3 TO 1 FOR WETS; IT'S 21ST STATE

Phoenix, Ariz., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Late returns from yesterday's referendum on repeal of the 18th amendment to the United States constitution showed today that Arizona had given the wet forces a resounding majority.

With only 96 precincts missing out of the state's 444 the vote was: For repeal, 35,123; against repeal, 10,414. Every one of the fourteen counties in the state showed a preference for repeal.

Arizona is the twenty-first state to cast its ballots against retention of constitutional prohibition. Thirty-six are needed to ratify the 21st, or repealer, amendment.

The state's Democratic congressional primary resulted in the nomination of Mrs. Isabella Greenway, close friend of President and Mrs. Roosevelt, over two men opponents. The nomination is held to be the equivalent of election as she has no Republican opponent.

JUDGE REBUKES POLICE; FREES GANG SUSPECT

Alleged Aid of Saltis Is Dismissed in Court.

Municipal Judge Michael G. Kasper in the Stockyards court yesterday dismissed charges of disorderly conduct against Stanley Nowicki, alias Stock, a minor hoodlum said by police to be a chauffeur for Joe Saltis, the beer gangster. The judge assailed the arresting policemen and threatened them with jail if they repeated the arrest.

Nowicki, who is 31 years old and lives at 4538 South Washtenaw avenue, was seized on Monday by Policemen Jack Kielty and James Doherty of the New City district while he was sitting in a small coupé in front of 4528 South Hermitage avenue. Policeman Kielty appeared in the crowded courtroom as the state's witness against Nowicki.

"Why is this man arrested and brought before me? What is the evidence against him?" demanded Judge Kasper.

Policeman Tells of Arrest.

Policeman Kielty explained that he had recognized Nowicki as a police character and had demanded why he was sitting in the parked car. A string of epithets was the only reply, the policeman said. Nowicki then was seized, searched, and taken to the New City station, where he was charged with disorderly conduct.

"If I'd been there I'd have told you the same thing," the judge said to the policeman. "What do you mean by arresting this man? If you ever bring him in here again I'll lock you behind the bars yourself. What do you have against this gentleman?"

Kielty Knows His Man.

"Your honor," replied Kielty, "I know that he is a police character and an associate of bootleggers."

Here City Prosecutor Anton Belinski, who is assigned to the Stockyards court, interjected: "Do you know that of your own knowledge? Can you say that from sight of your own eyes?"

"Yes," replied the policeman stoutly, "I know that myself."

With his face red, Judge Kasper said to Kielty: "Get out of here now or I'll put you behind the bars."

"But, your honor," insisted the policeman, "it's the policy of Commissioner Allman to lock up all known hoodlums who are seen by the police at any time. We have orders to arrest them whether they are doing anything wrong or not."

Judge Dismisses Case.

"I don't care whether the commissioner gave you orders or not," Judge Kasper retorted. "Get out, and get out quick. Case dismissed and defendant cleared."

Later when the matter was called to his attention Police Commissioner Allman announced that he would investigate the circumstances. If evidence warrants, he said, a protest will be made to Chief Justice Sonsteby of the Municipal court.

Judge Sonsteby was not in his office yesterday and could not be reached at his home last evening. At Judge Kasper's home it was said he was attending a political picnic.

Meeker Separation Suit Filed

Mrs. Ruth Campbell Meeker and her husband, Lawrence Meeker, whom she sued yesterday for separate maintenance.

Charges Desertion

Mrs. Ruth Campbell Meeker filed suit for separate maintenance yesterday in the Circuit court against Lawrence A. Meeker, New York and Chicago society man and former member of the Chicago Stock exchange. She charged him with desertion and non-support.

An effort was made to keep the proceedings secret. Mrs. Meeker, who came to Chicago recently and took up residence at the College club, 196 East Delaware place, appeared with her attorney to file the bill and asked how it might be suppressed. A deputy of Circuit Clerk John E. Conroy directed them to Judge George Fred Rush, who gave them an order that the bill be suppressed pending service upon Meeker.

The bill charges that for the last two years the Meekers have been living in various New York hotels and that during that period Mrs. Meeker paid all her own bills. In March of this year, the bill charges, Meeker left her without telling her where he was going. He is in Chicago at present, it is understood.

The Meekers were married at the Fourth Presbyterian church on June 27, 1927. She is the daughter of the late Mrs. Virginia Adams Campbell. He is the son of Mrs. George W. Meeker and a nephew of Arthur Meeker. Mrs. James B. Forgan Jr. is his sister.

CINCINNATI BOY ADMITS SLAYING SOCIETY LEADER

Meridian, Miss., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—John Henkel, 16, of Cincinnati, confessed today to Cincinnati Detective William Cleary that he killed Oliver S. Baily, Cincinnati society leader, near an amusement park in the Ohio city Saturday night. He was driving Baily's automobile when arrested here.

Henkel, according to Cleary, said that he killed Baily with his fist following "a quarrel at a wild party." The coroner's office in Cincinnati, however, said that Baily was killed with some sort of a clublike weapon.

The confession was made following several hours of grilling by Cleary, District Attorney Aubert Dunn, and N. Y. Yarborough, Meridian police chief.

Quick Indictment Voted.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—John J. Henkel, boy who in Meridian, Miss., today confessed slaying Oliver S. Baily, prominent in Cincinnati society, was indicted on a first degree murder charge by the Hamilton county grand jury this afternoon.

LAUNCH PIRATE WILL BE TRIED BY U. S. FOR ASSAULT

Joseph Pennick, 24 years old, who turned pirate and tried to rob the passengers of one of the World's Fair speed boats as it headed into the lake from the mouth of the Chicago river on Tuesday evening, will be tried in the federal courts on a charge of assault on a vessel of United States registry. United States District Attorney Dwight Green asked the Chicago police yesterday to hold Pennick as a federal prisoner yesterday morning.

The exact nature of the assault charge against Pennick will depend upon the facts ascertained when James Nester, 1232 North La Salle street, pilot of the boat, and the passengers are questioned by federal investigators.

Pennick was overpowered by the passengers when, as he stood up waving a revolver, Pilot Nester swerved the speed boat, which was traveling 40 miles an hour, so that the gunman fell, losing his grasp on his weapon.

PARK POLICEMAN SENT TO JAIL FOR STRIKING AUTOIST

Gets Five Days in Cell and Fine of $50.

Municipal Judge Joseph H. McGarry yesterday sentenced Raymond Eddy, Lincoln park policeman, to five days in the Bridewell and fined him $50 for assault and battery upon William Marson, 835 Irving Park boulevard, a motorist. Eddy gave notice of appeal. At the same time a charge of disorderly conduct against Marson was dismissed.

Marson testified that Eddy struck him some twenty times with a nightstick when he protested at being forced to wait two hours, parked at a curb before being taken to a station to be booked for a minor traffic violation. The alleged violation occurred on June 27 at Belmont avenue and Lake Shore drive, where Eddy was on traffic duty. Marson had stopped and then started ahead when Eddy dropped his arm.

Testimony of Motorist.

"I thought it was a signal to go," Marson testified. "Eddy raised his arm and motioned me to the curb. I pulled over and waited fifteen minutes. Then I went and asked him how long I had to wait before he arrested me. He said about an hour or so, until he was relieved and could take me to the station.

"He led me back to my car. I waited another fifteen minutes, and then walked out again to ask if he wouldn't please arrest me and get it over with. Then he took out his billy and struck me on the head about twenty times. He also threatened me with his revolver. Later, when I was locked up at the Town Hall station, I asked him to get a doctor to attend my bruises, and he told me it was too bad my head wasn't broken."

Policeman Eddy's Story.

Eddy's story of the incident agreed with that of Marson up to the point when Marson made his second trip from the car to talk to him. Then, the policeman charged, Marson struck him in the face. Eddy said he hit Marson only once, on the shoulder.

George W. Allen, a garage mechanic who had just driven up to tell Eddy about some repairs being made on the policeman's car, also testified that Marson struck Eddy.

"It must be a very serious offense before a policeman can put a hand on a citizen, much less strike him with a billy," said Judge McGarry. "I shouldn't blame a citizen if he did protest for being pushed over to the curb for such an offense. The treatment Marson received in this case was outrageous."

Get Salaries Under Court Order.

Chief Justice Sonsteby and eight associated judges of the Municipal court took quick advantage yesterday of the recent order of Judge Peter H. Schwaba in the Superior court, forbidding city officials to make deductions from the Municipal judges' salaries as an economy measure, and ordering that the judges' pay be kept up to date.

The latter part of the order gives the judges three months' preference over all other city employés, who have been paid only to May 1. The nine judges appeared at City Treasurer Kearns' office and drew their pay in full to Aug. 1.

In so doing, all except one of them, it is charged, went back on verbal or written promises to take the pay cut.

The exception was Judge John H. Lyle, who has refused consistently to take pay cuts during the two year controversy over economy between the city council and the court. It was he who obtained the order from Judge Schwaba.

The other seven judges who drew their full pay yesterday were Samuel H. Trude, Francis Borrelli, Howard Hayes, George V. McIntyre, Jay A. Schiller, Leon Edelman, and Alfred O. Erickson.

Judge Trude, a veteran of 19 years in the court, led the march to the pay roll window. Last September, when he was a candidate for reëlection, he agreed to take a 48 day pay cut for last year, but this year he refused.

On May 11 Chief Justice Sonsteby, in a letter to M. S. Szymczak, then city controller, regarding his own pay checks, stated:

"You are directed to deduct from the supplementary pay roll sent to you the required number of days for each month in compliance with section 8 of the appropriation bill for 1932, until the city council passes the appropriation bill for 1933."

The section referred to made a 48 day pay cut effective in the Municipal court. The 1932 appropriations in the court were in effect until July 1, when the council passed the 1933 appropriations, under a continuation ordinance.

Judge Edelman, another early caller for his pay, was quoted as saying on May 5: "If the voice of the people through the city council provides for a cut in my salary, I am willing to abide by that voice."

Judge McIntyre on May 4 was quoted as follows: "I was one of the first to take the first cut when I voluntarily returned a portion of my salary. I will not swerve in my position until conditions change."

At the same time Judge Hayes said: "I took the cut last year and I am taking it now. I have so informed the controller's office."

Judge Borrelli said: "I am doing my share to aid the city in its financial difficulties. I did so last year."

Judge Erickson agreed to take the pay cut last year, but he, with Judges Lyle and Trude, refused to accept deductions this year and as a result got no pay after Jan. 1. Chief Justice Sonsteby and Judges Borrelli, Hayes, McIntyre, Schiller, and Edelman, in addition to the three months' pay which puts them that far ahead of other city employés, also drew the money supposed to have been deducted for the earlier months of the year.

MOROCCAN REBELS KILL 42 IN SURPRISE ATTACK ON FRENCH

RABAT, Morocco, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Furious hand to hand fighting during which 42 French soldiers were killed battling dissidents at Djebel Babou Sunday were reported in dispatches reaching Rabat today. Two officers and 53 soldiers were wounded.

The dissidents made a heavy surprise attack upon the troops who were cleaning out the region, but were driven off after an all night struggle. The attackers fled and the troops were continuing the cleaning up movement, surrounding Djebel Babou from the north.

Four converging columns each consisting of French and native infantry, cavalry, and artillery and a battalion of the foreign legion, as well as native partisans, for some months have been clearing out the last dissident strongholds in the Atlas mountains.

CODE MAY END DAYS OF GREAT COUPS IN GRAIN

Exchanges Offer Control Plan to U. S.

Before the code was considered and at the outset of the hearing Administrator Peek warned the grain men again that they faced the most drastic government control if the code proposed was not satisfactory. He also insisted that steps must be taken for preventing farmers of the nation from going over to the radicals. Telling what he meant by his demand that the grain trade must "put its house in order," Mr. Peek said:

"We have one responsibility under the law. That is to get the farmers' prices up to parity and to keep them from falling below that point. You gentlemen operating the market also for the farmers' grain also have a responsibility. Under the law we are going to exercise every power that we have, if it is necessary, to accomplish the purpose of the law.

"Unless we can get these farm prices up—I don't mean after the farmer has sold his grain, but before he has sold his grain—I anticipate that you will face legislation next winter which may make what we are talking about now fade into insignificance compared with the restrictive provisions that will be placed upon you.

Would Retain Social Order.

"I say that with all the candor in this world, because I am interested primarily in preserving the social order under which we have all grown up and prospered to a greater or less degree.

"With the number of strikes all over the country—the coal strike in Pennsylvania, the milk strike in New York, the lumber strike throughout the entire lumber regions, and others—if you don't keep the farmer conservative, then he is going with the other crowd. He isn't going to stand still and be dispossessed of his home and his property through no fault of his own.

"It is in the interest of the nation, I think, that everything that can be done shall be done to keep him conservative.

"That has got to be changed, and if this code doesn't go far enough to correct the abuses on the exchanges, then I urge you with all the sincerity I have in my heart to undertake to do whatever is necessary to clean your own house and justify your existence as the market for the farmers' grain. That's all."

"In addition to the matters covered by this code, the several exchanges have regulated and are expected to regulate trade practices of such exchanges and of their respective members under rules and regulations which have been, are now, or shall hereafter be enforced.

"Each exchange shall abolish trading in all indemnities, except those that are good from one day to the close of trading the next market day.

Further Control Provisions.

"Each exchange shall require its members to demand and receive from all customers, both member and nonmember customers, and to maintain at all times, subject to reasonable regulations as to call and notice, minimum margins on all future trades in grain, excepting futures trades and contracts of the following classes:

"1. Members' or nonmembers' hedging trades, which are hereby defined as futures bought or sold offset against a similar amount of cash grain or cash grain products bought or sold.

"2. Members' or nonmembers' spreading trades, which are hereby defined as [1] purchases or sales of futures in one market offset by sales or purchases of futures in the same grain in a similar amount in another market; and [2] purchases or sales of futures in the same grain in a similar amount in the same market in another delivery month.

"3. Trades in grain futures on any exchange not exceeding 2,000,000 bushels to the extent that such trades are offset by future trades in another grain or in provisions on the same or another exchange.

Fixing Marginal Rates.

"Such minimum margins for all open future contracts [excepting those mentioned in subparagraphs [1], [2], and [3] hereof] for aggregate purchases or aggregate sales of any one grain for any one customer shall be 10 per cent of the market price on open contracts for 250,000 bushels or less; on open contracts for over 250,000 bushels, but less than 2,000,000 bushels, 10 per cent of the market price of the first 250,000 bushels and 15 per cent of the market price of the remainder; on open contracts for over 2,000,000 bushels, 10 per cent of the market price of the first 250,000 bushels, 15 per cent of the market price of the next 1,750,000 bushels, and 20 per cent of the market price of the remainder.

"[D] Each exchange shall continue in force and effect [until changed, modified or abolished, as hereinafter provided, when market conditions shall permit] the present rules and regulations forbidding trading during any day in contracts for future delivery of the following grains at prices in excess of the following amounts above or below the average closing prices of the preceding market day:

"Five cents per bushel on wheat, rye, and barley.

"Four cents per bushel on corn.

May Curb Fluctuations.

"[E] Each exchange shall vest in its boards of directors or governors, or in a properly constituted committee, plenary authority to establish from time to time [1] limitation or abolition of daily fluctuations in the price of futures above provided for in subparagraph [D], subject, however, to the approval of the secretary of agriculture; [2] limitation of the amount of members' or nonmembers' open contracts for the purchase or sale of futures, and [3] margin requirements to be put up and maintained for futures by members and nonmembers in excess of, but not less than, the minimum requirements fixed in subparagraph [C] hereof.

"[F] For the proper enforcement of the provisions of this article, each exchange shall authorize and require its board of directors or governors, or a properly authorized committee, or agent, to investigate any or all transactions of any member and to that end [1] summarily to examine any and all books, records, contracts, accounts, and papers of such member, [2] summarily to require such member to make full and complete reports as to the facts of any or all transactions when requested, and [3] to make recommendations to the proper authority in the exchange for disciplinary action. Each exchange shall cause to be disciplined any member who shall violate any of the provisions of this article or any rule or regulation made pursuant thereto."

UNION LABOR MAKES INROADS IN RUBBER, STEEL INDUSTRIES

Cleveland, O., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Two of the nation's basic industries, rubber and steel, which have maintained a traditional open shop policy in years past, are beginning to feel organized labor's spearhead attack under the NRA banner.

From Akron, center of the rubber industry, came word today from labor spokesmen that 1,500 workers have joined the United Federal Union of Rubber Workers there under the aegis of the American Federation of Labor.

In the Youngstown and Cleveland steel districts, organizers announced 2,000 Youngstown workers have joined the A. F. O. L. unions, and that a meeting has been called in Cleveland this week for about 200 workers who have signed applications for membership.

Wage increases were announced today in four large Akron rubber plants. Today's increases ranged from 5 to 10 per cent in several departments of the industry at the Goodrich, Firestone, General, and Goodyear plants.

OPERATORS FIGHT UNIONIZATION OF COAL INDUSTRY

Ask Free Hand in Dealing with Employes.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 8.—[Special.]—The national recovery administration today began a diagnosis of the long suffering coal industry in a public hearing that was immediately plunged into a controversy over unionization by the coal barons of the eastern bituminous fields. These operators, who represent almost two-thirds of the nation's tonnage, also indicated great fear of the NRA treatments that will be prescribed for them, warning that the present spread of employment cannot be maintained if the wage scales are increased.

27 Separate Codes Submitted.

Twenty-seven separate codes have been submitted for consideration by the NRA and Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, opened today's session with a statement that the circumstances of the coal industry are the most difficult with which the government will have to deal.

The inevitable controversy over unionization was injected by Charles P. Neill, representing the Northern Coal Control association and the Smokeless and Appalachian association, or all the producers from northern Pennsylvania to southern Tennessee. A code presented by Mr. Neill provided for complete freedom of action on the part of employers in dealing with their employés, but also made it a condition that no person should be required to join any labor organization and recognized the right of every employé to bargain with his employer without interference from any labor organization.

Donald R. Richberg, counsel for the NRA, in cross-examining Mr. Neill observed that he would preserve the right of employers to bargain as they saw fit, but would deprive labor of this right.

"There is no question of the right of employés to be represented by men of their choosing," said the witness. "If they want to be represented by John L. Lewis [president of the United Mine Workers] why, we'll have to talk to Mr. Lewis. But, in dealing with him or anybody else, we don't want to talk on a collective basis. We want our dealings to be on behalf of our own employés and no others."

Mr. Neill also said the operators of his associations would be unwilling to sit down at a conference table with employers of other states whose problems were of such an unrelated nature that competition would be no factor. But he suggested that a committee of the government should have no difficulty in dealing with the employers.

"Would you want it to have a veto power?" asked Mr. Richberg.

"Only the veto power of common sense," Neill replied.

Q.—And how does that work out? A.—If you are right and I am wrong, why, then, I know it.

Q.—And you always give up, of course? A.—Always.

Q.—Then I suggest you withdraw Section 2 of Article 3 (the labor section), because it is suggested by common sense. A.—Not my common sense.

Cites Loss of Business.

Neill declared that a great readjustment in the capacity of output in the bituminous mines was brought about following the world war, when it reached its peak, and that the natural decrease in demand was further complicated by the development of rival sources of energy. He produced figures to show that between 1919 and 1929 the use of hydrogenerated electricity, fuel oil, and natural gas increased to such an extent that in the latter year the displacement of bituminous coal was 122 million tons more than in 1919.

In 1923 there were 9,331 bituminous mines and in 1930 the number had decreased to 5,891, he declared. The percentage of total energy furnished by bituminous coal declined from 63.5 in 1923 to 55.7 in 1929, according to Neill.

Favors 44 Hour Week.

"In Chicago, the largest consuming coal market in the country," said Mr. Neill, "there is a great likelihood that, through gas rates promulgated within the last month, there will be a displacement within a year of several million tons of bituminous coal."

The schedule of wages submitted by the nonunion operators provides for basic scales about $1 a day lower than those submitted by President Lewis of the United Mine Workers. The union scales provide a basic wage of $5 a day for inside miners and $4 for outside workers, a 36 hour week, with the right of employés to ask for a 30 hour week. Neill and other speakers from the eastern fields wanted a 44 hour week.

Western Mines Unionized.

No objection to the right of labor to organize and bargain collectively, through representatives of its own choosing, was voiced by F. V. H. Collins, representing the Rocky mountain-Pacific group of coal producers in Montana, Utah, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, and Washington. Mr. Collins said the union was 100 per cent strong in Montana and well represented in the other western states.

"When this code is written the U. M. W. will be 100 per cent in all the territory covered by our suggestions," he declared.

Collins asked the administration to consider the "extremely high wage scales" now prevailing and the "extremely high costs of production" in the Pacific northwest in connection with the regulations as to maximum working hours. He asked that special provisions be made to permit a 48 hour week in his territory for a limited period each year and declared that the yearly average would not exceed any maximum prescribed by the administration.

It is considered probable that several distinct codes, each with its own authority or administrative agency, will have to be adopted for the coal industry after the hearings—expected to last three or four more days—are concluded. The Lewis code and the suggestions of labor leaders in connection therewith will be presented at tomorrow's session. The union is strongest in the Illinois, Indiana and Ohio fields.

First Case of Drewrys Ale Goes to Roosevelt

Two Carloads Shipped to Chicago Today

President Roosevelt is to get the first case of Drewrys Canadian Ale to be brewed in the United States. This is not done merely by way of advertising. Drewrys is the first Canadian Ale to be produced in America and it is fitting that the President who made this possible should be recognized by this gesture.

The story back of this gesture may be interesting even to the President himself. Over six months before Mr. Roosevelt was elected, Mr. M. J. Black, the President of Drewrys Ltd. of Canada and representative of various English interests abroad, came down to the States with his associates, decided that Roosevelt would be elected and that the sale of malt beverages would be permitted again, and backed his judgment with his company's capital.

It soon became evident, however, that an American company was necessary to operate on American soil. Therefore the Drewrys Limited, U. S. A., was formed and enfranchised and fully financed within itself. And this American Company in turn, after a most careful survey of the brewing facilities of America, formed its affiliation with The Sterling Brewers of Evansville, Indiana, whose long record of cleanly, careful, wholesome brewing measured up well to the Canadian standard of Drewry quality.

Evansville immediately put in its fermenters and aging tanks. The Drewry Ale was brewed according to the Canadian standards, where, also according to the Canadian standards, it has been aging and mellowing ever since.

It is now ready at long last. Two carloads will arrive here for your distributors tomorrow. Their distribution to your various good dealers will follow immediately and by the day after tomorrow it ought to be ready for you.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—The measure of progress of the Roosevelt recovery campaign is being taken with the 1924-1926 price level as its present goal. And in addition to higher prices there is the further aim of a commodity dollar, or some similar scheme, which will maintain the dollar at fixed parity in terms of goods, and which will permit the government to stimulate or curb at will credit, production, and speculation.

At a press conference today at President Roosevelt's summer home here it was disclosed that one of the chief exhibits at yesterday's discussion between the President and three members of his "brain trust" was a chart prepared by Prof. George Warren of Cornell university.

Indicate Possible Goals.

Based on the 1910-1914 price level, which was given an index of 100, the chart assumed as alternate peak levels toward which present price increases are striving, the index of 146 in 1924 and the index of 149 in 1926.

The President was quick to deny that these levels represented an ultimate goal, or that it was possible to predict any fixed goal of prices. Constantly shifting conditions, he explained, made it impossible to say that this level or that was the one ultimately to be attained.

But the disclaimer could not alter the fact that the Cornell professor, who has spent more than a month, together with Prof. James H. Rogers of Yale, in studying and systematizing the economic results and prospects of the new deal, had taken the 1924 and 1926 levels as the top. And in this conjunction it was recalled that not long ago the President himself envisaged a level slightly under that of 1926 as the proper one at which to aim.

Pleased with Story of Graph.

President Roosevelt expressed himself as well pleased at the story told by the black and white columns of Prof. Warren's graph. It showed, the President explained, a leveling out tendency among the various factors.

Only a few weeks ago Mr. Roosevelt, Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator; Secretary of Labor Perkins, and others were inveighing against manufacturers who were pushing up production at a much faster rate than reemployment was taking place. They warned that trouble must follow such a tendency.

That tendency apparently has been checked, the President said, figures for the last two weeks showing the employment curve mounting more steeply than the curve of production.

Study Commodity Dollar.

As for the commodity dollar, it is becoming increasingly plain that the President is dreaming of some such plan, if he and his experts can work out a formula.

Profs. Warren and Rogers have both included the possibility of such a dollar in their studies. The former, particularly, has long been an exponent of a dollar which would be manipulated in value, through alteration of its gold content, through control of federal reserve credit, through management of the currency, or through some combination of schemes. He was a foremost advocate of the so-called Goldsborough "rubber dollar" bill in the last Hoover congress.

Adding emphasis to the evident interest of the President in a dollar of fixed commodity value was the visit to Hyde Park of Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale university, one of the pioneers in the commodity dollar movement.

Entertains Woodins.

The President had the reports of Profs. Warren and Rogers ready to discuss with Secretary of the Treasury Woodin, who, with Mrs. Woodin, arrived at Hyde Park this evening for an overnight visit. The journey marked the first occasion on which the secretary has been away from home since his illness with a severe throat infection.

Intimations that Mr. Woodin might be coming here to resign were met by the President's statement that, so far as he was concerned, nothing would keep the secretary from returning to Washington immediately except the continued necessity of regaining his health.

MODERWELL IS MADE U. S. PUBLIC WORKS ADVISER

Charles M. Moderwell of Evanston was appointed yesterday as regional adviser of the federal public works administration for the states of Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, and Wisconsin. This was the post originally assigned to Daniel J. Tobin of Indianapolis, who declined it.

Mr. Moderwell said that, while he was inclined to accept the appointment, he wanted some time to consider it. Mr. Moderwell is a Republican and was described in Washington as a "progressive Republican."

The appointee has been in the coal business in Chicago since 1902.

Nearly Million Workers Put Under NRA Code in 3 States

The number of employés placed under the national recovery act in the states of Illinois, Wisconsin, and Iowa approached the 1,000,000 mark yesterday when the Chicago office of the department of commerce received 6,322 pledges from business concerns employing 106,836 persons. The total of business houses in this area entitled to fly the blue eagle banner is now 50,779, placing 932,456 employés under the maximum working hour and minimum wage standard.

Chicago concerns enlisted in the reemployment campaign numbered 13,796 with the posting of 1,195 more names on the honor roll in the United States courthouse. These concerns employ 529,247 persons.

Food Industry Code Ready.

The food industry's executive committee adjourned yesterday after completing a code of trade practices for submission to the manufacturers and distributors to supplement the wage and hour agreement under which food stores are now operating. Members of the committee revealed there had been sharp disputes over brokerage allowances by which dealers who buy direct from factories get brokers' fees.

The food code probably will be presented for a hearing before the national recovery administration in Washington about Aug. 22, it was announced by Howard Peterson, president of the National Retail Grocers' association, one of those who attended the conference. Various phases of the code are still to be worked out. The committee adjourned without receiving a reply from Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, code administrator, regarding operating hours.

A code of fair competition governing the wiping cloth industry was approved at a meeting of the Sanitary Institute of America in the Palmer house. The code provides for a 44 hour maximum week for male employés and a 40 hour week for female employés. The minimum wage of male employés will be $17.60 a week, at the rate of 40 cents an hour, and $10 a week for female employés, at the rate of 25 cents per hour, a differential of 5 cents an hour being permitted for the southern district.

Fix Working Hours.

The National Dental Laboratories association tentatively adopted a 40 hour week for laboratory employés and a 44 hour week for office help and executives. The National Association of Waste Material Dealers formally adopted wage and hour provisions which will result in the employment of 100,000 more persons throughout the country.

Waste material producers, including newspapers, will resist any code which will restrict freedom of action on the part of any producer as to the sale of waste paper, it was announced by the National Association of Waste Material Producers. If necessary, the producers will prepare and file a code properly protecting the interests of the producers, it was stated.

The executive committee of the National Peanut Butter institute began work on the final draft of a code for the peanut butter industry. Details regarding unethical trade practices have been worked out, but the question of wages and working hours is still to be written into the code.

Bakers to Meet Today.

Fifteen hundred bakers, from every section of the country, are expected to attend a convention at the Hotel Sherman today and draft a code.

Business leaders will meet tomorrow noon in the Hotel La Salle to form a Chicago Recovery council. An organization is to be set up under the military program outlined by Administrator Johnson to fight unemployment.

PEACE RESTORED IN PENNSYLVANIA COAL MINE AREA

Uniontown, Pa., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Lingering trouble spots in the Pennsylvania mine strike cleared up today, bringing peace to the embattled soft coal fields and sending thousands of men back to the pits.

The last of the Fayette county miners to remain on strike—200 workers in the H. C. Frick company's Colonial No. 4 mine at Grindstone—resumed work after federal and state agencies interceded to smooth over fresh grievances in a dispute concerning checkweighmen.

At the same time striking miners of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal corporation, also at odds with the operators over the question of selecting checkweighmen, voted to return to the mines tomorrow.

As workers filed back into 15 of the Frick mines this morning the Colonial No. 4 men balked, claiming company officials refused to recognize the checkweighmen and the mine committee they had selected.

JOHNSON GETS FIRST 'UNFAIR PRICE' CHARGES

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—(AP)—The first complaint against alleged abuses in connection with the national recovery act was filed today in regard to the aluminum industry by the Bausch Machine Tool company of Springfield, Mass.; the Aluminum Products corporation of La Grange, Ill., and the Sheet Aluminum corporation of Jackson, Mich.

The independents acouse the Aluminum Company of America of selling goods below cost of production, thus threatening the existence of competitors and defeating NRA plans for that industry.

O. K.'s Oil Wage Code.

Mr. Johnson gave temporary effect to a scale of wages and hours for the oil industry, pending settlement of a much disputed oil code. The oil industry also has approved the wage and hour action.

For employés in filling stations and garages selling gasoline and oil direct to the motorist the agreement has a 40 our week with pay from $12 per week to $15, according to the population of the city.

The other minimum oil wage scales: For drilling, production, refining and pipe line operations the pay ranges from 52 to 45 cents.

For employés selling oil wholesale there is a 40 hour week, with minimum wage rates ranging from 40 to 47 cents an hour.

Jewelry Code Approved.

For the retail jewelry industry, effective at once, Mr. Johnson approved a 40 hour week with $11 to $14 minima except for skilled craftsmen such as engravers, watchmakers, or jewelry repairmen.

Skilled craftsmen of the jewelry industry and other employés will work a 48 hour or more week if time and one-third overtime is paid.

Evaporated Milk.

Mr. Johnson also approved a code for the evaporated milk industry. It is a modification of the blanket code. It provides a 40 hour maximum week for employés other than outside salesmen, watchmen, dairy inspectors, and certain other classes, and a 44 hour week "averaged over a 12 month period" for factory or mechanical workers who "may be employed a maximum week of 48 hours [plus 10 per cent tolerance for not more than 16 weeks] within a 12 month period."

FEDERAL COUPONS GIVEN

CODE FOR DAILY NEWSPAPERS IS WIDELY SIGNED

Accepted by Publishers Throughout Country.

The code for daily newspapers drawn up by the committee of the American Newspaper Publishers' association and filed with the President's industrial recovery administration was signed generally yesterday by newspaper publishers throughout the country. Its text was printed in THE TRIBUNE yesterday. Because of the insertion of a clause protecting freedom of the press as provided for in the United States constitution, the code has not yet been accepted by the recovery administration under Gen. Johnson's direction. The publishers' association has declined to agree to the provision providing for licensing and the power to close down a newspaper by the revocation of such licenses. As to all other terms of the code there is reported to be full agreement between the recovery administration and the publishers.

Chicago Papers Sign.

Chicago daily newspapers, including THE TRIBUNE, the Daily News, and the Hearst papers, signed the A. N. P. A. code yesterday. One other paper, the Times, signed the blanket code with certain reservations, obligating it only to those agreements contained in the publishers' code.

Various papers over the country have announced an intention to apply the 40 hour week to their reporters and copy readers, although an earlier understanding with the recovery administration was that employés in news and editorial jobs were to be classed as professional men and not under the 40 hour limit.

Sign Up in New York.

In New York the Times, the Herald Tribune, the Evening Post, and the Scripps-Howard and Hearst papers announced they had signed the publishers' code. Likewise the Brooklyn Eagle and the Gannett chain of papers.

In Omaha the World-Herald announced adoption throughout its plant of the national daily newspaper code, effective next Monday. The News Bee also signed. In Philadelphia J. David Stern signed for the Record.

The three Atlanta daily papers announced they had signed the publishers' code.

All Baltimore daily papers have accepted the code, including the Sun, the Evening Sun, the Sunday Sun, the News, and the Post. All said the policy would go into effect Aug. 14.

Under Recovery Act.

The Evening Star of Washington stated that, beginning next Monday, it would put into effect "provisions of the newspaper code filed yesterday by the A. N. P. A. and affiliated organizations in furtherance of the President's program under the national recovery act." The other Washington papers also signed.

The Akron, O., Beacon-Journal announced its signing of the publishers' code.

Nine western newspapers announced their acceptance of the code. They are the Oakland, Cal., Tribune; the Denver Post, the Seattle Times, the Spokane Chronicle, the St. Joseph, Mo., News-Press, and St. Joseph Gazette, the Albuquerque Journal, and the Portland Journal.

All Detroit newspapers have accepted the code. They are the Detroit News, the Free Press, and the Times, the latter a member of the Hearst chain.

The Indianapolis News, which today announced acceptance of the code, two weeks ago signed the President's reemployment agreement and announced it would accept the blanket code pending adoption of one by the newspaper publishers.

Printers' Chief Objects.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Labor's opposition to a proposed code for newspaper hours and wages was expressed publicly today while Hugh S. Johnson, the industrial administrator, took under consideration the plan offered by the American Newspaper Publishers' association.

Charles P. Howard, president of the International Typographical union, speaking in an interview for that and other printing labor groups, termed the proposed code "a publishers' trick to get the blue eagle without paying a cent" and said he would carry his fight against it to NRA officials.

The classification of reporters and editors has raised a question under the proposed code, which provides that the 40 hour week limits shall not apply to professional persons. On July 31 an interpretation of President Roosevelt's blanket code included newspaper reporters, editorial writers, rewrite men and other members of editorial staffs in the professional classification.

Johnson subsequently told reporters he had not seen the interpretation, adding that the ruling might have been "a slip, subject to reversal."

"PASSENGER" ROBS CAB DRIVER.

SEVICK JURY GIVES INQUEST FEES TO POLICE HERO FUND

Citizens who served on the coroner's jury in the case of Policeman John G. Sevick, who was shot and killed last month in the Criminal Courts building, yesterday contributed $2 each, the amount they received for serving on the jury, to the Police Hero fund sponsored by THE TRIBUNE. The contributions, totaling $12, were sent to the fund through the Chicago Crime commission. The fund is to provide for dependent families of slain police heroes.

Contributions to the fund were:
$45—J. B. D.
$5—H. H. S.; James B. Thorsen; Hester E. Brown.

Total	$ 122.00
Previously acknowledged	4,478.10
Grand total	4,600.10

All contributions to the Police Hero fund should be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

U. S. JOINS PROBE OF HUGE KANSAS BOND FORGERIES

Boyd's story to the governor was that the speculator had approached him and requested that $150,000 of the state's funds be deposited in the Eureka bank. To secure the deposit he said Finney gave the treasury $150,000 of the bonds, which are now known to be forged. Finney then, according to Boyd, borrowed $150,000 from the Eureka bank.

The next step in the negotiations came, Boyd said, when Finney asked and was granted permission to take the bonds from the state treasury to Chicago and sell them. When the sale had been made, Finney was quoted as saying, he would pay off his note at the bank in Eureka and the bank could return the state's deposit. The bonds are thus gone and the state has not obtained its money.

Representative Matt Guilfoyle of Dickinson county, in Topeka today, called upon Gov. Landon to institute impeachment proceedings against Boyd in the special session of the legislature, called for next month.

Gov. Landon is expected to call the legislature into special session quicker than originally intended.

Until a check has been made of all bonds on deposit with the treasurer for state deposits in all banks, for security of insurance company reserves and for other purposes provided by the legislature, the total of forged bonds in the hands of the state cannot be determined.

JUDGES ANSWER THREATS; SEND TEN TO PRISON

Crime War Must Go On, Says Prystalski.

Sentences Young Robber.

Judge Marcus Kavanagh put the finishing touches to a gang of youths, who committed a series of robberies, when he sentenced Leo Todd, 25, to 1 year to life in the penitentiary after a jury found him guilty in a quick trial. Soloman Klein, Harold Klein, Normal Finklestein and Sam Mermelstein, were convicted earlier in the week.

Other sentences were as follows:

STANLEY KONKEL, 22, and GEORGE MAINS, 22, each sentenced to 1 year to life by Judge Charles Molthrop. They committed a series of robberies including the robbery of Joseph E. Weber, 538 South Wells street on May 15 when he stopped his automobile for a traffic light.

JOHN L. BELL, colored, sentenced to 1 year to life for robbing Jane Macklin, 708 Bowen avenue. He was convicted by a jury and sentenced immediately by Judge Miller.

SAM SILK, 65, sentenced to 1 to 20 years also by Judge Miller after a jury found him guilty of arson.

THEODORE GRABSKI, 17, sentenced to 9 months in the bridewell for stealing an automobile owned by Chester F. Shortal, 1142 Pratt boulevard. He was sentenced by Judge Prystalski.

Warden David Moneypenny of the county jail shipped more than 20 prisoners, convicted in the crime drive, to the penitentiary yesterday. Necessary papers for other criminals were not ready so they will go in the next shipment, he said.

Three Held to Grand Jury.

Two coroner's juries joined in the crime war yesterday by ordering three slayers, one of them a police killer, held to the grand jury. The juries recommended immediate indictment and trial for the three. One of the slayers is Peter [Piccolo Peter] Pace, 23 years old, 1948 North Central Park avenue, who shot and killed Policeman Patrick J. Ryan of the Shakespeare avenue station Tuesday night in a saloon at 3328 Armitage avenue.

The others ordered held are Chester Gallas, 28 years old, 4840 West 28th street, and James Kuratko, 31 years old, 1438 60th court, Cicero, for the murder of Jacob C. Pederson, a conductor of a Cicero avenue street car.

Attorneys James M. Burke and George Crane appeared before Chief Justice Prystalski yesterday and announced they would represent Attorney Ross Lee Laird, former assistant prosecutor, who was named along with members of the Scheck family, in indictments growing out of the courtroom murder of Policeman John Sevick. Attorney Laird is charged with conspiracy to obstruct justice by keeping Mrs. Rose Scheck, mother of the slayer, from the authorities.

Deny Unlawful Conduct.

"Mr. Laird is guilty of no unlawful or even unethical conduct," said Attorney Burke in court. "We understand the indictment was predicated on the fact that Mr. Laird was charged with being in communication with Mrs. Sheck during the time she absented herself from authorities who wished to question her.

"This precise question was passed on by the committee on professional ethics of the Chicago Bar association three years ago, which opinion was published in the bar association records. The committee held in effect that it is no part of the duty of a lawyer to reveal the whereabouts of a client if his knowledge of the whereabouts was received in professional communication."

COURTNEY REQUESTS REWARD FOR POLICE WHO CAUGHT ROONEY

State's Attorney Courtney yesterday recommended to Police Commissioner Allman that he award $300 extra compensation to each of three policemen who gathered evidence which resulted in the conviction of John P. Rooney, boss of the Handbill Distributors' union; Henry Berry, and Miss Rosalie Rizzo of the murder of Stanley Gross, a store watchman. The policemen, Sergts. Thomas Maloney and Bert Gray and Patrolman Charles Prybl, Mr. Courtney said, "were solely responsible for gathering the evidence and bringing about the arrest of the prisoners in the first successful racket murder prosecution in the history of Cook county."

LIQUOR DEALERS USING HIS NAME, SAYS ALD. BOWLER

Complaint that a group of men are using his name in attempt to organize saloon and tavern keepers in Chicago was made yesterday by Ald. James B. Bowler of the 25th ward to State's Attorney Courtney. The literature of the organization, known as the Cook County Retail Liquor Dealers' association, carries the name of James Bowler as president. State's Attorney Courtney promised immediate investigation. It was pointed out, however, that no middle initial was used by the president of the liquor association, and suggested that a man whose name really is James Bowler might be connected with the organization.

WIDOWS OF SLAIN POLICE ANSWER A TRAGIC ROLL CALL

Board Approves Pensions for Dependents.

There was a tragic roll call yesterday on the tenth floor of the city hall. Four widows of slain policemen and a sister of the widow of a fifth were called one by one to testify before the police pension board.

One by one the stricken women took the witness chair in front of the desk of Walter L. MacMenimen, president of the board. They raised black gloved hands to take oath as to their identities and to the justice of their claims for compensation due the dependents of police who give their lives in line of duty.

One by one the women emerged, two weeping, one with head bowed low, and one, unconscious in the arms of the policemen witnesses who were waiting to tell how her husband had died.

Question Women Gently.

In that room, in the presence of members of the pension board, the utmost consideration had been shown, the gentlest of questions put. But the frayed nerves and the mental distress of the women were not equal, it seemed, to the ordeal. Laura, widow of Policeman Harry L. Redlich, who was shot four times in the back by a holdup man, winced as she was asked "When did you see your husband last?"

"The last time? It was June—— it was June——," she faltered, but could not finish. She was quickly dismissed, but before she could reach the door she collapsed.

Rose, widow of John Skopec, who was fatally shot beside a car whose suspicious looking driver he had sought to question, struggled for composure as she gave necessary data. But her voice broke and the tears started as she tried to tell of the message she received. And she also was dismissed. Blanche, widow of Elmer Ostling, Skopec's partner—who also died in that blast of bullets—followed. In low tones she gave her brief testimony, and was gone.

Clubbed to Death.

Oscar Brosseau's death was caused by the clubbing he received at the hands of a mob of communists on June 1 as he guarded a bakery on South Kedzie boulevard, where labor trouble had occurred. His widow, Nellie, grave but quiet, told the story in a few sentences and was corroborated by physicians and the affidavit of the injured man, given on his deathbed.

Miss Marie Kunze, also in mourning, appeared before the board in behalf of her sister, Claire, widow of John C. Sevick. Since the day when a smuggled pistol turned a captive murderer into an armed killer, and John Sevick was slain in a courtroom in the Criminal Courts building, his widow's health has been a source of concern to her relatives.

One after another the board heard the facts in the cases, heard the testimony corroborated by police or other witnesses, and voted pensions of $125 a month in each case, with $10 a month additional to Mrs. Ostling and Mrs. Skopec for their minor children. These payments will continue until their husbands would have been 57 years of age, when the payments drop to a lesser amount, depending upon the age and length of service of the deceased.

Confirm Fifty Pensions.

Statistics submitted yesterday by President MacMenimen of the board showed that on Jan. 1 of this year 3,726 individuals were receiving compensation from the board, and that 257 have been approved since, for a total of 4,033. Fifty of these were confirmed yesterday. Of these, 175 are on the disability list. Between Jan. 1 and Aug. 1 there was paid to these pensioners the sum of $1,748,334.

All of the widows granted pensions yesterday are among the nine beneficiaries of the fund now being collected by THE TRIBUNE for the dependents of policemen slain since last Jan. 1.

Receipt yesterday of $71.20, from Capt. Harry C. Wooten of the Australian convict ship, raised the total in the Tribune hero fund to $4,671.30. The sum was realized from the benefit held last Friday on the ship.

"Although the convict ship's early history was based on the punishment of lawbreaking, it is difficult to overlook the misery and sorrow that is so often consequent upon the suppression of crime," Capt. Wooten wrote. "It is with this in mind that we of the ship feel especially gratified at having the opportunity to assist you in this worth while cause."

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 90; recovered, 50; stripped, 12 [from Chicago police records for the twenty-four hours ending at midnight Tuesday.]

BANDIT SLAIN BY POLICE.

Sioux City, Ia., Aug. 9.—Police were attempting to identify a bandit killed last night by Capt. George Fallon after a series of service station holdups. The bandit forced a taxicab driver to take him about in three stickups. A theater manager who failed an attempted holdup tipped off police the bandit was riding in a cab. They trapped him when he attempted a fourth holdup.

30,000 Missouri Motorists Come to Fair for State Day

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—This state is sending thirty thousand motorists to Chicago for Missouri day at A Century of Progress tomorrow. Their cars, with their large maroon and yellow license plates, were streaming northeast over Illinois pavements this afternoon.

THE TRIBUNE roadster, as A Century of Progress official car, arrived here yesterday to disseminate information that would encourage attendance by these Missouri motorists. St. Louis has the heaviest traveled bridges over the Mississippi river between Missouri and Illinois.

Local newspapers and the Automobile Club of Missouri were furnished with accurate information on pavement, traffic, and parking conditions encountered by the motorist visitor to the World's Fair.

Told of Local Facilities.

George Barton, engineer for the Chicago Motor club and a member of A Century of Progress traffic commission, cited statistics and studies showing that facilities in Chicago were ample for the operation and storage of automobiles at the exposition city with a minimum of delay and discomfort as compared with other large gatherings.

This service by THE TRIBUNE roadster was requested by A Century of Progress administration to combat false reports about driving conditions in Chicago during the fair. These reports, according to the administration, are a curb on the number of World's Fair visitors to Chicago hurting the city's general business as well as the attendance at the exposition.

Stories Heard in St. Louis.

"We've heard the stories," said Matt Morse, general manager of the Automobile Club of Missouri, "that cars from other states are barred from Chicago during the fair, or that a special license is required or that there is no parking near the exposition.

"Because this gossip, circulated by selfish interests, is inimical to the interests of automobile owners, the club has been active in informing its members of the real facts. But, of course, we haven't been able to reach every one."

A count of Missouri cars northbound on U. S. 66 north of Springfield yesterday showed a 250 per cent increase over the figures for a similar count on June 20.

The railroads are also enjoying a pick up in passenger business as a result of the Fair but, in contrast to the situation on the highways, neither the Illinois Central nor the Baltimore and Ohio offices here said they noted any spurt in their traffic to Chicago due to Missouri day at A Century of Progress.

ROOSEVELT AND TWO AIDS DISCUSS CRIME PROBLEM

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—The crime problem came to the fore again today at the President's vacation home when President Roosevelt entertained and conferred with Attorney General Homer S. Cummings and Assistant Secretary of State Raymond Moley. The latter was detached from his state department duties last week to head a study of the laws and methods of enforcement pertaining to kidnaping, racketeering and other crimes.

The attorney general arrived for lunch and discussed with the President a number of departmental matters. With the arrival of Prof. Moley the President and his two aids talked over the progress already made in the crime study and the general problem of how the federal government can best serve in stemming the criminal wave.

INJURIES FATAL TO SCHOOLBOY.

John Pouliott, 16 years old, a student at St. Mary's training school at Des Plaines, died yesterday in the county hospital of internal injuries received Monday when he was struck by a wagon tongue while working on the institution's farm.

FAIR'S GREATEST TWO WEEKS WILL BE OPENED TODAY

Expect Crowds to Average 200,000 Daily.

Tuesday, Aug. 8, 1933	172,855
Tuesday, Aug. 8, 1893	104,034
Total, including Aug. 8, 1933 [174 days]	8,078,208

The Columbian Exposition opened May 1; A Century of Progress opened May 27.

BY EARL MULLIN.

A Century of Progress exposition this morning will open the greatest fourteen day period of the entire five months' program. Estimates point to an average daily paid attendance of 200,000 during the fortnight.

Featured during the fortnight will be music, climaxing with the Chicagoland Music Festival, national pageants, athletic events and racial and group days. Fair officials believe that the attendance chart during this period will in a large measure presage the final attendance figure.

Expect to Maintain Pace.

"On the basis of present attendance charts," Major Lenox R. Lohr, general manager, said, "we are hoping that the coming fortnight will see an average daily registration of 200,000. The feature programs call for that patronage, and a period of this length with a record breaking attendance will pretty well indicate a continued attendance for the rest of the Exposition in the same general bracket."

The last check made by the Fair, estimated on the present ratio of attendance between the current Exposition and the Columbian exposition of 1893, calls for a total attendance of 30,400,000 paid admissions. To make the Fair break even and pay off all bonds, an attendance of 30,000,000 will be required.

The fortnight opens this morning with Missouri day, and from then on not a day will lack scores of attractions designed to lure visitors from all sections of the United States.

Tomorrow Illinois Day.

The following table shows in brief just what the stellar attractions of this period are, and the dates when they will be presented:

THURSDAY, Aug. 10—Missouri day; Dental day.
FRIDAY, Aug. 11—Illinois day.
SATURDAY, Aug. 12—Negro day; Chicago incorporation day.
SUNDAY, Aug. 13—German day; Opening of Farm week.
MONDAY, Aug. 14—Rhode Island day; American Farm bureau and National Grain association day.
TUESDAY, Aug. 15—Fort Dearborn day; anniversary of Fort Dearborn massacre; Farm Women's day.
WEDNESDAY, Aug. 16—Vermont day; United Spanish War Veterans' day; South Bend day.
THURSDAY, Aug. 17—Ukrainian day; Farm Credits' day.
SATURDAY, Aug. 19—Farm Sport day.
SUNDAY, Aug. 20—Czechoslovakian day.
MONDAY, Aug. 21—Montana day.
TUESDAY, Aug. 22—Georgia day.
WEDNESDAY, Aug. 23—Texas day.

The Missouri program will begin at 2:30 this afternoon when Gov. Guy B. Park and his executive staff are received in the Court of Honor. In addition to the United States army troops stationed at the Fair, Missouri will present its own state troopers to enliven the day of military activity.

Expect Million in Three Days.

Thousands of dentists are expected to visit the Fair during the day, also known as Dental day, in conjunction with their convention in Chicago.

A total of more than a million visitors are expected Friday, Saturday and Sunday, when the greatest three day celebration yet sponsored by the Exposition is presented.

Final touches were given the Illinois day program yesterday and officials announced that visitors from all sections of the state were pouring into Chicago for the historical observance.

The official program of the day will be staged in the Court of States. A parade will open the day with Gov. Horner, all living former governors, speakers, and the Illinois day committee in the line of march. Troops of the 33d division, 9,500 men and officers in all, will parade through the grounds as one of the features. This will be the largest military force in Chicago since the world war. Also participating will be the 108th airplane observation squadron.

Recall Founding of City.

Chicago Incorporation day, on Saturday, will follow the historical trend of the week-end celebration. The program will recall that one hundred years ago Chicago, then a village of 100 persons with only 28 voters, was founded on the muddy banks of a little river flowing into the inland sea.

Among the features of Negro day will be the pageant, "Epic of a Race," presented in Soldiers' field.

Officials of the German day celebration last night predicted that all records for national participation in the Fair will be broken on Sunday when their program is presented. At the 1893 Fair German day was exceeded only by Chicago day, and the group leaders predicted that this Exposition would see the record duplicated.

Farm Week Opens Sunday.

Also featured Sunday will be the opening programs of Farm week, when thousands of farm youths assemble in the Court of Science for a candle lighting ceremony.

The pageantry of other special state, national, and group days at the Fair, among them the Fort Dearborn Memorial services on Tuesday, will round out a complete program of education and entertainment features.

In spite of the clouds and light rain which set in late in the afternoon, attendance was heavy yesterday. At 11:30 p. m. the turnstile count showed 154,815 paid admissions.

Named "Baraboo"

A baby zebra, born under the canvas of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circus in Grant park, was given the name "Baraboo" at a formal ceremony in which he took a bashful part yesterday. Jenny Rooney, an aerialist, and Rosa Rieffenach, one of the Rieffenach sisters bareback riding team, named the infant, who is still a bit unsteady on his legs. He was named after Barnboo, Wis., the first winter quarters of the old Ringling Brothers circus.

Grimes, worthy grand matron of the Grand Chapter of the Illinois Order of the Eastern Star, has reported to the general committee of the Chicagoland Church Night vespers that her order has been actively assisting in the promotion of the great service on Sunday afternoon in Soldiers' field. She predicted an enthusiastic response by the hundreds of Eastern Star chapters with their thousands of members in Chicago and vicinity.

No. Dakota Boy Adjudged Most Energetic in U. S.

George W. Taylor, 8 years old, of Sherwood, N. D., was adjudged the most energetic boy in the United States yesterday in a contest sponsored by Montgomery Ward & Co. The boy is one of the winners of one hundred district contests held in different parts of the country. He was presented with a medal by J. L. Wood, an executive of the Montgomery Ward company. The district winners were given a free trip to Chicago and the Fair.

WOMEN PREPARE FOR BIG DAY IN FESTIVAL WEEK

1,000 Leaders Expected at Luncheon Monday.

Aiming to make the occasion a spectacular success, hundreds of Chicago women pledged their support yesterday to Women's day, which is to be held Monday as one of the major events of Chicagoland Festival week. Festival week—Aug. 13 to Aug. 19—is to be a seven day pageant of shows, parades, religion, sports, and music, dedicated to the Chicagoland region and A Century of Progress.

The principal feature of Women's day will be a grand luncheon at noon in the German-American building on Northerly island at the World's Fair. More than 1,000 feminine leaders of Chicago and Cook county are expected. That this attendance will be realized was indicated yesterday when more than 100 tickets for the luncheon were disposed of in less than an hour after they were placed on sale.

Invite Secretary Perkins.

It is hoped that Miss Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, will address the luncheon over a radio hookup. Because of business conferences at Washington she cannot attend personally. An invitation for her to address the Women's day luncheon by radio was sent to her last night by Mrs. Henry W. Hardy, general chairman, and Mrs. Bertha Baur and Mrs. Elizabeth M. Conkey, vice chairmen, of the Women's day committee.

A general meeting of presidents of women's clubs in the county to further the plans for Women's day will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow in the office of George W. Rossetter, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, which is one of the principal sponsors of Chicagoland Festival week. Four hundred women have been invited to the meeting.

At yesterday's meeting the German-American building was officially selected for the Monday luncheon and it was agreed that tickets would be $1. These tickets may be ordered from the Women's day committee secretary at the Association of Commerce, Franklin 7700.

Sunday Is Church Day.

Another group reaching the final stages in the preparations for its program is the Church day group. Church day will be observed next Sunday, opening Festival week. This day will be featured by evening vespers—5:30 to 6:30—in Soldiers' field. Bernard J. Mullaney, chairman, and Frederick J. Ashley, vice chairman, of Festival week, predict that this great outdoor religious service will draw more than 100,000 persons.

Dr. Robert Clement, president of the Chicago Church federation, will direct this day and will be assisted by Dr. John Evans, Dr. Joseph Odin, Dr. Jacob Pister, and Dr. L. I. Williams.

The massed bands of the Salvation Army and the Volunteers of America will begin the program with the playing of religious music. Special numbers will be presented by the Welsh Male chorus under Dr. Daniel Protheroe.

Full Programs for Week.

Besides Church day on Sunday and Women's day Monday the five other days of Festival week are fully scheduled and offer programs of animating and colorful events. The windup of the week will be the Tribune's annual Chicagoland Music Festival at Soldiers' field on the night of Aug. 19. Reserved seat tickets will be 50 cents and all other seats will be available at the usual price of 25 cents.

The other five days are Fort Dearborn day, Tuesday; State street hospitality day, Wednesday; Automobile day and Lake Michigan day, Thursday; Farm Progress day, Iowa Farmers' day, and second Automobile day, Friday, and Music day, Saturday, Aug. 19, climaxed with the Tribune's Music Festival. Each of these special days will be treated in detail later.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

Judging in the third annual Fisher Body Craftsman's guild model coach competition, at the General Motors building, will reach the semi-final stage today when the entries will be narrowed down to eighteen. Six national and Canadian winners of university scholarships, each worth $5,000, will be selected from these eighteen next Wednesday, and announced at a banquet for all state and sectional winners at the 131st Infantry armory. The one hundred and twelve boys whose coach entries reached the final judging here, will arrive in Chicago early next week for the guild's annual convention. They will be guests of the guild at A Century of Progress for four days starting Wednesday.

An estimated 100,000 jars of canned food will be given to charitable organizations at the close of the international canning contest, sponsored by Bell Brothers, manufacturers of fruit jars in Muncie, Ind., which will be held at the Fair from Oct. 1 to Nov. 1. More than $10,000 in cash and merchandise prizes is being offered.

Automobile and accessory exhibitors at the Fair will participate in a series of special events during Automotive week, Sept. 2-9. The week will be inaugurated with a parade through the loop and there will be daily parades in the Fair grounds. The Society of Automotive Engineers will be in session during the week.

The sand pit in the center of the General Motors quarter mile track is the scene of daily demonstrations of General Motor automobiles by famous racing drivers, including Barney Oldfield. The demonstrations are given at 11:30 a. m. and at 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 7 p. m.

A pair of brass food bowls, inlaid with silver and bronze, is part of the Philippine Islands exhibit in the Travel and Transport building. The bowls have been in the family of one of the former native rulers of the Islands for more than three centuries.

Popularity queens of 28 national groups have been invited to an afternoon tea at the Japanese pavilion Friday, Aug. 25. The tea ceremony will be conducted by Miss Chikage Kondo, hostess, and Miss Hiroko Takashi, attendant.

The Indian Pythian home band of 32 boys and girls from the orphans' home maintained by the Knights of Pythias at Lafayette, Ind., will play a concert at the Fair this Saturday. On their trip to and from Chicago they will play in several cities along the route.

Dr. Saito Dilic, a Jugo-Slav lawyer, banker, and business man, visited the Fair yesterday. He said he was greatly impressed with the beauty and magnitude of the Exposition. During his stay in Chicago he will study American banking and business methods.

Leaders of the garden department of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs will sponsor a tea and reception in the Apple Tree outdoor garden of the Horticultural exhibitions at A Century of Progress tomorrow afternoon from 3 to 5. Mrs. W. B. Combs, Tinley Park, will be assisted in receiving by Mrs. Roy F. Hoadley of Yorkville, first vice president of the state federation, and by district garden chairmen. A club chorus will sing "Illinois."

Miss Winifred Christie, English pianist, will give a concert at 3 this afternoon in the Illinois Host building, playing on the Bechstein-Moor double keyboard piano which is on exhibition at the Hall of Science. Miss Christie has been soloist with the Philharmonic society of New York and the Boston Symphony orchestra.

WIVES OF FORMER GOVERNORS AT FAIR TOMORROW

All living wives of former governors of Illinois, several woman descendants of past chief state executives, and other prominent women of the state will take part in the Illinois day program tomorrow at A Century of Progress.

The women's part in the celebration will be featured by the dedication of Achsah Bond drive, the road running from the Roosevelt road entrance of the Fair, to Adler Plantetarium. A bronze marker which tells the story of Achsah Bond, the wife of the first governor of Illinois, Shadrack Bond, will be placed at the head of the drive.

The memorial, designed by Mrs. Nellie Walker, a Chicago sculptor, will be unveiled by Mrs. Edward Poorman of Chicago Heights, the great-great-granddaughter of Achsah Bond. She will be assisted by Miss Cornelia Lunt, 93 years old, daughter of the founder of Evanston.

The dedication of the drive, which is set for 5 p. m., will culminate the work of the Illinois Women's Memorial organization, of which Mrs. P. J. Wimsey of Springfield is chairman.

PLAN FOR TEXAS DAY OBSERVANCE AT FAIR AUG. 23

Plans for the celebration of Texas day at A Century of Progress on Aug. 23 were made at a meeting of the Texas Club of Chicago at the Congress hotel last night. The meeting was attended by 200 Texans living in Chicago, who created committees to arrange entertainments for the thousands of Texans expected.

William H. Krahl, president of the W. H. Krahl Construction company, was elected president of the organization; August de Zavala, vice president; Mrs. J. P. Symonds, vice president; Mrs. G. Gordon Martin, secretary, and Carl M. Lee, treasurer. Committees were formed to arrange for a banquet the night of Aug. 22 and to assist in the production of "Aida" by the Texas Grand Opera association on the night of Aug. 23 in Soldiers' field.

The club voted unanimously to assist in the dedication of a stone from the Alamo, which has been built into The Tribune Tower, on the morning of Texas day. Prominent Texans who will take part in the ceremonies include Miriam A. Ferguson, Senator Morris Sheppard, and Vice President and Mrs. Garner.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS UNDER THE CODE.

The newspaper code under the national recovery act as given to the President contains a stipulation regarding the freedom of the press. The publishers of the country, joining in the attempt to form an acceptable code, have felt strongly that there should be a specific definition of these rights. They agree in the statement that no press can be free if it be compelled to operate under a license.

In the growth of journalism with English speaking people the license was encountered almost in the first development of the newspaper. English government, both monarchical and revolutionary, used the license to control the printing press. A new and unknown factor in public life was appearing and the first instinct of government was to lay a hand on it. Even Cromwell, whose national importance was in the fight for the preservation of liberties, suppressed periodicals under the license system when the views they expressed were contrary to his own.

In our own history there is the celebrated case in which a royal governor of the colony of New York endeavored to stop the publication of articles critical of his administration by sending the publisher to jail for libel. The American constitution contains the provision for the freedom of the press as one of the several elemental declarations upon which the framers of the government depended for the preservation to all time of the liberties which had been won in the revolution.

The liberty of the press is not a specious phrase granting privileges to the publishers of newspapers. It is the statement of the doctrine which preserves the political liberties of the people by preserving to them the freedom of criticism and opposition. Democratic political action bases its assumption of freedom upon the right to free opinion and free speech. Whatever limitations are put upon this freedom are intended merely to prevent injustice to individuals and conserve respect for public decencies, and responsibility for utterances.

The publishers in specifically reserving the constitutional rights of the press do not imply that the present government tends towards a misuse of authority. It is merely reiterated and reaffirmed that nothing in the emergency act shall be construed as surrendering or invalidating the constitutional rights of a free press. It is strongly felt that even the pro forma admission of the licensing system into the publication of newspapers would hark back to the older days when the printing press could be run only by government consent. The power to license contains the power to prohibit.

The best intentioned men in office may resent a vigorous criticism of policies to which they are committed and of measures taken by them to execute their purposes. They may find a public injury in opposition and criticism. The radio, being as new in its early day as the newspaper was in its pioneering experience, is under a government supervision which unquestionably allows it less freedom and less security than has been won by the press. Radio stations are licensed and their operation is regulated. Property rights are not wholly secure and the broadcaster is not completely free to follow his own judgment. There are reasons for this which do not apply to printing presses, one being that the air channels are not unlimited. The number of broadcasting stations which can be operated without detriment to public reception is definite and the decision has been not to allow competition to run its course but to use a system of allocation and regulation. Nevertheless, the licensing and supervision involve insecurity and some censorship other than that which would be imposed by libel laws and rules of public decorum and decency.

The publishers of the United States have felt that there should be no misunderstanding in the emergency act regarding the freedom of the press and consequently have made a definite stipulation about it. A democracy is safe only so long as this right is regarded as outside any possible argument, construction of law, or administrative action. Therefore a statement of it has been stipulated as a condition.

TAKING ADVANTAGE OF SANTA CLAUS.

An amusing short story in the current Harper's may contain a moral for the department of agriculture. The merchants of a small Oklahoma town, it is related, decided to fight the mail order companies by offering a dollar in trade for every mail order catalogue turned in. Some 600 catalogues had been distributed by mail in the town's trading area. By the time set for the public burning of the books no less than a thousand had been turned in, to the astonishment of the merchants. And the next day there were scarcely enough postcards in the town to meet the demand from farmers who wanted to notify the mail order companies to send duplicate catalogues.

The proposals of the department to raise farm prices by plowing up cotton and planting less wheat and other cereals seem to be as direct an attack upon the farm problem as the burning of the catalogues was upon mail order competition. Still it would be a mistake now to forecast the results. A year from now it may be discovered that the farmers have let their least productive acres lie fallow. Some farmers are already talking of using the payments from the government to buy fertilizer for the land which will be farmed. If this practice is generally followed the expected reduction in output may not be realized.

It is not likely that the government's lawyers, however forethoughtful and clever they may be, can draft an instrument which will not permit evasions of the spirit, if not the letter, of the agreement. Even assuming a widespread desire on the part of farmers to observe the spirit of the agreement, the department must still be far from certain that farmers generally have or will have any real comprehension of the government's purposes. Often, expectations of coöperation with the government have been disappointed. For example, the insuring of the lives of soldiers in the last war was intended to prevent another pension scandal such as followed the civil war. It is now clear that this objective was understood by every one except the soldiers. Many of them who never saw the front began to demand pensions almost as soon as the Germans surrendered.

It is just possible, too, that many farmers will misunderstand the beneficent purposes of the government in its acreage control regulations. The government has announced that its purpose is to raise the farmer's income. The individual farmer may conclude that any steps he takes in the same direction will be patriotic.

PERJURY IN THE COURTS.

Chief Justice Prystalski has done well to ask the August grand jury to give special attention to the subject of perjury in the Criminal courts. He notes specifically the suggestion of Judge Epstein that in a trial before him there was strong reason to suspect perjury, but the chief justice was obviously not moved by this instance alone. We think it will be agreed among observers of criminal administration that there is more successful perjury than need be accepted even in our lax conditions of law enforcement. An investigation by the grand jury may be beneficial, if not in specific prosecutions, at least in putting juries upon their guard against perjured testimony.

In the case before Judge Epstein the jury apparently was impressed by an alibi which the more experienced and disciplined mind of the judge did not accept. There was also involved, in all probability, the distrust of police testimony, which is an inevitable result of the complication of the police system with politics, but this serious weakness in the prosecution of criminals can only be removed by the divorce of the police from politics. An August grand jury cannot accomplish that, but it can inquire into the extent of false swearing and throw some light on the problem it presents.

We suggest the jury consider the need for an act requiring notice to the prosecution of the alibi defense, thus giving opportunity to investigate before trial. Several other states have such a law and have found it useful in preventing or defeating perjured testimony. An important phase of the problem is the participation of counsel in perjured defenses. We doubt there are many cases where perjury is deliberately resorted to, especially in the form of alibis in which the defendants and their friends have acted without at least the knowledge of lawyers for the defense. Professional ethics do not justify inaction where a lawyer has reason to believe his client is procuring perjury. It is not within the duty of an attorney to his client either to connive at perjury or to permit it by silence. It is his duty as an officer of the court to expose it or prevent it. A member of the bar who does not should be disbarred and, of course, one that can be proved to have advised or assisted subornation should be sent to the penitentiary.

The problem of proof is a most difficult one, but that does not justify an attitude of laissez faire toward an evil recognized as serious by those acquainted with conditions. The August grand jury will not be wasting its time in the inquiry suggested by Chief Justice Prystalski. It should be able to give the public, and therefore trial juries, useful information and perhaps make practical suggestions for correction.

Editorial of the Day

[Decatur Herald.]

Anonymous threats of bombings and personal injuries received by five Des Moines, Ia., grocers who refused to comply with the opening and closing hours agreed upon by the Retail Grocers' association suggest one of the serious complications which the government will be called upon to deal with in administering the national recovery act.

In the nation-wide drive to reduce working hours and boost wages it has become apparent thus far that not all of the country's employers and retail men will be enlisted in the program and that there will be slackers in this campaign just as there were during the war. Codes naturally will be violated despite the fact that public opinion will weigh heavily on the violators.

The government, no matter how much it desires to prosecute the offenders, cannot sanction the efforts of persons who, acting individually, take it upon themselves to punish those that fail to stay in line. Such a policy, if allowed to spread, would lead to a situation in which one competitor could smash in the store windows of another and enjoy immunity by an unlimited number of artful devices.

Code enforcement has not been a problem in the early stages of the recovery campaign. The Des Moines episode should serve as a means of impressing upon the country the importance of group action in dealing with violations. If the government cannot step in and exert its power it will remain for organized industries to settle their differences within their own ranks, not by threats of force and bombings but by mediation and boards of arbitration.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson hopes that "fierce local troubles" will not retard the progress of recovery. Nothing would be more disconcerting in this national emergency than a continuance of trade warfare, strikes, and killings which the country has suffered in the last three years.

NRA COMPLEXITIES.

BECAUSE OUR ACCOUTERMENT WAS becoming somewhat rusty, we took part of it for refurbishing to our tailor, intending also to broach the subject of a new fall suit of armor with terms of payment thereon. He greeted us cordially after the long absence.

"How's business been?" we asked.

"Oh, I've kept going after a fashion," he replied.

"Not as much as you'd think. You see, I cut prices pretty hard because my customers simply didn't have the money to pay the old figures and materials were a little cheaper. I sold my suits at about cost, sometimes even lost money on them, to give work to my shopmen and to keep my organization intact for better days. But, of course, I can't do that any more. It would be unfair to my competitors under the code."

We still need a fall suit. But we're ready to "W. D. O. P." when the "Buy Now" campaign starts.

A SUBURBAN GAS STATION OWNER WAS just getting by in his new location, but not yet making any money, which was distressing in view of a heavy (to him) investment. He employed three helpers, two at $20 and one at $24 weekly. The higher priced one was delegated to ask the boss for a raise for all.

"All right, we quit," said the spokesman.

"Fair enough," said the boss.

"Well, maybe we could give you another week or two."

"No, you've quit. That settles it."

Whereupon the boss hired three new attendants at $16 each per week.

"And well she might," I said to myself, "for truly I must present an imposing sight."

IS IT HOT? O, MY!

THE weather man is quoted as having given the temperature today as "100 in the shade." A man was overheard to say, "I am tired of hearing people say it is 100 in the shade. When it is 100 there is no shade. I've walked a quarter of a mile in the sun and I have found no shade. What I want to know is how hot was it where I was at—and that was in the sun."

There is much truth in what this vocal and emphatic gentleman had to say. Those who worked in places such as where the weather man's thermometer stood could figure on temperatures that were as the weather man gave them. But many millions of people had to do their work in air that is somewhere around 120 when the official figure is "100 in the shade," and that makes a difference.

The temperature of the blood in the human body is somewhere near 100. When the thermometer is placed under the tongue it registers something over 98. When a properly constructed thermometer is placed on some fairly well protected skin area the temperature records somewhere near 96.

The human body is making heat all the time. The foods supply some heat, digestion itself makes some—even thinking makes heat enough to measure when fine instruments are used. Muscle work makes a great deal of it. The excess must be gotten rid of. This is done by evaporation of sweat and of water from the lungs by radiation and conduction and by secretion of the glands of the body. The great bulk of the excess heat is discharged to the air.

When the temperature of the air rises above 100, and especially when it goes much above that, there is a slim chance that the body can hand it any heat. The exchange is apt to be in the other direction. One of the best methods of cooling the skin is by blowing air against it. If the air so blown is much below 90 we call it a cold draft and complain of the discomfort. When the air is hotter than 100, having it blown against the skin increases discomfort. If it is much above 100 the discomfort is great.

The hot and uncomfortable weather in Chicago on certain days is the result of west and southwest winds that bring here air heated by the sun on the western plains.

We lose much of our excess heat by the evaporation of water, especially from the skin, but there is a limit to the possibilities of evaporation. If the air is humid, as well as hot, evaporation is at a minimum. Sweat that runs down the face and that soaks into wet garments does not evaporate and has little cooling action.

Sunlight itself has heat that it imparts to things it strikes. It can pass through glass and through some fabrics and it can be absorbed. And, so far as comfort is concerned, there is a vast difference between "100 in the shade" and "130 in the sun."

The temperature of the air is of importance in determining what kind of clothes we wear, what color, what fabric, what weave, what cut, what kind of hat; whether we shall fan or sit in a draft; what kind of work we shall do; what we shall eat and drink.

INSURANCE POLICY.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A local insurance company issued a sick and accident policy to me on which I paid two years' premiums. The policy carried no death benefit, and I have drawn nothing from the company. The company has discontinued the policy and they refuse to refund any part of the money I have paid. What can I do about this case? M. J.

It seems probable that your payments merely covered the insurance protection that you received without any additional sum to build up a reserve. If such is the case you are not entitled to a refund any more than in the case of a fire insurance policy on which you might have enjoyed the protection that you paid for.

THE MEMORY THAT STILL HAUNTS US

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 10, 1917.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Provost Marshal Gen. Crowder issued regulations under which men of the new national army will be called to the colors beginning on Sept. 1. The regulations map out the whole program to be followed until every soldier of the selective draft army has been accepted by the adjutant general of the training cantonment to which he is assigned. Two hundred thousand of the first 687,000 men will be called up to Sept. 1 and forwarded to the camps selected for them by Sept. 5. The whole business of assembling the levies at entraining points, providing them with shelter, food, and transportation and giving them their actual induction into military life is intrusted to the civilian local boards which are selecting them for service.

WAR SUMMARY.—Russians and Rumanians opened an attack on the Austro-Germans, but were repulsed with heavy losses, Berlin reports. Paris reports further French gains on Belgian front. The artillery duel in Flanders again is increasing in intensity, Berlin says. The commander of an armed guard of an American merchantman has reported to the navy department that his crew sank a submarine after the Germans had made an unsuccessful attempt to sink the ship.

FORT SHERIDAN.—More than 2,000 students in the reserve officers' training camp yesterday were made officers in the new national army. In groups called from the different companies they marched to the office of Col. W. J. Nicholson, the commanding officer, and there, after each man had been notified of the rank awarded him, they took the oath of office. The procedure was a surprise. According to information from Washington the men were not even to have been told the rank for which they were considered until the lists were released for publication at the end of the week.

FROM CONSUL GENERAL SIMON.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—Recognizing that the policy of your publication has always been one of fairness, I take the liberty of bringing to your attention that an article in your issues of Aug. 5 and 6 in connection with my recall inadvertently contained a statement which on the surface may have no great significance, but which by inference may be misleading.

May I therefore restate to you as follows:

As in the service of all foreign offices, the German government when recalling an official from his post does not assign any special reason for such recall, and it is therefore unwarranted to couple my recall with any occurrences either within the consulate itself or in my relations to the general public.

On account of the uncertainty of my reentry into active service, I have communicated with some of my friends in Germany immediately after receiving the first intimation of my recall early in June in order to secure their coöperation in seeking desirable connections in Germany. It was in this connection that I stated that the reports which I received from Germany were not encouraging and for that reason I have considered affiliating myself with American industries and have approached some of my friends in Chicago in the matter.

I should deem it a great favor if you would kindly publish the above statement in your paper. Dr. H. F. Simon,

ENOUGH TO LIVE ON.

Naperville, Ill., Aug. 3.—In The Tribune of Aug. 1 I noticed the article about the policeman's widow not being able to support herself and four children on $150 a month. Too bad, I must say. We are a family of three and have an average wage of $50 a month to live on and we get along beautifully, though, of course, with but a few luxuries. At least we have a home and enough to eat and wear. What more is there to ask?

RUSSIA'S SELF-CRITICISM.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—Apropos your editorial in today's Tribune, "Russia's Plague of Bosses," may I take the liberty of drawing your attention to the fact that the investigation you speak of was undertaken and brought to light by a government controlled newspaper? This feature of self-criticism, which it seems to me you did not particularly stress, is worthy of deep thought.

I wonder how the Tribune will reconcile the revelations made in this editorial with its many charges of suppression of free speech in soviet Russia.

In closing may I also suggest that it is just conceivable that to some people economic security might be preferred to a questionable measure of civic freedom? R. A. Schwartz.

FORECASTING THE WEATHER.

Evanston, Ill., Aug. 3.—Isn't it about time for the government weather forecasters to take a hitch in their belts and proceed to give this community better and more accurate weather forecasts? Any intelligent person with a reliable aneroid barometer and a daily observation of general cloud formations and prevailing winds can prove himself much more accurate than the weather guessers at the government weather bureau.

As a proof of this, can any one find in the weather reports of the last twenty-four or thirty-six hours any information or even suggestion of the east-northeast gale off Lake Michigan and last night's torrents of rain preceding it?

The plan of reserving a part of the 100,000 seats in Soldiers' field for the Chicagoland Music Festival to be held Saturday night, Aug. 19, is meeting with enthusiastic responses.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Sopranos and basses of the west side gathered at the Midwest Athletic club last night for the preliminary contest representing their part of Chicago in the Chicagoland Music festival. When the judges had collected their final figures—a repetition was demanded in order to determine the respective merits of the first and second contestants among the sopranos—first place was awarded to Margaret Christy, 5711 Race avenue, who sang "Birthday"; second to Jean Masek, 1640 South 58th court, Cicero, with "Mi Chiamano Mimi," from "La Bohème," and third to Anna Zeiler, 222 Merrill avenue, Park Ridge, with "Because."

Because the group of basses was considerably smaller only first and second places were awarded in this class. These went, first to Glenn Most of 219 Schiller street, Elmhurst, singing "Hills," and second to Austin Abell, 474 Phillips avenue, singing "I Must Go Down to the Seas Again."

There was considerable diversity in the choice of numbers, also, as always happens in a contest of this sort, considerable diversity in manner of singing. Quite a number chose operatic arias. Two candidates sang "Pace, Pace, Mio Dio," by Verdi, two more "Caro Nome," also by Verdi; another two tested their abilities in the waltz "Il Bacio," which, though not operatic, belongs among the major and brilliant songs.

Others came along with "Know'st Thou the Land" from "Mignon," Musetta's aria from "La Bohème," Handel's "Where'er You Walk," and in one case of light opera, the street song from Herbert's "Naughty Marietta."

Tonight contraltos, tenors, and baritones of the south side will compete in the roof garden of the Sherry hotel, 1725 East 53d street. The public is invited.

TRIP TO DENTIST REALLY OUGHT TO BE A PLEASURE!

No Reason for Patients' Fear, Convention Told.

How to overcome this fear was also one of the problems which concerned the dentists. Dr. C. W. Hagan of Pittsburgh declared that a lifelong antipathy to the dentist often is caused by a child's first visit to a dental office for treatment of its teeth.

Favors General Anesthetic.

A general anesthetic, instead of a local one, when operating on a child under 5 years of age, was recommended by Dr. Hagan. A child who has not reached the age of reason is likely to confuse pain with the strange feeling of the local anesthetic and conceive a dread of the dentist which will last throughout life, he declared.

Dr. Hagan also urged the use of a general anesthetic for all patients in whom fear could not be overcome before the performance of an operation.

Heredity is probably a more important factor than diet in the matter of tooth health, Dr. Frederick B. Noyes of Chicago told the dentists. Immunity and susceptibility to caries has been traced through four generations. Dental caries may be defined in layman's language as decayed teeth.

Diet Tests Incomplete.

"Most of the experiments with diets so far have not been sufficiently controlled or carefully enough executed to produce reliable results," he said.

It has been discovered that a person's natural immunity to caries may be lost through a change in environment, he declared.

The present practice of dentists in exercising locked jaws resulting from extraction of teeth was condemned by Dr. David J. Goodfriend of Philadelphia. Exercising the joint makes the patient susceptible to disease of the ear, Dr. Goodfriend maintained. He demonstrated the use of orthopedic principles in repositioning the lower jaw.

Families on Relief Rolls Decrease 11% During July

The monthly report of Joseph L. Moss, county director of public welfare, showed yesterday that the number of families receiving idle relief in Cook county decreased by 16,319, or about 11 per cent, in July as compared to June. At the same time the average cost of relief per family was raised from $24 to $25.51, so that the reduction in total expenditures for family relief amounted to only about 5 per cent.

That the actual cost per family for a full month's relief payments was probably still greater was indicated by another paragraph in the report. In this paragraph, discussing the reduction in the number of families receiving relief, it was pointed out that in a great many cases the head of the family got work during the month of July, so that, while the family got relief for only part of the month, it was included in the total on the rolls.

Begin Paying Rent.

The report explains that the increased cost per family is due to the fact that on July 1 the Illinois Emergency Relief commission authorized for the first time the payment of rent for families on the relief rolls, and also that food costs have risen.

During July there were 132,424 Cook county families on the relief rolls, as compared to 148,743 in June and 178,634 in March, when the peak was established. That this decrease, as Mr. Moss claims, was due primarily to improved industrial conditions rather than to a seasonal decrease in relief applicants during the summer, is indicated by comparison with the figures for corresponding months in 1932.

26 Per Cent Under March.

In July, 1932, there were 95,213 families receiving relief. This was a 3 per cent reduction below the figure for June, 1932, and a 6 per cent reduction below the number of families in March, 1932. This year the July total is 11 per cent below the June total and 26 per cent below the March peak.

Expenditures for July of this year were $3,378,540, a decrease of only $190,773, or 5.4 per cent, below the total expenditures for family relief in June.

Along with the decrease in the number of families getting relief, the number of new applicants also decreased during July, Mr. Moss reported. There were 7,431 new applications in July, as compared to 8,510 in June, a decrease of 12 per cent.

TRAFFIC DOUBLE, BUT FATAL AUTO ACCIDENTS DROP

Heavy Toll Shown on Three Streets.

Even though there are twice the usual number of automobiles on the streets of Chicago due to the presence of World's Fair visitors, the traffic division of the police department has maintained its record of the last seven months for reduction of automobile fatalities. Capt. David A. Flynn, chief of the traffic division, cited this record in an address to the fleet superintendents' division of the Chicago Safety council at luncheon in the Great Northern hotel yesterday.

"Since the World's Fair opened our men have been lectured daily as to courtesy, and only five complaints have been made against them," Capt. Flynn said. "Of these, four were found to be without any basis."

In the 27 years in which he has been with the traffic division, the police captain said, there were never more than half the automobiles on the streets as there are in Chicago today.

"In every block in the city you will see six or seven cars from other states," he said. "It is the visitors who are making a success of the Fair, and we wish to give them service and courtesy, although each state seems to specialize in a different method of driving."

Fatal accidents, he said, were reduced 14 per cent in the period from Jan. 1 to Aug. 1, as compared with the same period last year. The total for the first seven months of 1932 was 515. There were 441 fatal accidents in the first seven months of this year, of which 51 occurred on three streets in Chicago, Capt. Flynn reported. Thirty-two occurred on Western avenue, 15 on Ashland avenue, and four in the two mile stretch of the widened La Salle street.

A reduction of 6 per cent was recorded with reference to the nonfatal accidents in which injuries resulted. Accidents of this class totaled 9,328 in the period from Jan. 1 to Aug. 1 in 1932, and 8,734 in the similar period in 1933.

STUDY BREWERY STOCK DEAL IN SANBORN CASE

Prosecutor Hears of Projected Pool.

New York, Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Bancroft Mitchell, son of W. D. Mitchell, former United States attorney general, was found by newspaper correspondents in Florence, Italy. He expressed willingness to coöperate with the New York police in their investigation into the murder of Henry F. Sanborn, eastern representative of the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad.

Mr. Mitchell, who, with his wife, sailed from this country for a vacation trip in Italy on July 22, five days after Sanborn's disappearance, said he planned to sail for New York on Sept. 9 from Le Havre, but would be willing to sail sooner if police considered his presence in New York necessary.

Sanborn Casual Friend.

Mr. Mitchell, who is an investment counselor, said he was only casually acquainted with Sanborn and last saw him about July 1. He said he had read fragmentary reports about the finding of Sanborn's bullet torn body in a shallow grave in a Bayside, L. I., thicket, and already had been in communication with New York police. He called the slaying of Sanborn "an unfortunate affair, upon which I am afraid I cannot shed light."

Mr. Mitchell declined to discuss his business relations with Sanborn. On Sanborn's body was a receipt for four shares of Weibel Brewery stock. Mitchell's name was signed to the receipt.

Hears of Friendly Pool.

The Eastern Brewery Securities corporation, formed by Mitchell to deal in the stocks of the Weibel Brewery at New Haven and other breweries, was discussed today by two of Mitchell's associates in the venture. They, Lloyd Hilton Smith and W. Stanton Barber, were questioned by Attorney Charles P. Sullivan, chief assistant district attorney. Mr. Sullivan said he learned Smith, Barber and Mitchell were planning a $36,000 pool, of which each was to provide one-third, but Mitchell had difficulty in raising his $12,000 and apparently had been negotiating with Sanborn for aid in raising that amount.

Mr. Smith said later, "I never laid eyes on Mr. Sanborn." Mr. Smith added he withdrew from the Eastern Brewery corporation project in February.

Second Wife Questioned.

Sanborn's second wife, Mary Irene Waterous Sanborn, who divorced him in Chicago in 1930, flew from St. Louis, Mo., to Newark and attended the slain man's funeral at Epsom, N. H., today. She was questioned by Inspector John J. Gallagher, but could give little information of value.

Arthur S. Owen and William O. Dodge, railroad subordinates of Sanborn, told Mr. Sullivan Sanborn was a quiet man, with frugal tastes who did not make friends easily.

Owen said an unknown woman telephoned Sanborn at the office the day he was reported missing. He noticed the call, which could not be traced, he said, because it was the first time a woman ever had called Sanborn there.

GROCER WOUNDED BY BANDITS.

Joseph Schwartz, 42 years old, proprietor of a grocery store at 2854 Wellington avenue, was shot in the right shoulder yesterday when he resisted two bandits who entered the store. The robbers fled without loot.

GARRETT KINNEY FUNERAL SERVICE HELD AT PEORIA

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 9.—(AP)—With about 75 persons attending, private funeral services were held today for Garrett De F. Kinney, who shot himself while under indictment for alleged embezzlement as state director of finance.

Of the former officials with whom Kinney was associated only Omer N. Custer and Oscar Nelson were present. The widow, a foster son, and family friends made up the remainder of the assemblage.

Burial was in Springdale cemetery. Dr. A. J. Carpenter, Universalist pastor, officiated at the services.

Kinney shot himself a month ago and died Monday morning. Dr. George W. Michell testified at the inquest that hardening of blood vessels in the brain may have caused a change in Kinney's mental condition during the last few years of his life.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—Kidnaping insurance sought by anxious Americans today forms a most interesting gamble among London underwriters. Lloyd's brokers, who are ready to take a chance on anything, assert that they have always been willing to guarantee ransom money for a price anywhere in the world. But almost no business whatever is done at present except with the United States.

The transactions are wrapped in the deepest secrecy. For a number of reasons the brokers desire to keep their names hidden and they impose a like obligation on their clients. The instant a policy's existence becomes known, it is void. Nobody in London is willing to discuss in the vaguest way how the thing is done without repeated pledges that his identity will be concealed.

Chicagoan Has $50,000 Policy.

The wave of kidnapings in the United States has brought a considerable increase in such policies in recent months, it is known, but a round of brokers' offices today revealed only one specific instance. That was a policy taken out by an unnamed Chicagoan for $50,000. The risk was placed by a well known firm of brokers at 1½ per cent for 12 months. It still has some time to run.

The brokers laughed at the suggestion that wealthy Americans have to pay heavy premiums on kidnaping policies. The rate ranges from 1 to 2 per cent, depending on the individual. But in no case do the underwriters agree to pay all the ransom money. They agree to furnish 90 per cent within the amount of the policy while the kidnapers' victim has to find the other 10 per cent.

Reasonable Risk Indicated.

A broker, who denied he is in the kidnaping insurance business, pointed out that the low rate indicates what is regarded in London as a reasonable risk. He added he had not heard of an underwriter having been called upon to pay. The Chicago rate is the same as that in China or any other part of the world.

GIRL, 17, SLAIN BY STEPFATHER OVER CARNIVAL

Beloit, Wis., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Earl Gates, 40, tonight shot and killed his 17 year old stepdaughter, Earleen Gates, during a quarrel over his refusal to permit her to go to a carnival. He was arrested four hours later.

Lola Cross, 19, witnessed the shooting. She said Mrs. Gates told Earleen she could go to the carnival and the two were leaving when Gates accosted them.

"I told you you couldn't go," she quoted Gates as saying.

"Mamma said I could and I am going anyway," she said Earleen replied.

John I. Romer, Printers' Ink Publisher, Is Dead

New York, Aug. 9.—(AP)—John Irving Romer, president of the Printers' Ink and Romer Publishing companies, who died today in Rhode Island, was the sponsor of a "Truth in Advertising" movement. In 1911 he started a drive against fraudulent advertising and engaged an attorney to study the legal suasion essential to halt false advertisements. Mr. Romer was a copywriter for a time with George B. Rowell & Co. He bought control of Printers' Ink in 1908.

Wm. Shakespeare, Vocal Teacher, Dead in Ohio

Chicago friends of William Shakespeare, vocal teacher who left here several months ago to teach at the College of Music at Cincinnati, learned of his death there yesterday at the age of 53. Mr. Shakespeare was born in London and educated at Harrow. He studied under his father, who was a well known teacher of voice. He will be buried this afternoon at London, O., the home of his widow, Mrs. Dorothy Shakespeare.

POLICE BACKERS OF INSURANCE CO. FACE NEW QUIZ

Commissioner of Police Allman yesterday ordered a new investigation into the charge that eight policemen attached to the public vehicle license commission were among the incorporators of the Lake Shore Mutual Insurance company, with a view to preferring charges against them before the civil service commission. The insurance company insures Checker taxicabs. An investigation last year resulted in a reprimand for the policemen.

The policemen's activities were discussed also at a session of the new vehicle commission. Testifying before the commission, Michael Sokol, president of the Checker company, said he did not know of the policemen's connection with the insurance company until it was revealed last year before a city council committee.

An indication that the Yellow Cab company intends to continue its present rate of 10 cents for each two-thirds of a mile was given by Benjamin Samuels, vice president of the Yellow Cab. He said that the company is prepared to continue this rate until six months after the close of the World's Fair to determine if the rate is sufficient to give the company a fair return. Members of the commission demurred at waiting that long before making rate recommendations.

'SHANGHAI ARMY' BEATEN BY REDS; 2000 CASUALTIES

Chinese Heroes Retreat After 4 Day Battle.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Aug. 9.—China's famous 19th Route army, which defended Shanghai against the Japanese early last year, lost four battalions, with more than 2,000 men killed or wounded, in a four day battle with communists at Lienchang in Fukien province, it was learned today.

Lienchang is located in a mountainous area about 100 miles northwest of Amoy. Late reports from Amoy state that Gen. Tsai Ting-kai, commander of the army, has retreated to a fortified position near Lungyen, about 60 miles northwest of Amoy.

Amoy Panicky.

Amoy is panicky and martial law has been declared. The American gunboat Fulton is expected to arrive at Amoy tomorrow to protect the large American missionary community from possible disorders. Rear Admiral Montgomery M. Taylor, chief of the Asiatic fleet, ordered the Fulton to proceed from Foochow two days ago.

A guarded report from Nanking tonight through the Kuomin [official] News agency stated that the Reds apparently are commanded by Gen. Chu Teh, a former disciple of the Russian propagandist, Michael Borodin. They are fighting to break a cordon of government troops in order to reach the sea coast to obtain needed supplies.

Battle Started Friday.

The government troops are those of Marshal Chiang Kai-shek, generalissimo of China, operating in Kiangsi province, assisted by the 19th Route army and Cantonese forces led by Gen. Chen Chi-tang. Gen Chen's troops are pressing the communists from the south.

The Lienchang battle started Aug. 4 when the government's 78th division, commanded by Gen. Chu Shounien, greatly outnumbered, was finally defeated before reinforcements were able to traverse the broken country.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

The picture starts with the coming of the elder Novaks to America. They had planned to live in Chicago, but the great fire is raging there, and the train conductor hustles them on Braidwood.

Here Jon works in the coal mines and the Novak children go to school. School! There was none of it in his life, but Jon Sr. is piteously anxious that Jon Jr. shall have an education and "work in the sunshine."

A mine disaster robs the Novaks of husband and father, and young Jon is compelled to support his mother and sisters by working as did his dad.

He asks for a raise—and is fired. To Chicago . . . !

Here, in due time, he marries; becomes a leader among his own people; is recognized by municipal bosses as a power; goes from legislature to senate, and, one day, is elected mayor. The picture concludes with the Miami shooting. Jon's last words—and the ones that end the picture—are:

"I'm glad it was me and not you!"

Preston Foster gives a forceful and believable portrayal of Novak. He makes his character a hardy, lovable, incorruptible family and political man. Irene Biller and Leon Waycoff are appealing as the inarticulate parents. Frank Sheridan provides a canny and humorous depiction of a certain Senator McGuinnes who benignly blends politics, philanthropy and chicanery into a brew imminently pleasing to most of his henchmen. Zita Johann as the wife and Lita Chevret as a vamp spurned by the hero do admirably.

"The Man Who Dared" has been staged and directed with care and presents some interesting views of early Chicago. You'll enjoy the beer garden episodes.

I should think that the family and admirers of the late mayor would be greatly pleased with this piece.

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Hi-ho! circus winners, the day has finally arrived! This afternoon we'll see one of the best shows in the world. Tight-rope walkers, clowns, elephants, musical seals, prancing horses, and all the other wonderful sights that are part of a big circus will be on exhibition.

I want you all to be on time, please, —this is particularly important today, because if you come late you might have some difficulty finding our party in the big tent. You should all have your invitations with directions for meeting by this time, so see that you're at the appointed place at the appointed hour.

My guests for the Jack and Jill party have been selected from a huge batch of very good letters. We're limited to 50 boys and 50 girls as usual, so I had to make a very careful choice. We'll announce the winners of invitations in next Sunday's TRIBUNE, and the boy and girl who'll receive our two handsome prizes will learn of their good fortune when we meet at the party next Thursday.

New and Slim Street Frocks Win Shoppers

BY RHEA SEEGER.

One shopping trip will leave you in a fine frenzy until you can buy a new street dress . . . one of the first, slim things that are quite the smartest costumes a weary summer wardrobe gives way to . . . thin wools in fascinating new colors, dull almond greens, rich glowing russets, wine red and the ubiquitous black and white and lastly, the newest gray shades of gun-metal or smoketone.

You haven't seen anything until you have looked at all the new shoulder exaggerations . . . seams that jut right out at right angles . . . perky tucks that widen you laterally but fashionably, corded bands of cloth that streak madly around the shoulders making you look like the silhouette of a modernistic building.

Last year you were conscious of ascot scarves and ties, this season you simply can't get away from them, they are small and lady-like, they are wider and still wider until they cover the entire chest expansion and reach well down to the waist line.

You will see them of fur, velvet, brocade, sleek white and high colored satin, anything and everything in the way of color and material. Brown dresses have cream colored wide lapels edged with ginger brown fur . . . black crêpes have white satin ascots clamped into position with glittering clips of rhinestone and dull green sheer wool suits have brown velvet ascots sewed to the neckline of the dress, ready to be looped over the separate coat.

New black wool frocks have intricately fashioned and designed sleeves and long simple skirts accented with cleverly widened shoulder seams and some of the most stunning belts that have been used in weeks.

One knockout model is a miracle of simplicity, trimmed with corded bands and a wide robin-hood belt made of shiny chromium discs on a belt of the same black material as the dress.

Another has two of the largest lapels of wide corded white bengaline to be found. Another has rounded ties of crinkled white crêpe and yet another flashes a double loop of rather old fashioned flowered taffeta.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

HELEN HAYES strolled through Paris at the Fair last night with her brother-in-law, Alfred MacArthur, and a party of friends. The famous movie star was unrecognized by the crowds, and the first attention the party created was when a barker, ignoring Miss Hayes, plucked at Mr. MacArthur's sleeve and said:

"You're Lionel Barrymore, aren't you? Will you give me your autograph, please?"

LATER in the evening, however, when the diminutive movie star was touring the Midway in a rickshaw, crowds gathered to stare and argue, within her hearing, as to whether she really were Helen Hayes. Miss Hayes had heard a similar dispute in the afternoon. As she was looking at the House of Tomorrow she heard a voice behind her say, "There's Helen Hayes," and a second voice, after a pause obviously devoted to close scrutiny, answered: "Well, you're crazy as usual."

IF you would like to know more about Miss Hayes, she is on her way east for two or three weeks, during which time she will go to Nyack, N. Y., to see the new house she and her husband, Charlie MacArthur, have purchased there. It has been named "Pretty Penny," a title clapped on to it by Ben Hecht, long-time friend and co-playwright of MacArthur's, who himself owns a handsome estate at Nyack. And for the edification of the feminine readers—Miss Hayes did the Fair in a frock of dark blue satin with tiny white polka-dots, its lingerie yoke fastened with a pair of unusual sapphire and crystal clips, a recent gift from Norma Shearer and her husband.

* *

THIS afternoon Miss Harriet Monroe will read her famous "Columbian Ode," written for the World's Fair of '93, at the Illinois Host building. That is merely by way of preface. . . . The part of the story we find interesting is the picture of the scene forty-one years ago when Miss Monroe drove to the Columbian Exposition to read her ode at the dedication of the Exposition buildings. It was a sunny autumn day in October, 1892, when the fragile little poetess, in a demure high necked frock, drove in a carriage, her father, the late Henry S. Monroe, beside her, through the crowded streets toward the Liberal Arts building. Detachments of the troops of foreign nations galloped through the street past her carriage, the October sun shining on their brilliant uniforms. At the Liberal Arts building a crowd of 20,000 people waited to hear the ode, and a chorus of 5,000 voices sang parts of it. And after it was over Vice President Levi P. Morton gave her a laurel wreath. Today the laurel wreath may be missing, but with Miss Monroe on the platform will be Paul Engle, the young Iowa poet who recently won a poetry prize, who will read his prize winning poem. And Miss Monroe's real laurels, perhaps, are the young poets like Mr. Engle she has encouraged on the path toward recognition.

Golfers Plan Gay Social Time for Women's National Players

BY JUDITH CASS.

BECAUSE this is the first time Chicago has drawn a national woman's golf tourney since the 1915 matches at Onwentsia and because the city will not play host to feminine golfers again until 1945, society has agreed to make the thirty-seventh national women's amateur championships to begin Aug. 28 at the Exmoor Country club a stellar social as well as sporting attraction.

According to preliminary plans every young woman who is golf minded is concerned with the hospitality and entertainment of the visiting stars who are to compete. Of course they secretly hope that one of our own links' celebrities—Mrs. Charles Dennehy, Miss Edith Cummings, Miss Jean Armstrong, or our present champion, Miss Virginia Van Wie—will take the first honors this year, but they do want to prove to the guests that this is a delightfully gay and hospitable town.

A number of the national contestants are already here either to participate in or follow the Women's Western that is being played this week on the course of the Oak Park Country club. The flashing, dark eyed Enid Wilson has arrived, though she isn't playing in Oak Park. And so have Helen Hicks, whose home is on Long Island; Ada MacKenzie, who comes from Canada; that charming southerner from Atlanta, Alexa Sterling Frasier, and Maureen Orcutt, who leads a gay social life in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Austin Pardue of Minneapolis is right at home playing down here, for she learned golf in Chicago and on the north shore. While here for the Western and the nationals she is enjoying her mother's Indian Hill house, that of Mrs. Charles Klotz. Mrs. Klotz is summering at the Land o' Lakes in Wisconsin.

Mrs. Pardue Out For Several Years.

Like Mrs. Dennehy, Mrs. Pardue has passed up golf for several years for cook books and nursery chores. Both, however, are equally glad to be back in the running this summer. Friends only regret that the national championships won't see Mrs. Dennehy lined up against her good friend, Glenna Collett Vare, but a new son in the Vare family prevents the famous Glenna from participating this year.

Although Miss Cummings has gone up to Jaspar lodge in the gorgeous Canadian Rockies for a few weeks of fishing and mountain climbing, every one is counting on her for the nationals. Among the very young recruits Miss Jean Armstrong, the daughter of the Horace White Armstrongs and a debutante of the last season, is showing herself strong competition for the older and more experienced golfers and so is 19 year old Miss Rena Nelson, who is Exmoor's champion. This summer Miss Nelson has broken two course records, one at Sunset Ridge and the other at Skokie.

Next week and the week following the visiting golfers are going out north to practice on the Exmoor course. The first thing that is planned for them in the way of entertainment is a supper dance the evening of Aug. 24 in the low rambling Exmoor clubhouse.

A larger and more formal party at the club will follow on Saturday evening, the 26th, and the next afternoon Mr. and Mrs. William Haerther have invited all of the golfers out to their beautiful country estate northwest of the city for swimming and "early tea." The Exmoor members will be hosts and hostesses at two more dinner dances the following week, one on Aug. 31 and another Sept. 2.

Mrs. Paul Walker is vitally concerned with the entertainment as a member of the board of the Woman's National Golf association. And so are Mrs. Haerther, Mrs. John A. Wheeler, James T. Aubrey and Fred A. Cuscaden, who is president of the Exmoor club.

Annual Tourney at Lake Geneva Club.

Golf is to be the main attraction this week-end at the Lake Geneva Country club, where the annual tournament is to be played. The competition starts today and continues through Friday and Saturday with such entries as Henry C. Bartholo-

BLOOD MONEY

By IRVIN S. COBB.

SYNOPSIS.

Gilbert Jonathan Redd, who lives in a village near the eastern end of Long Island, is called to the home of his wealthy stepbrother, Lucas Cresap four miles distant, who was found dead by violence in his boathouse on Kettle pond. His Chinese servant is also found dead in the same room. A blow on the forehead from a slender, sharp edged implement killed Cresap. The cause of the Chinaman's death is not apparent.

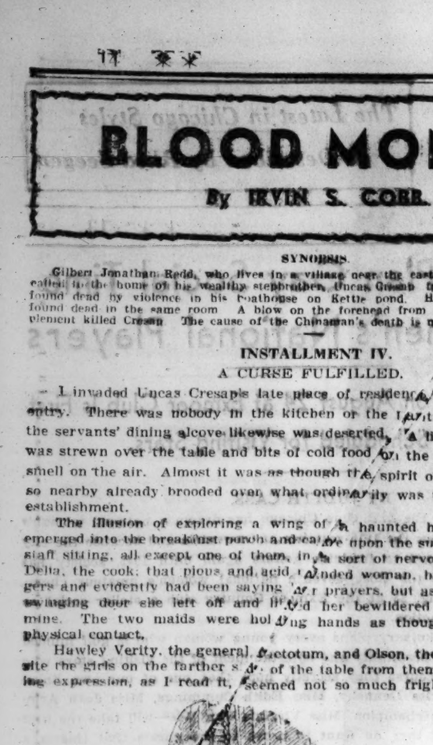
INSTALLMENT IV.

A CURSE FULFILLED.

I invaded Lucas Cresap's late place of residence by way of the service entry. There was nobody in the kitchen or the pantry or the laundry, and the servants' dining alcove likewise was deserted. A litter of unwashed china was strewn over the table and bits of cold food on the platters made a greasy smell on the air. Almost it was as though the spirit of that macabre tragedy so nearby already brooded over what ordinarily was the busiest end of this establishment.

The illusion of exploring a wing of a haunted house vanished when I emerged into the breakfast porch and came upon the survivors of the domestic staff sitting, all except one of them, in a sort of nervous and uneasy silence. Delia, the cook, that pious and acid minded woman, had a rosary in her fingers and evidently had been saying her prayers, but as I pushed through the swinging door she left off and lifted her bewildered and unhappy eyes to mine. The two maids were holding hands as though for the comfort of physical contact.

Hawley Verity, the general factotum, and Olson, the chauffeur, were opposite the girls on the farther side of the table from them. The Swede's frowning expression, as I read it, seemed not so much frightened as puzzled, but old Verity's seamed and weatherbeaten face was downright haggard, from shock though rather than any real grief, or at least so I interpreted his look. The most detached member of the party—and by that I mean not only bodily but mentally detached—was Sabino, the dwarf, who stood by himself alongside a window with his back to the wainscoting as though he meant not to be taken by surprise, and he was wearing his customary hostile scowl. There was something belligerent about the spraddle of his absurdly short legs, about the akimbo of his folded arms across his breast.



"It means that at last the curse upon this house has been fulfilled."

Verity was the only one who offered to speak. The rest of them listened but were dumb.

"Mighty bellish goin's on, Mr Redd," That's how Verity began. "Yes, yes." By his repetition of the word, with a rising inflection, any one acquainted with the distinctive native speech of the farther reaches of Long Island would recognize him for a genuine son of the soil.

"I believe it was you who discovered the bodies," I said.

"I done so, and it's goin' take me some little time, I figger, to get over it—yes, yes. I was goin' down to the water's aidge, sort of, as you might say, casual like, and I seen how the south door of the boathouse swung sort of ajar, and I thinks to myself, now that's curious, and then I further potterin' 'round the grounds this mornin', which wasn't like him, him bein' quite a hand for gettin' up early and potterin' 'round more or less aimless, so I says to myself I'll just give a peek aloft and see if the boss slept there all night like he sometimes does—did, I mean—'cause if he'd done so, Wong might be there chorin' fur him or suthin' similar. So up I goes and there they both be—the boss in his chair, dead's a nit, where he'd been massacred, and Wong spraddled across that there settle about ten-fifteen feet to the nor'east of the boss."

"You didn't touch them—the bodies?"

"Me? Not likely! I jest departed out of there fast's ever these legs'd take me, and then I run by the house and sung out the word to the inside crew and then I run on out to the lane lookin' for help and sure enough I run afoul of Charley Clabby. And he herded the whole kit of us back into here and here we still be, awaitin' what'll come to pass next . . . yes, yes."

"Where's Miss Dane?" I asked.

"Up in her room, I figger. She went up soon's she come hither off the backyard. She'd gone out there same as these others."

The last glimpse I had as I passed on into the dining room showed me the withdrawn Sabino still flat and rigid against the wall and still steadfastly regarding me with his lowering, hateful eyes, but other than that, as aloofly posed and as motionless as though he were carved out of a block of solid redwood. His looks followed me like a malediction.

Florence didn't see me, neither did she hear me, until I was almost upon her. As I came up the carpeted wide staircase from the reception hall below she was pressed into the recess of the big south window on the broad landing where the steps turn. Even with her back turned to me, there was about her a sense of expectancy, as though she watched for some dreadful yet inevitable denouement down beneath her or on beyond. I was sure my own overwrought imagination had not tricked me. I knew fearfulness revealed itself in her pose and when from almost behind her I called her name softly she whirled about and I saw the beginnings of panic betrayed by her widened blue eyes and by her drawn white cheeks and, most of all, by her shaking hands that were both clenched into small tight fists against her breasts. Over her sleeping pajamas she wore a heavy silk dressing gown. Her feet were bare except for a pair of bedroom slippers. Her brown hair was disheveled about her face, yet it seemed to me that never had she been lovelier than at that moment, with a flutter of rising fear covering her like a garment. To me she always has been the loveliest creature that lives. And always will be.

"O, Uncle Gil!" she cried out, catching her breath and striving to keep her voice low, "O, Uncle Gil!" For the moment she kept crying out that and nothing else.

I took her in my arms and through both our bodies I could feel how her heart beat with downright thumps. In my grip she relaxed and dropped. I squeezed her to me hard.

"Uncle Gil," she said then, "what does it all mean?"

"It means that at last the curse upon this house has been fulfilled," I said, choosing my words deliberately. "It means that the Devil finally has come into his own."

"O, don't say that," she bade me in a tense half whisper. "Some one might hear you! O, Uncle Gil, I'm so frightened, so hideously, horribly frightened!"

"That's the worst thing you can do—be frightened," I warned her. "You must pull yourself together—understand? You must get yourself under control. You know without any coaching from me what you should tell when the time comes for that and what you'd prefer not to tell. But mind, what you do tell must be the truth. Then you're safe. Now then, you go to your room——" and while I was saying this, I was leading her up the stairs, my arm about her quivering shoulders, was leading her along the hall to her room in the central body of the house.

"You go on in and dress yourself," I said, "and when you are dressed I'll come back. It's absolutely imperative that you should have your wits about you when the police and the other authorities, who are coming, get here and begin asking questions. But they won't be here for perhaps an hour yet. Organize yourself, child. That's your job."

Youths Find Older Woman Understanding

Then, Too, She's Easier on the Slender Purse.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Why all the falling in love of boys of 22 and 23 with girls of 27 and 28?

We seem to have run into quite a number of these oddly assorted couples of recent days.

We have a theory that perhaps the times have something to do with it. The boy has not sufficient funds to meet the demands of the younger girls in the way of entertainment. They're discouraged about this plight of theirs. The older woman understands and is more patiently sympathetic. And then, too, there is always that phenomenon of the older woman's lure for the immature youth.

Gene is the morning's trouble. He is not quite 23. His steady girl is 27. His people tell him she's old enough to be his mother. Well, he can't get a girl younger for some reason. He's serious, studious, and has very little spending money. This older girl does not mind. She sees a day ahead when Gene will be something.

There are any number of cases where a four year seniority of the woman, a six or an eight even, in marriage contributes no problem. Usually, however, where this works out successfully, the young man is more than 23 when he marries. He's older, knows his own mind pretty well. Anyway, he is not subjected to the emotional unsteadiness of the early twenties.

In these early years marriage with a girl of his own age or a bit younger is the better course. Or, if marriage is out of the question financially, it's better to wait till 25 at least, before determining that the older woman is the one for him.

However, we do not like to see you young boys become involved with the older women now, because we believe, as said, that the existing money conditions are an influence that is not clearly recognized. Wait until we get completely around that promised corner before you commit yourself with a marriage promise.

Benefit For Home.

The Illinois Protestant Children's home will benefit by the proceeds of a luncheon and card party to be held this noon at the home of Mrs. Emmet Fulkerson, 8910 South Hamilton street. Mrs. W. E. Steuart and Mrs. Carl Dunn will be the hostesses.

Events on the Stage

The showboat Dixiana, whose builders secured a permit a year ago for operation in the Chicago river, is now nearing completion in a shipyard at Sturgeon Bay, Wis. Edwin Wappler, formerly manager of the Blackstone theater, is in command, and hopes to reach the port of Chicago before Labor day.

The craft contains an auditorium that will seat 1,200. It also is equipped with a refreshment bar and a dancing floor. It will carry a troupe of fifteen players, whose first production will probably be the old melodrama, "No Mother to Guide Her."

Ethel Barrymore will begin a week's engagement on the vaudeville section of the Palace theater's program tomorrow afternoon, offering Sir James Matthew Barrie's one act comedy, "The Twelve Pound Look." Her associates will be Harry Plimmer, Georgie Drew Mendum, and Edward McHugh. She will give four performances a day. This will be her first Chicago appearance on a cinema-and-variety theater.

The indefatigable Sally Rand will continue her ritual of fan dancing on the vaudeville program at the Chicago theater for a second week, beginning tomorrow.

John Gallaudet, recently of "Hired Husbands" and "Riddle Me This," will join the cast of "Skidding" at the Studebaker theater next Sunday night, replacing Charles Harrison as leading man. A vague prospect for the Studebaker, under discussion during the past week, is a revival of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," with De Wolf Hopper as Tom. C. C.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Perhaps She's Wise.

"Dear Miss Blake: I'm popular with many girls, but I really love one. I know she cares and yet she never pays the least attention to me. Why the indifference? RAFF."

It may be her "act." Your reputation as a winner may have wised her up to the need of appearing indifferent.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

JANE: ICE CREAM, REGARDless of flavor, is fattening. Let your favorite flavors come in the form of ices and sherbets. You'll find these fine substitutes.

GWEN: THOSE WHITE PATCHES on your face and arms sound to me like spots resulting from glandular disturbance. You'd be wise to see a doctor, about them, I think.

Plan Parties for National Golf Tourney

Topping off the play there is a stag dinner for the contestants tomorrow night and a dinner dance at the club on Saturday evening.

The attractive, slender, dark haired Virginia Cross, who has spent the last year in Chicago and who has made so many friends among the debutantes of the last season, is returning to New York with her parents, the John Leland Crosses, to resume their residence in that city. Miss Grace Fitzmorris has invited several of the post-debs for luncheon and bridge today to bid Miss Cross "au revoir."

There seems to be a regular mid-summer exodus to Europe. Mr. and Mrs. James Ward Thorne sailed recently to be gone for two months and Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Hutchins are sailing Tuesday on the Bremen to spend three weeks in England.

The Donald R. Weggs embarked last night on the S. S. New York for six weeks in England and France. Their son, Talbot Wegg, has gone out to a ranch in Wyoming to stay until Sept. 1.

Mrs. Gordon L. Padley, the former Della Bosworth, daughter of the Charles H. Bosworths, is sailing back to England and her husband Saturday on the Aquitania. She will not return to Chicago for at least a year. Her sister and brother-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Trevor Stamp, are still with the Bosworths in Evanston.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Pritchard, who went to Germany several weeks ago on the sad mission of settling the estate of Mrs. Pritchard's parents, who died so suddenly, are landing on the Bremen Sunday and will motor directly to Chicago.

Mrs. Americus F. Callahan, who has just returned from England, is leaving tomorrow for Wequetonsing, Mich., to visit Mrs. Frank Waller until the middle of September.

Charles Littles to Have Guests.

Miss Myra Little, daughter of the Charles G. Littles, is not to have the pleasure of showing her Sorbonne, Paris, classmates the Fair this summer, for their plans for visiting Chicago seem to have collapsed. Some old friends of her family are arriving next week, however, to spend three or four days. These guests are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Helmholz of Rochester, Minn. Later the Littles are going up to their summer place at Les Cheneaux club near Mackinac.

In another three weeks Dr. and Mrs. John Timothy Stone with their baby son, John Timothy Stone Jr., will return to town from their summer home at Estes Park, Colo. The baby will have his first month's birthday on Sunday. Mrs. Marjorie Briggs, Mrs. Stone's mother, has been spending the summer with them in Colorado.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward K. Welles are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter on Monday at the Evanston hospital. She has been named Emilie for Mrs. Welles' mother, the late Mrs. John W. Scott, who was Emelie Cluett. The baby has three older brothers.

Mrs. Marie Starr Chadbourne, aviatrix and society woman, who has been the guest of the Hayden Harrises for more than a week, moved her luggage yesterday to the Lake Shore drive apartment of Mrs R. Townsend McKeever for a visit until the end of the week.

Mrs. Harris with her son, Lincoln, left yesterday morning on a fishing and hunting vacation in northern Canada. They are going by train as far as Toronto, then by boat. Mr. Harris hopes to join them in another two weeks.

Huntington Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Harris' younger son, is attending the University of Chicago, where he will continue his studies this fall. Miss Valeria Harris, who is spending the summer at a girls' camp, will return in September to Mount Vernon seminary.

Mrs. R. S. Wright Returns to France.

When Mrs. Redmond S. Wright left town Tuesday for France she revealed the exciting purpose back of her return to this country in November. With Mr. Wright she is coming for the one man showing of Mr. Wright's etchings and paintings in New York. The exhibit will be hanging during December.

While Mrs. Wright has been away on this trip Mr. Wright with Baby Glee has been leisurely jaunting through Brittany painting as he travels.

Leslie Harris is putting the finishing touches on a new apartment at 1220 State parkway. He moved in upon his return from a pleasant fortnight in the country as the house guest of Mrs. Wilhelm Ludwig Baum at her place near St. Joe, Mich. Mrs. Baum left recently for a visit with Dr. and Mrs. Robert Metz at their summer home in the Berkshires.

Mrs. Richard A. Connell has returned from eleven weeks in the north woods with her three grandchildren, Richard A. Connell III., Calvin Coolidge Connell, and little Dawn Joan Connell, sons and daughter of the junior Richard A. Connells of Detroit.

Good Teeth Are Great Beauty Asset

Three Foods Essential as Tooth Builders

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Now, about that quart of milk! You're afraid to take a quart of milk a day—for fear it will make you fat?

Let Dr. Roy Wilson, director of the Chicago Dental society, tell you, speaking for dentists, that you can skim the cream off the top of the bottle, take it all off. They're not interested in you getting the cream. It's the milk—the calcium lactate they want your teeth to have. And you get this in the milk.

Then let me give you the benefit of my research work on diet pertaining to overweight. Skimmed milk will not make you fat! You need not be one bit afraid of it.

So drink your quart of milk a day for you teeth's sake. There's nothing like it from the dentists' point of view—and they've done a powerful lot of research work on diet and teeth and have spent fabulous sums in this research. The milk, the lettuce, the orange juice, in the daily recommended quota, have been proven by experimental diet over a period of years to be the best known food contributions to teeth and mouth health.

If you take your daily quart of milk, your daily head of lettuce, and pint of orange juice you don't have to worry about the other foods you eat. These food ingredients will counteract any damage wrong foods might threaten. And, incidentally, Dr. Wilson, along with other dentists, has noted how this diet, along with haliver oil, serves other beautifying purposes at the same time. The clearing of skin is frequently noted. The face splotches seen in extremely nervous persons are often dissipated. Haliver oil, by the way, is extracted from the liver of halibut and now being recommended for its calcium content and tooth preserving virtues.

"Brush the gums" has become the clean tooth and mouth slogan. "A clean tooth, properly exercised and well nourished, will not become diseased" supercedes the other well known slogan, "A clean tooth never decays."

Smaller tooth crushes are advocated and gum brushing with a dry brush. And three minutes devoted to teeth cleaning, gum brushing before retiring is recognized as better tooth preservative treatment than three hurried brushings a day. It's the thorough night brushing that counts.

BY MARY MEADE.

"Painting the lily" is one of the things we Americans seem to do best. If we're not dashing gold paint over defenseless milkweed pods and pine cones or tying pink bows on perfectly complete pooches, then we're worrying over frostings to be applied where they don't belong.

For some cakes are modest and like to blush unseen beneath a fluffy overcoat of frosting. Others are so jubilantly proud of their shapes and their beauteous complexions that to smother them in frosting is to insult them. It's these cakes I want to run through with you—lest we forget.

There may be two or three reasons why a certain cake will be allowed to make its debut unfrosted. It may have such a deep, tender, golden crust that it in itself will form all the variation from the inner cake that we need. Many plain sponge, butter sponge, orange sponge, and plain and fruited angel food cakes have tops which need no frosting. (I think they're even better without it.) Also gingerbread, apple sauce, and cream cake ask to be left unglorified and make perfectly tantalizing desserts.

Then there are glazed cakes. These glazes may be made of fruit or sirup and may take their places before or after the cake is baked, depending upon the recipe.

And finally there are cakes which are dressed for company without the aid of frosting. Blitz tortes have their whipped egg and crumbled nuts baked right on top of them. Upside down cakes start with their glorification on the bottom and end with it on the top. Maraschino nut cake has its topping baked right with it, as follows:

MARASCHINO NUT CAKE.

2 cups pastry flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1-3 cup butter
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
2-3 cup milk
20 maraschino cherries
1-3 cup finely chopped nuts

Sift the flour once, then sift again with the baking powder and salt. Cream the butter and sugar till fluffy. Add the well beaten eggs and stir till smooth. Add the milk and the dry mixture alternately, mixing between additions. Stir in the vanilla and turn the batter into a greased baking pan. Have the cherries cut in eighths and sprinkle them with the nuts over the cake top. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about sixty minutes. Unless the cherries and nuts are finely cut they will sink to the bottom of the cake.

Another of the self-frosters is the:

1¼ cups pastry flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup butter
⅝ cup sugar
1 egg
½ cup milk

TOPPING.

¼ cup butter
1-3 cup brown sugar, packed
15 stewed dried apricots

Sift the flour, measure and sift again twice with the baking powder and salt. Cream the butter and sugar together till fluffy. Add the well beaten egg and then the milk and dry ingredients alternately. Stir in the vanilla. Meanwhile have ready a heavy skillet (eight inch) or a medium sized cake pan. Melt the butter in it and add the brown sugar. When this is sirupy place the apricots in it, hollow side up, and pour the batter over them. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for fifty to sixty minutes. Loosen the cake from the pan with a thin knife and turn out quickly onto a platter. Spread any sirup remaining in the pan over the top.

MINUTE MYSTERY
By H. A. RIPLEY

THE BODY ON THE ROAD.

"No hope, son . . . she's dead," Fordney told him.

"Yes, yes, I know," came the agitated reply. "God, I was hoping there might be a chance . . ."

Reynolds was enraged at their discovery. He and the professor were returning to the city after investigating the McKee murder when they found the body lying in the road apparently the victim of a hit and run driver.

"There's no question but what she was run over, her dress across the abdomen is tar marked from the tires, but that terrible bruise on her temple might have . . ." Dr. Lyman silently continued his examination at the morgue as Reynolds and Fordney watched.

"I'm going back and make a more thorough search. This thing's gotten under my skin!" suddenly exclaimed the sergeant.

"I'm afraid you won't find anything very helpful, son. Examine her purse . . . empty! . . . not a thing in it! Remember the position of the body? Lying flat on her back. Of course the driver might have stopped and put it in that position. . . ."

"Well, I'm going back anyway. Coming with me, professor?"

"Not just yet. First thing is identification. Then I'm going to start my investigations right at her home. My boy, this doesn't look like an accident. It's probably murder!"

WHY DID FORDNEY BELIEVE SO?

[See solution on page 27.]

Perhaps you have a story or problem you would like to submit to Prof. Fordney. If so, send it to him care of this paper. He will be delighted to receive it.

Slim Funds No Hindrance to Adopting Baby

Dime Bank Will Provide for Education.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

There seem to be a great many misconceptions existing among people who want to adopt children regarding the financial requirements—at least my mail gives that impression. Also there are many people who are hesitating to adopt a baby because of the dire warnings of their friends. To these would-be parents the following letter will be of interest:

"I must write you in reference to your article in the paper concerning the couple who wish to adopt a child. A lump came to my throat as I read. I, too, longed for a child for many years, and I also experienced a terrible sinking feeling when people asked me how many children I had.

"We were finally fortunate enough to adopt a three weeks old boy. He is twenty months old now, and the joy we find in watching him thrive and teaching him correct habits to the best of our ability, is worth any little sacrifices we must make for him. We are both avid readers of all articles pertaining to the care and feeding of children and similar articles.

"We can assure you that the fact that he is an adopted child never enters our thoughts unless a member of our family happens to mention something about it to us. He couldn't possibly be more our own baby.

"We are by no means wealthy, and if the woman who wrote you needs a baby as badly as she seems to, she ought to try and adopt one. As long as she has an income every week, she can support a child and give him what is required. We have a little box in which we deposit every single dime that comes into our hands, and each time the box contains about five dollars, into the savings bank it goes for our Harold. He has quite a reserve for college already."

Those desiring definite information regarding the requirements for foster parents and wishing to know where to go to adopt a baby or child, will find useful our list of adoption and boarding out agencies. It may be obtained by sending a stamped self-addressed envelope.

MERCHANTS VISIT CHICAGO; LEAVE FLOOD OF ORDERS

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Sixty-seven new accounts, opened by a single Chicago firm, was only one of the bulletins over which officials of the Interstate Merchants' council glowed with satisfaction yesterday. The large order lists compelled a hasty upward revision as to the scope and success of the fall merchandise market, it was said at the Hotel Sherman headquarters, officials estimated that the figure of $25,000,000, set as the total business expected from the horde of buyers now in the city, would be passed by a substantial margin.

Ten per cent of the names going onto the order blanks this week are from merchants and firms hitherto unknown to the Chicago market, according to P. W. Kunning, trade promotion director of the Association of Commerce. Every state in the union has representatives here, as well as various parts of Canada. All comments flooding the council headquarters express the gratification of the buyers with the Chicago market, he added.

Give Fashion Show Again.

The fashion show, staged for the third and final time last night in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman under the direction of Oney A. Fink and Miss Mari Floto of the Association of Commerce, showed immediate results in large orders. It was noticed that the better grades of merchandise were selected.

At noon yesterday hundreds of the visiting merchants heard Miss Julia Coburn, associate editor of the Ladies Home Journal, predict that "America is due for a renaissance in art, and I firmly believe that the impetus will come from the middle west, where I have seen more vital inspiration in recent days than in any other creative center in the country." Mrs. Bertha Baur introduced Miss Coburn at the luncheon in the grand ballroom.

"The manufacture of clothing, which is one of our greatest industries, can also be made one of our greatest arts," asserted Miss Coburn. "I am of the opinion that the time is passing when merchants have to concentrate on carrying average s[illegible] average styles, average materials and average prices, and that with the new spirit abroad in the land, women are going to demand better and different garments.

Fashion Down to Earth.

"The days are returning when the merchant can consider the individual. Such times as these should make you wary lest you underestimate the discrimination of your customers. Fashion has come down to earth, and I look for a phase when we may actually expect to find women wearing woolens and simple silks for daytime, and velvets, satins, feathers, furs and jewelry for dressup. I anticipate a good season in luxury garments, made of luxury materials.

"There is much educational work stores may do, in showing women how to assemble a complete costume, instead of having to buy a dress in one department, and shoes, gloves, hose and millinery in other sections.

"You are, I think, very fortunate in having the stimulus of the Fair just at the time when you are planning and buying your fall stocks. You cannot help being inspired by all this beauty and ingenuity, until consciously or subconsciously, you instill some of it in your purchases."

Judge Jarecki Hears 363 Cases in a Day and Orders Receiverships for 111 Properties

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday totaled $456,496. A total of $33,717,817 has been collected since the enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began last April 28. The day's real estate tax collections and the uncollected taxes for four years follow:

Aug. 9	$ 27,187	$ 84,416
Uncollected	16,369,416	48,405,587
	1930.	1931.
Aug. 9	$ 161,657	$ 183,236
Uncollected	78,157,775	105,455,964

County Judge Jarecki yesterday heard 363 tax receivership cases and appointed County Treasurer McDonough as receiver for 111 of the properties, under the Kerner-Skarda act, to enable him to collect delinquent taxes. The properties placed in receivership owe a total of $417,910 in back taxes.

Judge Jarecki has appointed the treasurer as receiver for 247 properties so far this week. This figure exceeds the total of properties placed in receivership in any one week since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began. The treasurer is now receiver for 1,133 properties.

Held Up by Lamp Post and Then by 9 Robbers

Robert E. Dixon, 5718 Winthrop avenue, yesterday told Summerdale police that he had counted nine men in the gang that held him up and took $36 as he leaned against a lamp post at Hollywood and Winthrop avenues. "I had been drinking," he told police, "but there were nine robbers and maybe more." The police were inclined to credit Dixon's count of the robbers because nine is not divisible by two.

METEOR SHOWER DUE TONIGHT AND TWO MORE NIGHTS

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Tiny, blazing chips of the same sort of stuff which some astronomers believe hit the planet Saturn to make its giant new white spot will fly across the sky tomorrow night.

These chips are the annual showers of perseid meteors. Their greatest profusion is due between midnight Friday and dawn Saturday. But after midnight Thursday, Saturday and Sunday, where skies are clear, astronomers say they should be visible at the rates of ten or fifteen an hour. Friday night's hourly count may double this. They appear in the northeast sky.

Of Varying Sizes.

The perseids are so small that not one has been recorded as ever striking the earth. Astronomers reckon their sizes as ranging from that of wheat grains to peas or marbles. But these chips blaze so intensely they are easily visible at the sixty mile altitude where they burn to dust.

By analysis of hundreds of fallen meteors picked up on earth, astronomers conclude that the perseids are bits of either stone or iron.

Our own planet bears two great scars believed to have been made by giant meteors. One is "meteor crater," nearly a mile from rim to rim, at Cañon Diablo, Arizona.

Recently astronomers have found evidence that the earth is continuously passing through two or three vast streams of meteoric dust particles, whose fires are too small to be seen without aid of telescopes. They are far smaller than the perseids and equally harmless. They are a new means of studying the mysteries of space.

Public Asked to Aid.

In these studies the public is asked to aid by counting the perseid meteors on any or all of the next four nights. The unit of counting is the number seen in one hour by one person. The American Meteor society requests that these counts, even if covering only one hour, be mailed to Dr. Charles P. Olivier, Flower astronomical observatory, Upper Darby, Penn. The counts should give the time and the place.

CUBS BEAT CARDINALS, 10 TO 7; ROUT GRIMES

1932 CHAMPION ELIMINATED IN WESTERN GOLF

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Three golfers from Los Angeles, apparently not content with having their home town awarded the 1934 tournament of the Women's Western Golf association, yesterday allowed they wouldn't mind taking this year's title back with them. This was indicated by their second round play in the 31st annual tournament at the Oak Park Country club. Four Chicagoans and an Iowa star will argue the matter with them in the quarter-final matches starting at 9 o'clock this morning.

It was one of the Californians, Mrs. Gregory Lifur, who supplied the major excitement yesterday by eliminating the defending champion, Mrs. Opal S. Hill of Kansas City, 3 and 2. Mrs. Hill had taken permanent possession of the trophy last year by winning it for the third time. Yesterday's victory was doubly sweet to Mrs. Lifur, for she had lost to Mrs. Hill in the 37 hole final of the 1929 western tournament.

Ties Course Record.

Aside from Mrs. Hill's defeat, the feature of yesterday's play was the brilliant performance of Lucille Robinson, the young Iowa collegian who was runner-up to Mrs. Hill at Peoria last year. She defeated Mrs. Lillian Zech of Tam O'Shanter, 7 and 6, and then played out the last nine to come home with a medal card of 77, tying the course record held by Virginia Van Wie of Beverly, national women's champion.

Miss Van Wie advanced to the quarter-finals with no especial difficulty, eliminating Rena Nelson of Exmoor, 6 and 5. Jean Armstrong, former district champion, had to go to the 19th hole before winning from Mrs. Mildred Green of Los Angeles. In one of the best matches of the tournament, Mrs. Melvin Jones of Lincolnshire, winner of the western in 1921, defeated Mrs. S. L. Reinhardt Jr. of Northmoor, three times holder of the title, 1 up.

*Picked up.

Mrs. Lifur was three up on Mrs. Hill before the champion could win a hole. Mrs. Hill lost the first two, the first where she had a poor second and played safe, and the second, where she drove a trap. She was three down after the fourth, where she overshot the green and missed a short putt. She won the fifth when Mrs. Lifur sent her second into the creek. Both got birdies in the eighth, the Californian sinking a 15 footer. Mrs. Lifus reached the turn 3 up, after Mrs. Hill had found a trap off the ninth green.

Match Ends at 16th.

Mrs. Lifur took the tenth with a birdie and the 11th when the champion's second shot was over the green. The Californian was dormie six after the 12th, which she birdied with a 25 foot putt. She then lost three consecutive holes to Mrs. Hill's par golf, but took the match with a seven foot putt for a half at the 16th.

Miss Robinson's record 77 was due largely to deadly accuracy on the greens. She took only 25 putts for the round. She missed a 25 foot attempt for a birdie at the 14th by less than an inch, but was in trouble on the next two holes, taking a 6 at the 15th and a 7 at the 16th. She finished the day with a birdie 4 on the last green.

Mrs. Reinhardt Leads at Turn.

VINES CAN KEEP AMATEUR STATUS IF HE DRAWS 'EM

Tennis Folks Never Ban a Good Box Office Attraction

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 9.—It is unlikely that the tennis people will rule out Ellsworth Vines on the ground that he might have considered some inducements to turn professional. Mr. Vines is a drawing card with a large cash value and the tennis people never have been known to take measures which would react against the box office. Moreover, such a ruling would oppose the fine old hypocrisy of the tennis business, and hypocrisy is the guiding spirit of the sport as it is conducted in the large tournaments, both at home and abroad.

Perhaps, under a new deal, tennis could be conducted in another spirit, but you would not recognize it as the same old racket. Tennis would be a new sport in that case and I am not sure it would be as popular as it has been in its old character, which has been as smelly in its own peculiar way, as that of the prize fight industry.

It takes more gall than most people are given for a lot of tennis governors to challenge the amateurism of a young man who has been playing tennis as a trade to the great financial benefit of the tennis clubs and associations. The tennis associations thrive on the professionalism of the professional amateurs and could not exist if young men and women did not devote themselves almost entirely to tennis most of the year for several years of their youth.

If it is professionalism to live at a trade, then many of the great tennis drawing cards of both genders for many years have been as professional as Babe Ruth, lacking, however, some of the Babe's respectability. For when Mr. Ruth makes a deal for his services the pay is honestly stipulated and he does not put himself on the footing of a moocher singing for his supper.

After Vincent Richards had been induced to turn square, as he put it, by Mr. C. C. Pyle, he said he was much relieved to have taken this step, as he could now look the hotel clerks in the face in the course of his travels without any feeling that he was living on the cuff. The tennis people had collected many a thousand dollars at the gates on the strength of Vincent's customer appeal, but he had never received any of this money, and it had been put up to him to do the best he could for himself by selling insurance to the wealthy members of the clubs or the promoters of the real estate subdivisions for which he played tennis.

He did very well for himself at that, but being an independent young man with a troublesome streak of honesty and independence in his character, he was always somewhat rebellious against the doubtful social and industrial status which he was required to accept while he was holding his amateur ticket.

The Lady Has Her Own Code of Ethics.

Mr. Richards' great strike in the insurance business occurred when he sold a million dollar policy to a June bug millionaire of the Florida real estate boom for whom he had played some tennis in a tournament which was promoted as a lure to attract victims to the sales offices. He was counting upon the royalties from this premium when word came from a steamship at sea that his customer had nearly won a bet, but in so doing had been so inconsiderate as to lose his life.

In the course of an evening's frivolity in a stateroom a member of the promoter's party had wagered that he, the promoter, could not climb out a porthole and climb back in again. The insured had the bet half won, which is to say that he had climbed out through the porthole, when he found that he could not win the other half. He hung there a while, but gave up and dropped into the Atlantic ocean.

Mr. Richards described the existence of a high ranking tennis amateur as a life of moochery, cadgery, and genteel bummery, and he said it had given him much satisfaction to accept Mr. Pyle's sordid shilling, which amounted, as I recall, to a cash guar-

HORTON SMITH, DIEGEL LOSE IN P. G. A. TOURNEY

BY CHARLES NEVADA.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 9.—Mortie Dutra of Detroit, Mich., co-medalist; Leo Diegel, who won the championship in 1928 and 1929, and Horton Smith, a member of this year's Ryder cup team, three of the outstanding contenders for the national professional golf championship were eliminated today in the first round of match play in the 15th annual P. G. A. tournament over the Blue Mound Country club course.

James Hines of Great River, N. Y., put out Dutra, 3 and 2; Willie Coggin of Selada Beach, Cal., beat Diegel, 4 and 3, while Smith, who represented the Oak Park Country club of Oak Park, Ill., lost to Clarence Clark, Bloomington, N. J., 6 and 5.

Olin Dutra Wins.

With these exceptions, favorites came through as expected. The list included Olin Dutra of Brentwood Heights, Cal., who began defense of his title by defeating Reggie Myles of Ashland, O., 4 and 3. Dutra was held even at the end of the morning round, despite a 72, two strokes over par. He matched par this afternoon and the match ended on the 16th green.

Gene Sarazen, Harry Cooper of Glen Oak, Chicago; Johnny Revolta of Menominee, Mich.; Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., and Frank Walsh, Morton Grove, Ill., were others to triumph.

Sarazen accomplished the best shooting of the day. He eliminated Vincent Eldred of Bellevue, Pa., 8 and 7, and in so doing equaled the course record with a sizzling 31 for the first nine holes this afternoon. Sarazen was four up at the end of the first 18 holes with a 71. He clinched the match on the 29th hole this afternoon, taking a par 4 while his adversary was collecting a 5. The cards:

Runyan posted the best 18 hole aggregate, shooting a 66 this morning against Al Houghton, Washington, D. C., sharpshooter, and winning finally by a score of 1 up. Runyan's morning round was four strokes under par and one stroke over the course record.

Revolta Wins, 12 and 11.

Johnny Revolta, the one time caddy, now playing for the Menominee, Mich., Country club, turned in the most decisive triumph when he beat Alex Geriack of Catskill, N. Y., 12 and 11. Revolta shot a 68 to go 9 up at the end of the first 18 holes.

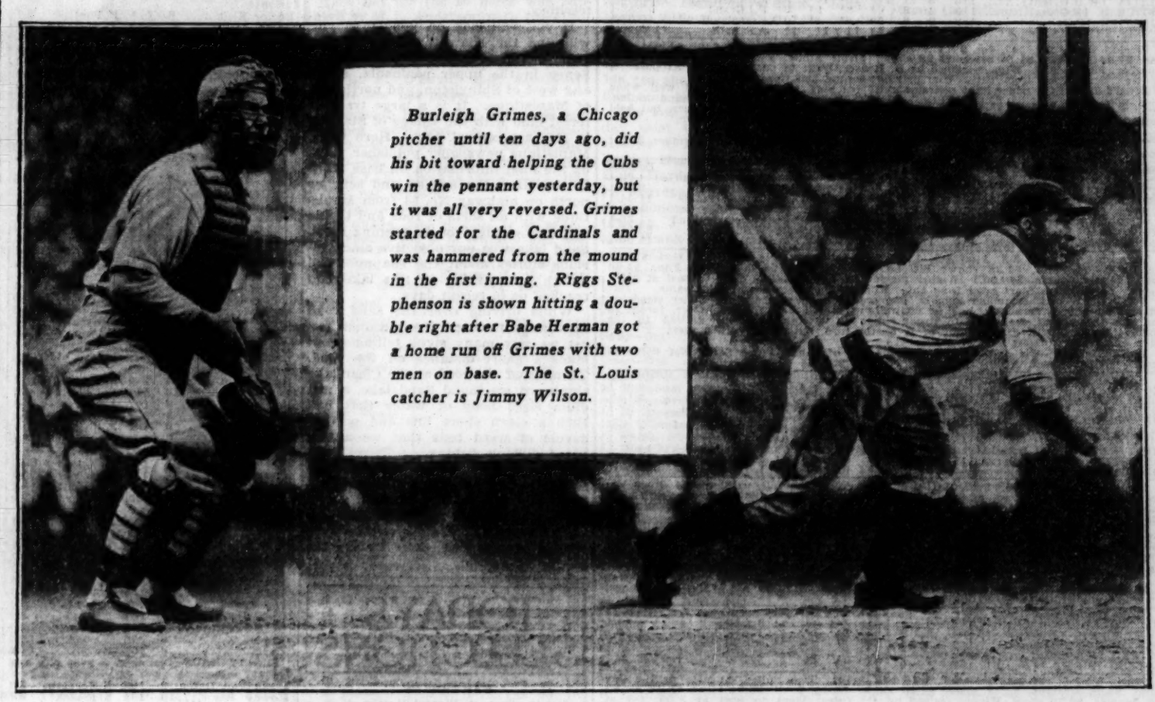
WHEN MR. GRIMES DID HIS BIT FOR THE CUBS



Burleigh Grimes, a Chicago pitcher until ten days ago, did his bit toward helping the Cubs win the pennant yesterday, but it was all very reversed. Grimes started for the Cardinals and was hammered from the mound in the first inning. Riggs Stephenson is shown hitting a double right after Babe Herman got a home run off Grimes with two men on base. The St. Louis catcher is Jimmy Wilson.

Jeby Knocked Out in Seventh by Brouillard

A left hook to the jaw, one of perhaps hundreds of such punches to which he had been subjected in six rounds of almost uninterrupted assault, sent Jeby down and out before 10,000 in the seventh round.

Brouillard paved the way for the knockout with a smashing body attack and a two fisted assault to the head. Jeby had been almost knocked out in the sixth round. He fought a losing battle from the outset, meeting his master in strength and what little boxing technique was displayed.

TWIN CITIES BEAT CHICAGO, 12-2, IN PRINTERS' SERIES

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Two pitchers were pounded for 20 hits as the Chicago printers lost to the Twin Cities team, 12 to 2, in the Union Printers International baseball tournament today.

Neither Strahma nor Schmidt could stop the Minneapolis-St. Paul batters. Tryjankowski, Buffalo pitcher on loan to the Twin Cities team, held Chicago scoreless until the ninth when two runs were made. Turner led the Chicago hitters with two singles.

FREE CABARET MAN IN SHOOTING OF ACE HUDKINS

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Dick Bennett, night club operator, will not be prosecuted for the wounding of Ace Hudkins, former boxer, officers announced today.

Kenneth Thomas, deputy district attorney, said questioning of five patrons of the club in which Hudkins was shot early Sunday morning convinced him Bennett acted in self-defense. Police were ordered to release Bennett.

Blood transfusions have improved the condition of Hudkins and Dr. P. S. O'Reilly, surgeon, said he was "making good progress."

FOXX TAKES LEAD FROM SIMMONS IN BATTING RACE

Three hits in five times at bat yesterday sent Jimmy Foxx into the batting leadership of the American league by the narrow margin of three-tenths of a point over Al Simmons, who was idle.

Davis' loss dropped the Phillies catcher into third place in the National league half of the sextet and permitted Bill Terry, who did not play, to go in the runner-up position. The standings:

Tune in W-G-N Today and Hear Cubs in Pittsburgh

A complete broadcast of the Cubs-Pittsburgh games to be played at Forbes field in Pittsburgh this afternoon, tomorrow, and Saturday afternoons will be presented by W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE radio station. Announcer Bob Elson and Chief Engineer Carl J. Meyers accompanied the Cubs to Pittsburgh last night and special telephone wires have been installed to carry the program to Chicago.

The broadcasts will start at 2 p. m. each day, fifteen minutes before the game starts, when Elson will present some of the players of the contending teams in interviews.

Because of the teams' relative positions in the pennant race and the widespread interest in the series the sponsors of the daily broadcasts and officials of W-G-N decided to bring it direct to Chicagoland listeners.

Senators Whip Yanks, 4-1, for 3 Game Lead

New York, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Behind the effective pitching of Monte Weaver, the Washington Senators today again brought their lead over the Yankees to three full games as they defeated New York, 4 to 1, to get an even break in the four game series.

Weaver, out since early in June with a lame arm until his return against Boston Saturday, allowed only seven hits and did not issue a base on balls. Six of the Yankee hits were made in the first four innings, but thereafter they went down in order until the ninth when Babe Ruth came through with a single.

Bunch Hits with Walks.

The Senators connected with only seven hits off Vernon Gomez and Wilcy Moore, who pitched the ninth inning, but the league leaders bunched their safeties with two of the three walks handed out by the Yankee southpaw and an error to score once in the fifth, twice in the sixth, and once again in the eighth.

The Yankees jumped into an early lead, scoring their one run in the second on successive singles by Ben Chapman, Tony Lazzeri, and Bill Dickey.

Score in Fifth on Bluege's Single.

Gomez blanked the Senators until the fifth when Fred Schulte drew a base on balls, went to second on Joe Kuhel's sacrifice, and scampered home as Ossie Bluege cracked out a single.

Waiting only until their next appearance at the plate, the Senators put over what proved to be the winning runs. Buddy Myer opened the inning with a single. Heinie Manush was safe when Gomez threw wild at second on an attempted double play. Dave Harris was intentionally passed, filling the bases. Kuhel then punched a single to right to score Myer and Manush.

Cronin tripled in the eighth, driving in Manush, who had singled, with the final run. Score:

VETERAN FAILS TO GET SIDE OUT IN FIRST INNING

F. Herman, Jurges Hit Homers.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Poor old Burleigh Grimes, the noted big league wanderer! The Cubs, who knew him as a mate until ten days ago, knocked him out yesterday before he even had time to get mad at anybody. Then with the Grimes ouster as an inspiration, the Chicagoans went tearing along at a gay pace to make it two straight in the abbreviated series with the St. Louis Cardinals. The score was 10 to 7, putting the Cubs three and one-half games behind the pacemaking Giants and a half lap behind the second place Pirates, whom they meet today.

The bewhiskered Grimes, admirable as a battler despite his failings, lasted only long enough to face six batters, one of whom he retired. Before he could be dragged out, four of his ex-mates had thumped the ball safely, one of them, Babe Herman, hitting his 14th homer with two on.

Jurges Takes a Hand.

In three innings the Cubs were coasting in front, 7 to 0, and then things suddenly changed for the worse. Bud Tinning, after an impressive start, wilted in the fourth and two scored. He melted down some more under the strain of base hits in the sixth, three scoring and leaving the Cubs only two runs to the good. Then Lon Warneke was rushed forth to stage a slightly ragged relief act, but possible disaster was staved off by Bill Jurges. He made things safe when in the seventh inning he hit one of Tex Carleton's pitches for a freak homer inside the park with two of his pals on base.

Jurges' homer was only one of three notable contributions he made to an aggregate team attack of 15 hits for 27 bases. Bullet-proof Bill doubled off Johnson in the third to drive in the seventh Cub run. He tripled off the same fellow in the fifth, but the hit didn't produce a dividend. Then his homer accounted for three markers, giving him credit for driving in four of the ten scored. Babe Herman ranked next because of his homer and third honors went to Riggs Stephenson, who touched off two doubles to mark the end of his battle with malaria bugs.

Trouble Comes Early.

After the Herman homer it was fairly well established that Mr. Grimes should be taken away, but he was permitted to remain, possibly on the assumption that a beating would do him no harm. Stephenson kept up the assault by doubling over first base. Hartnett singled to right center, Stephenson scoring, and Gabby going to second when Watkins fumbled the hit. At this point Grimes was relieved. Johnson was greeted by Grimm's single, on which Hartnett managed to score.

Herman's In Again.

English led off again in the second with an out, and another assault was launched immediately, but it was shut off quickly by a double play, only one scoring. Billy Herman singled to center and Cuyler scratched a slow bounder to Martin. Babe Herman mashied a single to right to score his namesake. Then Stephenson bounced to Crawford for the twin killing. Hartnett singled in the third and scored on a double into the left field corner by Jurges. That made the count 7 to 0.

Only nine Cardinals faced Tinning in three innings, and one of them walked but was retired in an at-

Well, Dawgone! Running with Platers, Too.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Clyde Van Dusen, his owner and trainer and the man he was named after, has brought the Derby winner back to the race tracks where the 7 year old son of Man o' War has displayed happiness ever since resuming training.

"It's a pleasure to have him around the barn because he enjoys it so much," Trainer Van Dusen said yesterday. "I don't know whether he will stand up under the rigors of training very long, but if he doesn't we will keep him around our racing stable as a lead pony or in some other capacity. He's sort of an inspiration to all of us, horses and stable help alike."

He's Always Got a Home.

"If some one takes him, of course, I'll regret it," he said. "If he is claimed the man who gets him may always know that he can send Clyde back to my farm at the end of his racing days and there will be a home there for him as long as he lives."

Van Dusen also realizes the horse might be quite an attraction in higher class company. "But what's the use of running him where he couldn't get any enjoyment out of taking one beating after another?" he said. "I want to run him with horses he has a chance to beat and if he does win a race I know he will get another thrill out of life."

Clyde Van Dusen's victory in the 1929 Kentucky Derby — the rainiest and muddiest Derby ever run — was the big effort of his racing career. When he led Nashipur, Panchio, Windy City, Blue Larkspur, and the other outstanding 3 year olds across the line of finish he buried his ability in the mud of Churchill Downs.

The Old Legs Buckle.

He didn't accomplish anything of note later on that season. He came back the next year as a 4 year old and his legs gave way under him. As a result of the breakdown he was sent to Few Acres farm near Lexington.

He never could content himself there, according to Owner Van Dusen, except during the winter months when the racing stable was at home. He became nervous last spring when it came time to send the horses back to the race tracks and he was loaded on the cars and shipped along.

He's in Poor Company.

Clyde Van Dusen may not enjoy the company he is keeping when he trots out for the Nightcap handicap, along about dusk this afternoon. A few years ago he wouldn't have even nodded to such scalawags as Jacob's Ladder, Know-Me-Gnome, Modern Maiden, Rowdy Boy, Brains, Garrick, and Dunes, which are among his rivals for the $800 prize.

Bradley Fans Win on Broad Meadows, 2-1

Col. Edward R. Bradley's green and white jacket was carried to its first victory of the Hawthorne season yesterday by Broad Meadows, 6 year old son of Black Servant-Bit o' White.

It was an extremely easy victory as Broad Meadows took the lead when the stretch run started and pulled away from his rivals until he was two lengths in front. Teralice, from Abraham Bartelstein's stable, was second, and North Mill, from the Shandon farm stable, third.

The Bradley followers wagered with considerable confidence and made Broad Meadows the favorite. He ran the 6½ furlongs in 1:19 1-5, a second off the track record, and paid $6.40.

Night Jasmine and Dust Girl were the winners of the second and third races to complete the daily double. Each double ticket was worth $40.60.

Through Omond, owned by Tom Taggart's French Lick Springs stable, went to the post as the shortest priced favorite of the meeting in the sixth race. He took the track at the start and stayed in front for the entire mile and a sixteenth trip. He beat Upon by a length, with Dark Sister close up and third. In the mutuels Through Omond paid $3.76 to win, $3.60 to place, and $2.58 to show.

COOLEY, away fast, drew away rapidly after reaching the turn and weakened badly near the end, but lasted. HER GOLD began sluggishly, raced wide throughout and, closing strong, was wearing down the winner. PHALAROPE, a factor throughout, held on well.

SECOND RACE—Six and one-half furlongs out of chute. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Winner trained by G. Henze. Went to post at 2:41. At post 2¼ minutes. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

NIGHT JASMINE, under light restraint until reaching stretch, responded well when called upon and, wearing down STROLL ALONG, won under vigorous hand riding. Latter had good speed under hustling tactics, could not withstand the winner, but held on fairly well. HOUR ZEV had no mishap and went gamely in final drive.

[Daily double, $40.60.] Winner trained by J. J. Greely. Went to post at 3:07. At post 3¼ minutes. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

DUST GIRL took command quickly, increased her advantage when under steadying restrictive hold on stretch turn and, holding on well, withstood BITTYBIT. Latter, forced to race wide throughout, responded to strong riding in stretch and was getting to the winner. PARA FOUR dropped out of it on the turn, but closed with a rush.

Time, :23 3-5, :47 1-5, 1:12, 1:19 1-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Broad Meadows, $6.40 straight, $3.88 place, $2.84 show; Teralice, $5.76 place, $3.02 show; North Mill, $5.10 show. Winner trained by W. Hurley. Went to post at 3:33½. At post 2¼ minutes. Start fair from gate. Won easily; second and third driving.

BROAD MEADOWS, moving at the start but taken in hand after an eighth and steadied a long time for final quarter, easily disposed of NORTH MILL, but was kept under urging and had little left. TERALICE, taken back repeatedly, closed well and headed NORTH MILL in the final stride. Latter had good speed, could not withstand winner, but under good riding held on creditably, barely failing to last for the place.

Winner trained by C. Yates. Went to post at 3:59. Off at once. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

GAY WORLD, taken off the pace, bettered his position slowly after reaching the finish, three-sixths and weakened after drawing clear in final eighth, but held DUSKY DEVIL safe. Latter forced a good pace, stood pressure gamely and, while failing to withstand winner, held on fairly well. RED ROAMER, given a badly judged ride and twice forced back when trying to get through on inside, would have been a much stronger factor under better handling.

SIXTH RACE—Mile and one-sixteenth. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

UNENCUMBERED followed the early pacemaker under steadying restraint, worked his way up gradually, and won drawing out. AL NEIMAN, taken to the front and well rated in the pacemaking, slowly gave way to the winner and weakened slightly, but outstayed COG-AIR. Latter lost ground throughout and held on resolutely in the final drive.

SEVENTH RACE—Mile and one-sixteenth. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Winner trained by S. B. Ott. Went to post at 4:51. At post ¾ minute. Start good from gate. Won handily; second and third driving.

THROUGH OMOND, under strong restraint for five-eighths, came away with the stretch turn and, continuing well, won without need of pressure. UPON worked his way through a small opening at the far turn and held on gamely, but was outmatched. DARK SISTER lost ground much of the trip and held on fairly well.

Winner trained by J. Lowenstein. Went to post at 5:17¼. At post 1¾ minutes. Start good from gate. Won easily; second and third driving.

OUR JUSTICE, reserved off the pace, began moving up on the stretch turn and, disposing of BARRY, won drawing out. The latter had speed from the start, went to the front when saving ground on the far turn, slowly gave way to the winner, and weakened badly in the last sixteenth. INDIAN BOY, well in hand for three-quarters, could not get up when urged hard.

Sunset Hours Bring Out Bass in Michigan

BY BOB BECKER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Upper Peninsula of Michigan, Aug. 9.—The leaping small mouth bass of the Hiawatha national forest here in the upper peninsula can be counted upon to provide entertainment for the outdoor fan who wants to explore and fish in one of Uncle Sam's wilderness areas. After poking around in the Hiawatha forest in search of lakes, which we had not seen or fished and connecting with a fine string of small mouths we can recommend a trip into this territory.

If you will look on your map you will find the Hiawatha forest within easy going distance of Blaney and Seney in the upper peninsula, south and west of Shingleton, and northwest of Manistique. It is a large tract of forest land with the village of Steuben in its east central part. Herb Case, Manistique newspaper publisher, gave us the final information on bass lakes in the Hiawatha section and sent us north on highway No. 94 from Manistique with all sorts of rods and tackle and food enough for an evening meal. Sand lake was our objective since various stories about the snappy small mouth bass fishing in this lake had reached us in recent days.

While driving over the sand road northwest through the national forest we saw many signs telling us of lakes a short distance off the road. Turning off the road at the Clear lake signboard we found Sand lake, a medium sized body of water that had such a clean shore line and was so devoid of weed beds that we anticipated difficult fishing.

Without a strike to our credit up to 550 p. m. we switched to a flyrod and between 6 and 8 o'clock, the sunset hours when shadows were stealing across the lake, and the bass were coming out of the deep water, the fishing was great.

SOX NOMINATE JONES TO FACE TIGERS TODAY

Chicagoans Out to Dodge Seventh Place.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Old Sam Jones, who did a rather swell job of throwing baseballs in defeating Detroit his last time out, will seek to repeat when the Tigers show up at Comiskey park this afternoon for the first of four games to be played in four days. There will be no double header Sunday because of the interleague agreement in cases of conflicts such as will exist Sunday when the Cubs and Pirates return to Wrigley field for a game.

The Sox are confronted in the series with two urges, one being to rise to the brink of the first division and the other to keep out of seventh place, from which this morning they are removed by the skimp margin of one game.

Tigers Getting Tough.

Last week the Sox took a double header from the Tigers and might have won the other game of the series. This contest went into extra innings because of two unearned runs and wound up in a Detroit victory over Ted Lyons in one of the best pitching jobs Ted has turned in all year.

Since then, however, the Tigers have been doing a heap of scratching. Since the Sox won that double header a week ago yesterday the Detroiters have gained four games on the Sox in the American league standings.

Monday the Sox will have a day off, the last scheduled vacation before Aug. 30, when the eastern clubs will be on the way home following the invasion which will be launched Tuesday.

Senators First Here.

The first easterners to arrive at this port will be the first place Senators. They have a rather good chance to be in first place when they arrive here. They are leading the league by a margin of three games, and will play three with Boston and one with the Yankees before heading this way.

The Senators are one team which will not high hat the distressed White Sox. They were leading the league when the Sox went into Washington and beat them three out of four to pull them down into a tie with the Yanks. They have since been able to pull away again, principally because they did not have to face the White Sox, especially Lefty Walter Miller, who beat them twice in the last series. Incidentally, Mr. Miller, if he doesn't get ptomaine or something, probably will appear twice in the impending series with the Senators.

No announcements were forthcoming from Sox headquarters yesterday as to whether the organization intends to prolong its noble experiment having to do with the conducting a major league ball club without a first baseman. The team worked out yesterday morning and several lads masqueraded at the position. The masquerade consists of wearing a first baseman's mitt instead of a finger glove, and is very deceptive until a jam arises in a regular game.

Simmons Ready to Go.

The two day gap in the Sox schedule was not especially needed, certainly not as much as such a holiday could be used a week later in preparation for 12 games which the Sox will play in the span from Aug. 20 to Aug. 27, inclusive. All of the pitchers are now well rested, but the trouble is that some of them need something besides rests—a high swift, maybe.

Al Simmons, whose slump has been accompanied by slumps on the part of rival sluggers, is prepared to bust loose today and expects to get far out of reach of the other seekers of the American league championship before he has to leave home on Sept. 4.

Braves Beat Phils, 3-2, to Take Series

Boston, Mass., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Ben Cantwell, Boston pitcher, won his 15th victory of the season today, and his squeeze bunt in the fifth brought in the run that gave the Braves a 3 to 2 victory over the Phillies.

The triumph gave the Braves a record of two out of three games in their series with the Phils and seven victories out of nine games in their short home stay which was concluded today.

tempted steal. Then the portly right hander pitched himself into the middle of a load of trouble in the fourth, but got out again on an allowance of two runs. Orsatti singled to center for the first hit and hustled to third on Crawford's single to right. A walk to Martin filled the bases with none out. Orsatti scored and Crawford went to third while Collins was forcing Martin. Medwick plunked a long fly to Stephenson and Crawford ran home after the catch.

Bunt Dooms Timing.

Orsatti beat out a well placed bunt in the sixth and started Tinning's goal rush. Crawford followed with a looping single into center. Martin whistled a hit between English and Jurges to score Orsatti. Collins flied out and Medwick then plastered a triple down the left field line to score Crawford and Martin. Out went Tinning and in came Warneke. Medwick was nailed at the plate on Watkins' grounder to W. Herman. Wilson singled to right, but Durocher was flagged on a fly to Cuyler.

Stephenson opened the seventh with a fly that came down just inside the line for a two base hit. Hartnett hoisted a high one to right center and Watkins caused complications for Carleton by juggling it. Grimm bounced to Carleton and Stevie was nailed trying to reach the plate. Then Jurges took care of things. He cut loose with a drive that smashed against the raised end of the tiling on the left field wall. The ball shot straight toward center and before it could be retrieved and hustled to the plate Jurges had completed the circuit in the wake of Hartnett and Grimm.

The Cards picked up a consolation run in the eighth after two were out. Watkins doubled to left center and scored on Wilson's single. The jam in the ninth didn't start until after one was out. Orsatti singled for the fourth time. Crawford and Martin did the same. Orsatti scoring. Then Warneke fanned Collins and Stevie ended it by skidding along on his elbows to get Medwick's short fly.

Casey Shoots 109; Wins Butterfield 27 Hole Cruise

Douglas Casey of Riverside, who recently qualified in the National Amateur golf tournament for the third consecutive time, sailed through the eleventh annual cruise of the Butterfield Country club yesterday in 109 strokes for the 27 hole trip. Doug was one stroke ahead of Eddie Murphy of Olympic Fields and 2 up on Eddie's teammate, Johnny Lehman.

A field of nearly 250 competed in the west side course's annual invitational tournament, a majority of them going the full 27 holes. A number of players clipped par for the 27 hole low net prize, requiring a draw. John F. Berry, with a card of 140—36—104, was the winner.

The low net foursome prize for the day went to a quartet composed of George A. Murphy, James Baths, and Robert Hogan, all of Butterfield, and E. N. Hardstadt of Evanston, who had an aggregate of 583—167—416. Second honors were taken by M. J. O'Brien, J. F. Berry, W. J. Connors, and Frank Kevil, all of Butterfield, with 563—138—425.

LOGAN SQUARES TO PLAY MILLS 2 GAMES SUNDAY

Supremacy in the Chicago semi-pro baseball will be decided Sunday when the Logan Squares and the Mills meet in a double header at Mills stadium. These teams have been rivals for years, but they meet only two or three times during a season. The Mills team is leading in the Wisconsin-Illinois league race.

Four former major league pitchers will work the double header. The veteran Lefty Sullivan, once with the White Sox, is scheduled to oppose Jim Vaughn, once with the Cubs. Both are along in their forties, but still dominate semi-pro pitching.

In the second game Gordon McNaughton, recently with the Boston Red Sox, is to oppose Malcolm Moss, who was with the Cubs and Los Angeles.

at the second, where she found a trap following an unplayable lie, and a 6 foot putt for a birdie by her opponent at the ninth. They halved the next three and Mrs. Reinhardt was 2 up after the thirteenth, which Mrs. Jones 3 putted after both were trapped. Mrs. Jones was only 1 down going away from the fifteenth, where the Northmoor star was trapped, and evened the match on the next green when Mrs. Reinhardt dubbed an approach. Mrs. Jones went 1 up at the seventeenth, where Mrs. Reinhardt failed on a 6 foot putt. Mrs. Reinhardt missed a 4 foot putt on the eighteenth for a birdie, and with it her chance to even the match.

Miss Armstrong and Mrs. Green were all even at the turn, and although the Chicagoan won the eleventh, Mrs. Green rallied to win the next two holes and go 1 up. Miss Armstrong won the fourteenth, lost the fifteenth, and then squared the match at the sixteenth, where Mrs. Green missed a short putt. They halved the seventeenth and eighteenth and Miss Armstrong took the nineteenth and the match with a 6 when Mrs. Green's third shot was in an unplayable lie and she needed 8.

BONDS BOUND UP IN SHARPEST RISE OF OVER A WEEK

Speculative Railroads Are Again in Lead.

New York, Aug. 9.—Bonds scored their sharpest advance today in more than a week, rising from 1 to 3 points on a movement parallel with the upswing of the stock market.

Speculative rail bonds assumed their customary rôle as market leaders. Alleghany corporation 5s, due 1950, rose more than 3 points to head the movement.

Railroad Leaders.

Baltimore and Ohio convertible 4½s, St. Paul adjustment 5s, Denver and Rio Grande 5s, Illinois Central 3s, Southern Railway consolidated 6½s, and other carrier obligations spurted forward to score the best gains in recent sessions.

Domestic industrials generally were higher. Armour & Co. 4½s, Colorado Fuel and Iron 5s, Sinclair Oil 7s, and Warner Brothers Pictures 6s rose from fractions to more than a point.

Argentine, Australian and Japanese obligations gained fractions to several points in the foreign list. Issues of the former country reflected the belief in well informed quarters here that the government will not declare a moratorium on sinking fund payments as feared.

Liberty 4¼s Decline.

Liberty 4th 4¼s moved downward about 5-32 of a point today in the face of a steady market for other treasury obligations.

The gradually diminishing premium on the issue reflects the expectation that some step may be taken in the near future toward calling at least part of the issue for conversion.

NEW ISSUE.

A syndicate which included Salomon Brothers & Hutzler, Chase National Bank of New York and the City Company of New York yesterday purchased an issue of State of Maryland 4 per cent serial bonds due from 1934 to 1938.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil was firmer today on increased covering and local buying, promoted by the strength in hogs and stocks and expectations of a bullish census bureau report. Final prices were 15 to 20 points net higher. Sales, 31 contracts. Bleachable spot closed: 5.35c; September, 5.40c; December, 5.55c; January, 5.62c; March, 5.72c.

Schuylkill Chemical Products.

Investors' Guide: You wrote us that standard sources of investment information contained no data on Schuylkill Chemical Products company 5 per cent purchase money notes, due Oct. 1, 1942, and asked us for the company's address. We are informed that National Finance and Securities corporation, New Bedford, Mass., is handling the notes we wrote about.—K. D. H.

Answer: The following information—typed on a postcard—was received by us from General Textile Fabrics Manufacturing company, trustees, signed by A. M. Weil, vice president, in reply to our inquiry:

"Your letter of recent date on hand, re the Schuylkill Chemical notes, due in 1942. The company is still in the promotion stage, and has not enough capital raised to start operation of its mill. Interest, if paid, will be paid direct to holders on record in the book of the company on Oct. 1 of each year. All unpaid interest is accumulative, and will be paid when and if the company has enough funds to do so. All those notes were traded for properties and it takes time to recover them into cash. The financial condition is today: Assets, $5,966,004, and liabilities, $1,779,010."

BUYING ON EVE OF CROP REPORT BOOSTS GRAINS

Wheat Up Over 2c; Damage Increases.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Bullish sentiment which was in evidence after the grain markets closed Tuesday was decidedly in the foreground yesterday. The east came in as a buyer of wheat in fair volume and, with strength in stocks and cotton, the price of this grain was lifted as much as 3 cents over the previous close. The December delivery touched $1.04 at the top.

Western speculators were inclined to regard corn and other feed grains with more favor than the bread cereal and bought both corn and oats on a somewhat larger scale than lately. The government crop estimate to be given out at 3 p. m., Chicago time, today was expected to amplify the reports of disaster which has apparently overtaken corn, oats, barley, hay, and potatoes, the leading feedstuffs of the country.

All Grains Close Higher.

Profit taking developed on the bulge, but all grains closed at substantial gains. Wheat was 2 to 2⅜ cents higher at the close, while corn was ⅝ to 1 cent higher; oats, up ¾ to ⅞ cent, and rye, 2⅜ to 2½ cents. Barley was unchanged to ¼ cent higher at the last but held above the pegged price a good part of the day, with a much larger speculative interest in the market.

September wheat closed at $1.00½ to $1.00⅝, with December at $1.03⅜ to $1.03½ and May at $1.07⅛ to $1.07¼. September corn finished at 54¾ to 55 cents, December 59⅜ to 59½ cents, and May at 64¾ to 64⅞ cents. September oats was 40¾ to 40⅞ cents and December 43½ to 43¾ cents.

Corn futures moved up 1¼ to 1⅝ cents over Tuesday's close at the extreme, and oats 1⅜ to 1½ cents. September rye, after selling as high as 75⅝ cents, closed at 74¾ cents, with December at 80¼ cents. September barley at one time was up 1 cent at 54 cents, but reacted and closed at 53 cents asked, the "pegged" price, while December, at 57½ cents, was ¼ cent above the minimum.

Expect Bullish Crop Reports.

Leading crop experts expressed the belief yesterday that the government crop report would probably suggest smaller yields of feed grains than the returns given out earlier in the month, although they indicated the smallest yield of wheat and oats since 1893, and of corn the smallest, with two exceptions, since 1900.

Comparisons of the leading crops for the last 10 years with the private figures for August this year and the government returns as of July 1 follow (last six ciphers omitted):

With reports showing a shortage in supplies of feed of all kinds, especially in the southwest and northwest, some observers anticipate that the surplus producing sections, such as Illinois, Iowa, and Nebraska, will be called upon to take care of an unexpectedly large demand from the drought stricken areas.

Chicago Power Output 17.2% Over Last Year

The output of electrical power in the United States continues to move ahead briskly. In the Chicago region the best showing so far this year was reported. In the country as a whole there was a sharp rise in output which went to the highest level since the recovery began with the greatest improvement made in the central industrial region.

The output for the Chicago district in the week ended Aug. 5 totaled 97,656,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 83,354,000 kilowatt hours in the corresponding period of 1932—an increase of 17.2 per cent.

Increase Bucks Trend.

This week's output for the Chicago area shows an increase contrary to the trend at this time of the year, making a comparison with last year's figure more impressive. The increase over last year in the week of July 29 was 15.6 per cent, in the week of July 22 it was 12.1 per cent, and in the week of July 15 it was 14 per cent.

The Edison Electric institute reports that for the whole country total output was 1,650,013,000 kilowatt hours in the week of Aug. 5, compared with 1,426,986,000 in the corresponding week of 1932—a gain of 15.6 per cent. Output in the week ended July 29 was 1,661,504,000 kilowatt hours.

Better than Previous Week.

The increase in the week ended July 29 over that of the like week of 1932 was 15.4 per cent. This was the same rate of gain as was reported for the week of July 22 over the like week of last year. Output nationally has continued its upward movement for some weeks, providing one of the most cheerful notes in general business reviews.

In the central industrial district the improvement over a year ago was 22.7 per cent, in New England it was 21.3 per cent, in the southern states it was 17 per cent, in the middle Atlantic states 12.8 per cent, and in the Pacific coast states it was 5.9 per cent.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 9.—Production of motor vehicles by members of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce for July was 204 per cent above the same month last year, according to the preliminary estimate released by the chamber today.

With a July output of 178,506 passenger cars and trucks, the output for the first seven months of this year was set at 983,683 units. This was more than the output for the entire twelve months last year and was 33 per cent over the output of the same companies for the corresponding seven month period in 1932.

The chamber estimates, which are based upon reports of factory shipments, include the operations of all but one of the major producers in the United States.

Retail deliveries of new Chevrolet cars and trucks in July were 67,829 units, compared with 78,564 in June and 26,547 in July, 1932, according to H. J. Klinger, vice president and general sales manager. July sales were the highest for any July since 1929 and have been exceeded only three times in any July within Chevrolet's twenty-one year history. June, 1933, retail sales were 78,564.

Sales of Oldsmobile cars during July were more than four times those of the same period last year. For seven months sales exceeded 1932 deliveries by nearly 6,000 units.

The Hupp Motor Car corporation reported July sales were 62 per cent above the same month last year. The Federal Motor Truck company's sales in July showed the fourth consecutive monthly gain, according to an official of the company.

Eastman Kodak to Pay 75 Cents on Common

New York, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The Eastman Kodak company today declared the regular quarterly dividends of 75 cents on the common stock and $1.50 on the preferred, both payable Oct. 2 to stock of record Sept. 5.

Simmons Co. Sales in July Double Those of Year Ago

Judges Asked to Aid U. S. in Saving Homes

BY AL CHASE.

Chancery judges in the Superior and Circuit courts are to be asked to help make the new federal Home Owners' Loan corporation's activities more effective by putting brakes on the present rush of foreclosures through their courts. This was announced yesterday by Samuel K. Markman, counsel for the corporation, who stated that a conference will be called within the next few days to which all of the chancery judges will be invited.

"We're going to ask the judges to enter a general order to abate the proceedings in all foreclosure suits where the defendant has applied in good faith for a loan with the Home Owners' Loan corporation with which to pay his mortgage until the H. O. L. C. acts on the loan," said Mr. Markman."

Meanwhile one of the first of a batch of about fifty applications for federal aid now under active consideration was found so urgent that the Home Owners' Loan corporation yesterday instituted court proceedings to help solve the problem.

Antoni Mazur, a laborer, living at 3043 West 40th place, Chicago, who has been out of work two years, owes the Grunwald Building and Loan association $4,200 on a $5,600 loan.

According to a petition filed by Mr. Markman in the Superior court yesterday, the mortgage has been foreclosed by the building and loan association and the property sold. Now an order has been entered directing the issuance to the sheriff of a writ of assistance to oust the Mazur family, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Mazur and three small children.

Wants Ouster Delayed.

The petition asks that an order be entered restraining the sheriff for two weeks from putting the family out of its home. Meanwhile the petition states that the application of Mazur for relief from the federal corporation is receiving prompt attention and will be acted upon within the next two weeks.

Mr. Markman stated that the case will come up before Judge Peter H. Schwaba today in the Superior court of Cook county. Thomas P. Grant, assistant state counsel for the corporation, will appear for the Mazur family.

Little Change Expected in U. S. Steel's Backlog

New York, Aug. 9.—Wall street heard today that necessary month-end adjustments may be reflected in a small rise or fall in the unfilled tonnage figures of the United Steel corporation as of July 31, which will be published tomorrow. Demand for steel products has continued at a good rate but guesses varied as to what extent production, which two weeks ago was at 53 per cent of capacity, had been affected.

AMERICAN WOOLEN MAKES FIRST PROFIT IN LAST SIX YEARS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 9.—Reports of the American Woolen company, reputedly the world's largest manufacturer of woolen goods, revealed a net profit for the first time in six years, indicative of the marked improvement in the textile industry during the first half of this year.

The company reported today for the six months ended June 30 a profit of $197,700, or 49 cents a share on the preferred stock.

This compares with a deficit of $6,810,561 in the first half of 1932. Loss on inventories during the first half of 1932 was $3,304,559, against only $236,059 during the 1933 period.

The balance sheet as of June 30 shows inventories of $23,472,944, against $16,928,871 on Dec. 31, 1932. Preferred stock is carried on the June 30 balance sheet at $41,314,800, against $47,864,800, reflecting purchases for retirement.

The company last showed earnings on the preferred stock in the last half of 1927, when net income of $2,358,874 was reported, equal to $2.84 a preferred share.

The effect of the depression and changed conditions in the industry is shown in the financial statements of the company for recent years. The deficit in 1931 was $2,836,826, $4,897,585 in 1930, and $4,228,191 in 1929.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 9.—The American dollar gave ground slightly against the principal foreign currencies in the foreign exchange market today. The dollar was worth approximately 73.71 cents in terms of French gold francs, against 73.78 yesterday. The franc was quoted at 5.31½ cents, against 5.31 cents yesterday.

As the dollar retreated the pound sterling rose to $4.48¾, up 1¼ cents for the day. At the close foreign moneys were still strong against United States funds. The move against the dollar was sustained throughout the day.

BANKS GET DELAY FOR REPORTING ON AFFILIATES

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—(AP)—The controller of the currency today extended until Sept. 16 the time for national and state member banks to file detailed reports of all affiliates operated by them, as required under the new banking act.

The extension was granted, it was explained, by the necessity of obtaining legal opinions from the government with respect to involved questions which have arisen.

C. O. D. Policy Is the Latest in Life Insurance

The latest thing in insurance policies is a C. O. D. [cash on death] policy. A check or draft is sent to the insured when he takes out his policy. It is cashable when an undertaker and attending physician certify on the check that the latter's services are no longer needed and that the former's services are.

"It's the spirit of the thing that counts," according to a conversation overheard at a near north side eating place. "Take X company. They raised their minimum wages to $15 a week all right and put their help on a 40 hour week, but they're working their 'executives' who get more than $35 a week until 9 and 10 o'clock at night to clean up the work that the underlings don't have time to do during their 40 hour week."

* *

"The back to the horse" movement earlier this year, with less emphasis placed on motorizing of farms, appears to have received a considerable setback owing to the drastic drop in oats production this year. The latter crop was expected to displace gasoline on many farms. Drought and heat combined to cut the yield of oats to such an extent that it promises to be only 50 per cent of the average consumption of the last 10 years.

Despite the debacle in the grain markets late in July which carried wheat off around 30 cents and corn 20 cents in two days, the general public is said to be showing more interest in the crop outlook than in the stock market. A solicitor for one of the leading brokerage houses, primarily handling stocks, said yesterday that 65 per cent of his total business was in grains.

INFLATION TALK WON'T DOWN, SO STOCKS MOVE UP

Roosevelt Parley on Money Buoys List.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 9.—Bullish sentiment, extracted mainly from the monetary conferences now taking place between the President and his advisers, buoyed the stock list to new price heights for the movement today.

Advances from 1 to 4 points were scored on the average by the more active trading favorites, with virtually all groups sharing in the improvement. A sprinkling of more spectacular gains included Central Railroad of New Jersey, up 17 points; New York and Harlem railway, up 11⅝; Colorado Southern, up 7½, and U. S. Industrial Alcohol, up 6¾. J. I. Case, Auburn Auto, and American Commercial Alcohol rose 5 points or more each.

The turnover mounted to around 2,566,000 shares—more than double that of yesterday.

Expect Inflation Move.

Although the day's advices on the confabs at Hyde Park made much of the contention of the so-called "sound money" element in the administration that inflation was not necessary at this stage of affairs, the speculative community seemed convinced that it would be found advisable to administer an inflationary dose sooner or later and that the development would call for a markup of stock values whenever it comes. Many have foreseen such an "emergency measure" from the first.

One bit of comment on the situation which came in for some sober consideration during the course of the day's discussion on the all important subject reminded skeptics that "insiders" admitted that if present methods fail the administration will not hesitate to invoke the extraordinary powers conferred upon it by the last congress to set about devaluing the dollar.

Motor Shares Rise.

Buying of stocks converged largely on issues which had the call in the "inflation" rally late yesterday afternoon. General Motors and Chrysler were both active in the automobile group, the last named coming close to its price before the recent break. Various pool favorites attracted attention.

The repeal victory in Arizona made the liquor issues a bit boisterous again and National Distillers, Commercial Solvents, and others shared in popular favor along with Industrial Alcohol and Commercial Alcohol.

Sugar shares increased their market value 3 to 4 points, with American Sugar Refining and Great Western Sugar leading.

Some of the rail stocks were given a whirl, including New York Central and Chesapeake and Ohio.

Chicago Offers a H(e)aven for Stock Market

BY HOWARD WOOD.

New taxes threaten to drive the New York Stock exchange out of New York. The legislature at Albany, searching for ways for New York City to patch up its enormous deficit, hit upon the ingenious idea of imposing another 4 cent per share tax on stock transfers, the proceeds of this one to go to the city.

If this tax bill were enacted it would mean that the total tax on each share of stock sold would be about 11 to 13 cents, depending upon the value of the stock. The federal government collects 4 to 5 cents per share; the state of New York gets 3 to 4 cents a share, and the city of New York would get 4 cents.

* *

This week Allen Lindley, vice president of the New York Stock exchange, and other officials have been in Albany warning the legislators that if taxes go up the stock exchange may migrate to a state where taxes are less onerous.

New Jersey hastens to urge the "big board" to move across the Hudson. Delaware has asked the exchange to come within the shelter of that state's lenient laws.

* *

According to the United States census bureau figures for 1930, the gross per capita debt of New York City was $371.67. The gross per capita debt in Chicago was $213.07.

Since 1930 New York's debt has been mounting rapidly. A recent audit by Price, Waterhouse & Co. disclosed that as of Dec. 31, 1932, the city's debt stood at more than two and a half billion dollars, an amount equal to one-tenth the present national debt and far greater than the pre-war national debt.

Chicago has begun to pare down her public expenditures. New York has not. Last year New York City, according to the auditors, had made commitments and authorizations amounting to 187 million dollars which it had no money to meet.

* *

With this tremendous debt and interest burden hanging over it, the nation's largest city will be constantly grubbing for new sources of revenue. The Stock Exchange, representing "big money," is a natural target.

In Chicago there is no tax, state or local, on the transfer of stock.

In the past the big reason for maintaining the big stock market in New York was that that city was the money center of the nation. With the passage of the new securities act and the Glass-Steagall banking act that ceased to be true. The nerve center of the banking system was transferred to Washington and the money system was definitely headed toward decentralization.

* *

The banking act of 1933, by prohibiting further payment of interest on demand deposits, has already driven out of New York hundreds of millions of dollars of out of town corporate and bank funds that had accumulated there. This money has gone back home.

The banking act also divorced the securities business from the banking business, which step is expected to release banks in New York and other

PRICE QUESTION CHECKS STEEL INDUSTRY'S RISE

Labor, Code, Fuel Also Problems.

Price quibbling between consumers and producers and the stirring up of the labor question, as a result of the national recovery program, is causing the steel industry to falter in the steady upward march which has been in progress with only slight interruption since last April.

This is the picture of the present situation in the industry sketched by Iron Age in the weekly review released yesterday.

Demand Unusually Good.

Demand continues to show surprising buoyancy for this season of the year, but is giving some indication of slackening in the face of the continued labor troubles in the Connellsville region and soaring fuel prices. Added to these complicating factors is the growing confusion arising from the application of the NRA blanket code, under which most iron and steel users must operate pending the adoption of special codes.

The industry last week operated near 57 per cent of capacity—the preceding week's rate, the review stated. It went on to say that any further recession in activity is more likely to develop out of the scarcity of fuel rather than diminishing demand. Suspension of operations at certain plants is not unlikely if the fuel shortage continues, it is said.

Buyers' Drive on Prices.

The price quarrel between users and producers is an outgrowth of the single price policy recently adopted on leading mill products. Large consumers are reported to be resisting the new schedule until the steel code is officially adopted and continue to press for concessions. The review finds in a few cases the consumers have carried their point and won the price concession, notably automobile body and steel furniture sheets. A separate Detroit base on steel bars has been temporarily reëstablished, although the steel code abolished a separate basing point there.

Producers are in no mood to make further concessions, however, because of the mounting costs of production. Costs are being boosted by the increased labor expenses resulting from the wage advance and cutting of working hours and the higher cost of fuel growing out of labor difficulties.

Furnace Coke Advances.

Furnace coke has risen from $2.50 to $2.75 a ton at Connellsville, but only a limited supply is available at the latter price and some sellers are asking $4, the magazine asserts.

Operations in the Chicago district showed an actual gain last week from 52 to well over 53 per cent of capacity, while the valley district declined to 60 per cent and other regions held steady at the preceding week's rate.

There has been a falling off in the demand from the automobile industry, but production for August motor output will exceed 200,000 units, the review declared.

There is a permanence in this company's concept of the trust relation

SINCE this company was established in 1889, its management of trust estates has been guided by a strict adherence to the spirit of the trust obligation.

To be sure, time has brought its changes. Facilities have been expanded. EGGS IN STORAGE HIGHER AGAINST NORMAL TREND

Supply of Fresh Product Exceeds Demand.

The egg market is confronted by an unusual situation, according to Samuel A. Sugar, butter and egg analyst for John F. Clark and company, commodity house. Instead of starting to withdraw eggs from storage, which is normal at this time of the year, the nation is adding to its reserve since the supply of fresh eggs is now greater than the demand. In normal years hens stop laying in large quantities about this time necessitating withdrawal from storage, he said.

Holdings of eggs in the United States as of Aug. 1, 1933, were estimated by Mr. Sugar at 9,433,000 cases. At the same date last year the holdings were at 6,431,000 cases.

Stocks Pile Up Since July.

Stocks in storage have been accumulating steadily since the latter part of July, while the release of eggs at the four leading markets not only continues to run below last year, but is averaging lower than it has in recent years, Mr. Sugar says. He points out that the weekly report of 26 cities as of Aug. 7 showed an increase in holdings of about 29,000 cases, which was an increase of about 7,000 cases over the preceding week.

This addition has increased by 85,000 cases the present reserve over that of last year for the 26 cities, breaking all previous records for storings in this period. During the week of Aug. 7, the same 26 cities withdrew 52,000 cases in 1930, 35,000 cases in 1931, and 56,000 cases in 1932.

Fresh Eggs Cheaper Than Futures.

Mr. Sugar points out that despite the constantly increasing surplus the price of fresh eggs is under that of October storage eggs. This, he says, is due in part to purchases by the public in anticipation of inflation.

"Usually under normal conditions during August, October storage eggs are no higher than fresh gathered firsts in carlots and often times in August the prices of fresh eggs usually begin advancing above the price of storage eggs," Mr. Sugar stated. "Friday's close on October storage eggs was 17¾ cents a dozen and fresh gathered firsts in car lots were quoted a 12¾ cents per dozen."

With the October option selling around 17¾ cents, it means a retail price of about 25 cents to 30 cents a dozen to consumers if the present price is held up.

Holdover Like 1931.

"The present storage holdings of eggs in the United States are now about the same as in 1931, of which the carry-over sold as low as 8 and 9 cents a dozen in the winter of 1932," Mr. Sugar remarked. "It was necessary to can a considerable portion of the 1931 crop because it could not be disposed of in the shell due to fresh winter production."

Among the reasons for the increase in the egg surplus and the diminishing consumption, according to Mr. Sugar, are the following:

In the last few years the farm population of the United States has increased over 1,000,000, according to agriculture figures, taking 1,000,000 consumers from the cities; increased flocks because of the high prices which were outlandish for eggs last fall; increased backyard poultry raising because of the depression.

Oshkosh Overall to Pay Initial Dividend of $1

Oshkosh Overall company has declared an initial quarterly dividend of $1 a share. Distribution of $2.50 on the preferred stock was also authorized. The preferred payment clears up accumulations and includes the 50 cents due Sept. 1. The company was formed in 1929 as successor to old firm of same corporate name.

EASTMAN WARNS ROADS AGAINST REDUCING LABOR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—Announcing a net gain of 65,268 in railroad employment in the last seventy days, Federal Coördinator of Transportation Joseph B. Eastman today issued a sharp warning to railroad managements against attempts to evade the labor protection provisions of the new railroad act.

At the same time Mr. Eastman submitted to the recently created regional coördinating committee six specific projects for eliminating waste and duplication in the services and facilities of the carriers. All of the projects, he said, could be carried out by two or more roads together without violating the labor clause of the railroad bill. The law provides, he pointed out, that the number of railway workers cannot be reduced as the result of any action taken under the authority of its provisions.

Changes Come Under Act.

Any harmonization of services or elimination of facilities effected by the regional committees, Mr. Eastman declared, would be regarded as having been effected under the railroad act and would be subject to the labor restriction.

The carriers' voluntary creation of "special" committees throughout the country to work along the same lines as the official coördinating committee bore the earmarks, he asserted, of an attempt to frustrate the intent of the labor protection section.

"It seems obvious," he said, "that there would have been no object in having two sets of committees designed for much the same purpose except for the labor restrictions of section 7 [B]. It is, of course, important that entire good faith should be maintained with the President and congress, whose will is reflected in section 7 [B], and that anything which savors of evasion should be avoided.

Urges Helping Labor.

"This country," Mr. Eastman continued, "is now engaged in a great and concentrated effort to pull itself out of the mire of depression by increasing employment, lifting purchasing power, increasing production and sustaining it through the force of greater consumption. At such a time it may be well that projects for economy at the expense of labor should be postponed. Such a postponement need not and should not prevent the survey and search for all possible economies in railroad operation, upon which we have embarked."

Mr. Eastman ruled that the special committees set up by the railroads must work under the regional committees created under the provisions of the railroad act.

The economy projects recommended to the regional committees by the coordinator were unification or joint use of [1] terminal facilities, [2] shops, and [3] other facilities, such as power plants, storehouses, etc., and the consolidation or pooling of traffic or train service, freight or passenger; the consolidation of other services, and the discontinuance of circuitous or otherwise uneconomical routes.

HOLDS RAIL ACT DOES NOT CURB POWER OF I. C. C.

Amarillo, Tex., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Federal Judge James C. Wilson ruled today that the authority of the interstate commerce commission to pass on rates and routes of shipments has not been "repealed or amended" by the emergency railroad transportation act.

In a suit of the Quanah, Acme and Pacific railroad to enjoin the Santa Fé from enforcement of a tariff filed June 1 under provisions of the interstate commerce act Judge Wilson held that a federal court was without jurisdiction. He ordered a temporary restraining order dissolved, with instructions to the plaintiff to proceed before the I. C. C. The matter is before the commission, the action having been filed as a test.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Raw sugar was firmer today and spot prices advanced 5 points to the basis of 3.50. At this level 20,000 bags of Puerto Rican were sold to a refiner for late August shipment.

Cuban holders were not offering, owing to inability to guarantee shipments because of the unsettled political and labor conditions in that country.

After recovering early losses, futures reacted under commission house selling with the market closing 1 to 2 points net lower. Sales totaled 10,900 tons. The range follows:

There was no change in the refined situation with refiners listing at 4.70c and second hands available at 4.50c. Withdrawals were fair, and new business light.

AVERAGE PRICE OF HOGS RISES DESPITE SPREAD

Lighter Animals Wanted; Heavies Lower.

A mild recovery in the wholesale market for lightweight pork loins, coupled with a letup in receipts and rather sharp gains in grains, yesterday stimulated buying in the light and medium weight hogs at 5 to 10 cents higher prices.

Heavy butcher grades, however, continued to drag, with the trade for 300 pound averages and heavier types closing sticky and in places as much as 5 to 10 cents under the average of the preceding session. Hogs weighing under 250 pounds moved readily to all interests at the early upturn, several carloads of selected 210 to 230 pound averages bringing the $4.60 top, the highest mark since last Friday. Packing sows shared in the rise, 300 to 500 pound averages selling largely at $3.25 to $3.70.

Heavy Butchers Lower.

A vulnerable spot in the trade was found in the 325 to 400 pound butchers when a number of these came on the market during the afternoon and cashed slowly at $3.70 to $3.85, against $3.75 to $3.90 on Tuesday. The general average price for the whole day at $4.15 showed 5 cents gain.

There is a tendency to further widen the price spread, which is at the widest point since last September, the top and average showing a 45 cents spread. A month ago these two prices were only 10 cents apart.

Since last March hog receipts at all leading markets have been running much heavier than in 1932. The slaughter for the entire country under federal inspection for May, June and July this year at 12,826,926, compared with 10,061,986 for the same months in 1932, an increase of 2,764,940 hogs, or 27 per cent.

The cattle slaughter for this period totaled 2,220,633 this year, against 1,867,702 a year ago. The sheep slaughter at 4,393,977, compared with 4,356,278 for the same three months in 1932.

Cattle Prices Higher.

Demand for cattle broadened yesterday and prices managed a slight recovery, some getting back 10 to 15 cents of the recent losses. A load of steers that were the grand champion feeders at the Ak-Sar-Ben show at Omaha, Neb., topped yesterday's fat steer market at $7.40, going within 20 cents of the 1933 high mark. They averaged 1,445 pounds and sold to Swift. The next highest price for heavy steers was $7, paid for 1,500 pound beeves. Choice 1,166 pound medium weights reached $7.10.

Several loads of extremely heavy cattle were in the pens. One shipment of 10 that averaged 1,777 pounds brought $5.75. The day's bulk sold at $5.75 to $6.85.

Lambs met another buoyant trade and prices swung upwards mostly 25 cents, with the close within 25 cents of the highest point in two years. Closely sorted natives to packers soared to $8.50 on last rounds. Range lambs sold at $8.25 and under, while yearlings at $5.85 showed 10 cents upturn.

RUSSIAN AGENCY WARNS AGAINST "INSIDE" DEALS

New York, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The Amtorg Trading corporation and the American-Russian Chamber of Commerce within the last few days have warned business men against persons who represent themselves as having an "inside track" on soviet sales, it was learned tonight.

The warning was necessitated by the increased interest in trade with Russia caused in part by the soviet cotton loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation and the current negotiations for further loans to finance sales to the U. S. S. R.

Both Amtorg, the soviet business agency in the United States, and the chamber of commerce, an organization sponsored by American industrialists, have received dozens of inquiries about such "intermediaries." The inquiries have increased in volume since the disclosure of several days ago that the soviet union is sending 41 technicians to the United States to "shop around" for materials.

URGE HOGS BE CUT 5 MILLION BY BONUS PLAN

Washington, D. C., Aug. 8.—(AP)—A program to cut down the nation's hog population by as much as 5,000,000 took form today at a conference of corn and hog producers. It was held preliminary to a formal meeting tomorrow of producers and packers called here by farm administrators.

The program contemplates the payment of bonuses to farmers marketing about 4,000,000 pigs weighing up to 100 pounds and as many as 1,000,000 sows during the next six weeks. It is designed to meet what was described as an emergency facing hog producers because of this year's feed shortage.

The drought in the corn belt and grain growing areas indicates the smallest aggregate harvest of grains in years. The hog population remains high, and the crop of pigs last spring was greater than normal.

PACKERS SELL LARD BUT PRICES MOVE HIGHER

Interest in provisions was slightly broader on the part of the commission houses, who had fairbuying, while packers were moderate sellers, although their offerings were well absorbed. At the last lard futures were 25 to 32½ cents higher and spot lard was up 25 cents to $6.10 for regular, with loose $5.42½ and leaf at $5.37½.

Bellies for future deliveries closed unchanged to 5 points higher and spot market was steady at $7.00.

Liverpool lard was mostly stronger. There were exports of 17,835 pounds of lard and 7,040 pounds of bacon. Prices follow:

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Renewed efforts to close a deal whereby soviet Russia would purchase 1,000,000 bales of American cotton began today following an unexpectedly high government forecast of a 12,314,000 bale crop.

The soviet representatives approached the Reconstruction Finance corporation recently with an offer to buy the approximately 1,000,000 bales if the corporation in turn would arrange t osupply about $50,000,000 as a six year loan to finance the transaction.

The belief of farm adjustment administration officials and cotton trade representatives that Russia offers the only outlet for any considerable quantity of the surplus of American cotton has quickened the attempt to clear away difficulties which have prevented consummation of the trade.

Consider Export Groups.

Also, the various industrial and agricultural groups are considering setting up export organizations to which the Reconstruction Finance corporation could lend money to finance exports to Russia.

The cotton offer was made through the Amtorg corporation, soviet commercial agency in this country. The Reconstruction Finance corporation took the attitude that the cotton transaction would in reality be an internal loan to Russia, since the Russian government in turn would sell the finished product to its citizens.

The corporation may not lend directly to foreign governments or their agencies. The resale of about $4,000,000 worth of cotton to Russia was financed, however, by the corporation through loans to American exporters. The loans, in reality, were guaranteed by the soviet government.

Discuss Indirect Loan.

In the event the Reconstruction Finance corporation should turn down the Russian cotton loan it is possible for the farm adjustment administration to arrange such financing on its own account. The administration is given broad powers under the farm act. It may draw on the treasury for funds needed to help finance export sales, although Secretary Wallace has indicated he would oppose such a policy unless the emergency were grave.

The unreceptive attitude of the corporation led to a temporary lull where the cotton sale was concerned, but intermediaries are taking the case back, now that the cotton report has shown a normal crop is to be expected.
